Frisco Cops, Gobs Clash But Major Riot Averted

Six Men Injured In Dock Scuffle

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Rioting erupted on the San Francisco waterfront this afternoon, but prompt police action prevented a major riot between some 1,400 backers of bitter labor rivals Harry Lundeberg and Harry Bridges.

Riot clubs and improvised weapons were swung when a hastily-gathered line of policemen headed off a mass march of some 1,100 of Lundeberg's AFL sailors against Bridges-backed independent stewards picketing the passenger ship Aleutian.

Six men were hurt in the clash, fought in a drizzling rain, but the continuing arrival of police reinforcements armed with tear gas and riot guns gave weight to the arguments of cooler heads.

Five Men Arrested

Five men were arrested, one for carrying a concealed pistol.

It was the second flareup of the day on the waterfront near the berth of the Aleutian, center of a jurisdictional dispute between Lundeberg's AFL Marine Cooks and Stewards Union and the independent National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards, which is in the process of being incorporated into Bridges' independent left-wing International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

Earlier in the day, an AFL attempt to break through the picket line was disrupted by police after a brief slugging scuffle in which three men, one an AFL attorney, were hurt. None of the injuries was serious.

Union March Stemmed

Later in the afternoon, AFL members massed at their union hall and began a march toward the Aleutian, 2½ miles away.

Alerted to the march, Police Chief Michael Gaffey put in a riot call for all available reinforcements and personally joined some 60 officers then at Pier 39. He deployed the police in a line across the 250-foot wide street at Pier 35, two berths away from the Aleutian, and waited the arrival of the marchers.

When the marchers hit the police line, the union men surged forward for a moment, but the police held. Another brief rush and night sticks and timbers came into play. Singling out the most active, officers subdued them and rushed them to nearby patrol wagons. All the time, police reinforcements spilled from cars and motorcycles.

U. S. Asks Talks With Gouzenko

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The Canadian government was asked by the U. S. State Department today to arrange for an interview between Igor Gouzenko and members of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

Gouzenko has given statements to newspapers in the last few days saying he has decided not to be questioned by the subcommittee, but the State Department said it had received no official word to this effect.

Accordingly, it delivered to the Canadian Embassy a note asking that both Chairman Jenner (R-Ind) and subcommittee Counsel Robert Morris be allowed to interview Gouzenko, under Canadian auspices.

The note made clear that Jenner's group would abide by Canada's decision as to what, if any parts of Gouzenko's testimony could be made public. Jenner previously had objected to this stipulation, but agreed to it after Secretary of State Dulles refused to ask Canadian authorities to alter their stand.

N. Y. Streets Cleaner Due To News Strike

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Sanitation Commissioner Andrew W. Mulrain, after a personal survey today, said he "never saw the streets look cleaner."

Mulrain estimated at least 25 per cent improvement in the appearance of the streets, due to the absence of discarded newspapers as a result of the newspaper strike here.

Request Stumps Cops

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 3 (AP)—Police, accustomed to receiving strange requests at times, were stumped yesterday.

A 6-year-old visitor to headquarters toured the place, looked in all the rooms—and then asked to see a murder.

GI Tells Atrocity Probe Of Getting Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — An Army sergeant who survived being shot in the back while a prisoner of war in Korea complained to Senate investigators today that Communist propaganda has been mailed to him from Florida cities.

Sgt. Berry F. Rhoden of MacClenny, Fla., testified he received the mail after making public appearances in government bond drives on his return from the war. He said the propaganda was similar to that used by North Koreans who held him prisoner briefly in September, 1950.

One of the letters was grossly insulting to former President Truman, Rhoden said. He reported the mail was postmarked at Miami, Daytona Beach, St. Petersburg and other Florida points.

Shot In Back By Reds

Rhoden was one of a series of grim-faced witnesses who appeared before Sen. Potter (R-Mich) to give chapter and verse on Communist atrocities in Korea.

After he was captured on Aug. 30, 1950, Rhoden related, a Communist officer handed him a card that read, "You are about to die the most horrible kind of death".

"As I turned around, they shot me in the back," he said. "I pretended I was dead." Later, he managed, in spite of a nicked spinal cord, a punctured bladder and a cracked pelvis, to return to the American lines.

Veteran Breaks Down

A 21-year-old Army veteran, who interrupted his honeymoon to testify, broke down and sobbed as he told how he saw "my buddies getting murdered with their hands tied behind their backs."

Roy Paul Manring Jr. of New Albany, Ind., regained his composure during a brief recess of the hearing. Then he identified an official Army photograph of the Korean ravine filled with bodies of his former buddies, saying:

"This is right where I was."

Manring later told a reporter he stopped 11 bullets fired at him during three intervals of the same day while his hands were tied behind his back.

Diver Seeking World's Record Presumed Lost

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 3 (AP)—A 52-year-old Miami attorney trying to break the world's free swimming diving record disappeared today beneath the choppy waters of the Atlantic and was presumed lost.

The attorney, Hope Root, entered the water at 12:27 p.m. (EST) and at 1:27 p.m. had not returned to the surface. It was believed his supply of compressed air had long been exhausted.

Root had planned to go down to a depth of 410 feet. The present record of 306 feet was set in the Mediterranean. One diver went 396 feet but was dead when he returned to the surface.

Root was wearing a mask and fins and carried a compressed air tank on his back.

Allies Speed Up POW Interviews But Draw Blank

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Dec. 4 (AP)—Allied explainers speeded up their "come home" talks to the third group of South Korean war captives today but failed to budge any of the converts to communism.

The first 12 of 30 South Korean interviewed chose to remain with the Reds.

The South Korean explainers abandoned the tape recordings of patriotic and folk songs and voices of relatives which had failed to win back any of their countrymen interviewed on the first two days.

Instead they concentrated on short, to-the-point explanations. A typical one lasted 10 minutes, in contrast to some of several hours on previous days.

Efforts To Settle N. Y. Newspaper Walkout Futile

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—A federal mediator tonight reported "no progress" toward settling New York City's six-day-old newspaper strike. Further negotiations were adjourned until tomorrow.

The report was issued by Federal Mediator Walter A. Maggiolo following 2½ hours of fruitless talks.

Maggiolo said the next session would be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

There was no comment on the situation from officials of the AFL Photo-Engravers Union, whose strike shut down the newspapers, or from employers' representatives.

Mediation Panel At Work

Today's discussions followed a federal government attempt to help end the walkout by setting up a special three-man mediation panel.

The panel went to work immediately, but its first efforts were to no avail.

The strike of 400 AFL photo-engravers went into its sixth day, with 5½ million regular readers denied a single major New York daily for the first time in history.

Major radio and television stations reported money rolling in from advertisers, denied their usual newspaper space and scrambling madly to place their advertising message on the airlanes.

"Everybody from banks to delicatessens is trying to get into the act," remarked one radio spokesman.

Retail Sales Slump

Nevertheless, retail sales reportedly were slumping and merchants loaded down with Christmas wares were frankly upset over the continuance of the strike.

The renewed negotiations began with the photo-engravers still deadlocked over wages and fringe benefits with the six struck papers—the morning Times, News and Mirror, and the afternoon Post, Journal-American and World-Telegram and Sun.

Deer Invades Home, Breaks Two Windows

ARLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 3 (AP)—An uninvited deer paid C. Paige Heald a visit today and as a result Heald is two windows poorer.

The buck bounced through a window, tore down a hall and leaped out a bedroom window on the opposite side of the house. It ran off without so much as a scratch.

Sugar Pills "Help" Some, Make Others Feel Worse

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3 (AP) — Plain sugar pills can actually make some people feel sicker and others feel better, a new study pointed out today.

And this power-of-suggestion effect can be a booby-trap in testing any new drug, said Dr. Stewart Wolf, University of Oklahoma School of Medicine.

It explains why you may hear that some new drug looks pretty good from first tests on humans. Later it turns out the drug really doesn't do much, and it is abandoned.

The funny effects of sugar pills in humans showed up clearly in an experiment described to the American Medical Assn.

The guinea pigs were 31 patients suffering mainly from tension and anxiety. Some had muscle pains, headaches, sweating, or other complaints.

Dr. Wolf was testing for a drug firm whether a certain drug, tolserol, would help relieve anxiety and tension. The firm supplied pills of this drug and other pills, made of sugar, which looked exactly the same.

The patients were told they would get a drug which might relieve tension and muscle pains. For two weeks, they took daily pills from one batch, for the next two weeks pills from another batch. The doctors dispensing the pills didn't know which batches were tolserol and which sugar pills. Code numbers held that secret.

After eight two-week periods, the sugar pills turned out to be about as good, or bad, as the real drug in the dosage given.

From 20 to 30 per cent of patients said they felt better, from either kind of pill. Fifty to 70 per cent felt no change, and 10 to 20 per cent said they felt worse.

Ike Will Fly To Bermuda Parley Today

Churchill, Laniel Line Up Argument To Support Views

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda, Dec. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Joseph Laniel separately lined up arguments today to convince President Eisenhower on policies they believe the Allies should follow to promote a new phase in East-West relations.

A closer alignment of Western aims and actions clearly is the goal of each of the Big Three, who will open what may prove to be a historic parley on this British island colony in the Atlantic late tomorrow.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers—U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, Anthony Eden of Britain and Georges Bidault of France—are to set the stage with a preliminary meeting a few hours after Eisenhower's party arrives from Washington tomorrow noon (11 a.m. EST).

Troops To Stand Guard

Then Churchill, as host, Eisenhower and Laniel will take seats at a huge mahogany round table set up in the conference room of the plush Mid-Ocean Club, sealed off from kibitzers, cranks and any would-be spies by British tommy-gunners manning road blocks and barbed wire barricades outside.

Churchill and Eden, with a team of 28, flew in from Britain yesterday. Laniel and Bidault, with 25 advisers, arrived from Paris today as representatives of a government that will resign automatically in mid-January after France installs a new president.

Each Has Problem

Judging by private and public statements of the American, British and French participants, each of the leaders will seek conference decision in line with national interests. In many major fields, the interests of the three converge. But in some they seem to diverge.

The United States, for instance, would like the talks to spur the West's lagging buildup against any threat of further Communist aggression.

The changing international scene has led Britain to believe closer coordination of Allied policies in Asia is essential immediately.

France is concerned particularly about Indochina and the projected rearming of West Germans in the six-nation European Defense Community.

Robert Condon Linked To Reds

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 (AP)—A former Communist told the House Un-American Activities Committee today that he met Robert L. Condon, now a California Democratic congressman, in 1948 at "a closed emergency meeting of Communist party members."

The witness, Charles D. Blodgett of Chicago, said it was a joint meeting of the Communist party political affairs committee for Alameda and Contra Costa Counties in 1948 at the East Oakland home of Gordon Williams, whom he also identified as a Communist.

Condon, for security reasons, was denied admittance earlier this year to a Las Vegas, Nev., atomic test, but he denied being a Communist.

Blodgett said the purpose of the meeting was to "more or less influence the content of the political campaign of the Democratic candidates." He said this was done by running candidates named Morris for Congress on both the Democratic and Progressive party tickets against Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif).

"I was a little surprised to see Condon, because he himself was a candidate for office and I thought it was a little risky," Blodgett testified.

Truman Says Israel, Arabs Must Negotiate

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said tonight that Israel and its Arab neighbors must sit down and negotiate their dfferences.

Unless they do, he declared, "the present condition of smoldering violence will lead to graver dangers and new disaster."

Truman told a dinner meeting of the American Committee for the Weizmann Institute of Science in a prepared speech:

"We should, therefore, do all we can to get the parties to bargain. And we should make it clear that we are concerned to see that justice is done."

Sailors Clash With Police

Police officers drag a man away during a wild battle between some 1,000 AFL sailors and police on the Embarcadero in San Francisco yesterday. The free-for-all started when the sailors sought to break through police lines to get at independent union members picketing a pier where the SS Aleutian is tied up.

Assembly Condemns Communist Atrocities

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—The U. N. Assembly today approved an American-backed resolution condemning atrocities by any government and expressing "grave concern" at reports of Red atrocities in Korea. The Russians protested with cries of "fake" and "libel."

The final vote was 42-5 with only the Russian bloc opposing the resolution. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, said the verdict proved true the American charges that Communist Chinese and North Koreans, acting on a conscious policy laid down by the Communists, tortured or killed 38,000 U.N. soldiers and Korean civilians.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Russian deputy foreign minister, made a further assault on the American case after the vote. He denounced it as "a falsification, a fake and utterly spurious." He assailed the resolution as libelous and hypocritical.

Official Roll Call

Here is the official roll call on the resolution submitted by the United States, Britain, France, Australia and Turkey;

For (42): Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, Iran, Israel, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Sweden, Thailand, Turkey, South Africa, Britain, United States, Uruguay and Venezuela.

India's delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon, said "not participating" when the roll was called. He had announced at the beginning of the debate that India would not take part because India is chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission now trying to dispose of prisoners of war in Korea.

The source said an Iranian note is on its way to the British Foreign Office.

Nine Persons Die As Tornado Hits Louisiana

Another 20 were injured in Louisiana, and 14 injured in Mississippi when an early morning storm struck a rural area.

Homes and barns were ripped to firewood.

The Mississippi storm hit in the delta country north of Vicksburg, about 150 miles northeast of Aexandria.

Demolished and damaged homes and barns marked the northeasterly arc of the storm. Beginning in the Leander area, it brushed the outskirts of Alexandria, hit Paradise, Dry Prong and Tullos.

LaSalle Parish officials said at least 20 houses were destroyed or damaged at Tullos.

Berle Ready For 3rd Venture In Matrimony

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Television comedian Milton Berle took out a license today for his third venture in matrimony.

The 46-year-old showman set next Wednesday as the date for his marriage to 32-year-old Ruth Cosgrove, a brunette who also has been married twice before.

When the time came to pay the $3 fee for the license, Berle peeled two one-dollar bills off a roll of currency and turned to his bride-to-be:

"Ruth, give me a dollar. This is forever, so pay your share."

Miss Cosgrove smiled — just smiled. Berle went to the roll for another dollar.

Risks Of Strapless Gowns Are Wearers', Judge Rules

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—A judge today ruled that a woman who exposes herself in low-cut strapless evening gown must accept the hazards—and pay the dressmaker.

What's more, Judge Wilfrid Clother further ruled in Lambeth County Court, the buyer of the dress must be prepared to put up with a considerable amount of discomfort and even support the bodice by hand, if necessary.

The judge made his observations in ruling against two women who had strapless gowns made for them to wear at a wedding where they were matrons of honor. The dressmaker sued for payment. The two women counter-claimed for damages contending the gowns were not properly made.

After seeing one of the gowns, the judge said:

"It is apparent to me that the gown is only supported by reason of the fact that it is so shaped to take fullest advantage of the bust.

"It must seem to anyone that such support is precarious. It is meant to attract men, and a lady who selects such a dress must be prepared to put up with a considerable amount of discomfort. She must even be prepared to support the bodice by hand, if necessary."

He ruled he could see no ground for complaint and ruled in favor of the dressmaker.

Urges People 'Write To Ike' Backing Stand

Senator Denies Any Idea Of Challenging Party's Leadership

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), disowning any idea of challenging President Eisenhower's leadership, called today for a nationwide "Write the President" campaign designed to reverse one phase of Eisenhower foreign policy.

Speaking out within 24 hours after Eisenhower warned against "coercion" of America's allies, McCarthy requested all who agree with his views to write or wire the President asking him to halt what McCarthy termed the "blood trade" with Red China.

McCarthy said he is in "complete disagreement" with Secretary of State Dulles on the question of continued aid to countries trading with the Chinese Communists.

120 Telegrams Received

Dulles' stand, as set forth at his news conference on Tuesday, is that U. S. dollar aid to friendly nations "does not give us the right to dictate their trade policies."

The President backed Dulles to the hilt at his own news conference yesterday and cautioned that "the easiest thing to do with great power is to abuse it."

At 8:30 p.m., Murray Snyder, the President's assistant press secretary, said that up to that time about 120 telegrams had been received.

Asked if they all supported McCarthy's stand, Snyder said:

"No, they are not all one way by any means, but we will have to wait until tomorrow to get a breakdown."

There was no comment from the President.

Reacting to double-barreled rebuffs from the President and Dulles, McCarthy issued a 600-word statement in which he:

Not Challenging Ike

1. Scoffed at suggestions that he was challenging Eisenhower's party leadership. "Ridiculous and untrue," he said.

2. Refused to retreat an inch from the previous stands with which the administration disagreed.

3. Called on Dulles to "reappraise our whole policy" toward allies trading with Red China.

It was in a nationwide radio-TV speech on Nov. 24 that McCarthy aroused the current furore over U. S. foreign policy and drew answering fire from both Dulles and the President.

Among other things, McCarthy demanded that the United States set up a free-world embargo against Red China by warning this country's allies—notably Britain—that U. S. dollar aid would be cut with the Chinese Communists.

Nixon Unable To Sway Indians

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 3 (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon tried before a joint session of Parliament tonight—without a notable response—to explain American foreign policies the Indians do not accept.

Indian leaders made it clear they do not intend to abandon their neutrality or markedly change their international views.

Aware of concern here over the influence of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), Nixon told parliament President Eisenhower will make U.S. foreign policy "and you can be sure the President will be supported overwhelmingly by the majority of the people."

The visiting American official, Eisenhower's envoy on an Asian tour, emphasized that the President, who acts with the help of key advisers, is trying to insure peace by maintaining sufficient military strength "to keep men of the Communist nations from thinking they can start a war and win it."

Americans "believe Communist colonialism is still colonialism," Nixon said. "We intend to stand with the free nations in resisting that type of colonialism and (to help) other peoples rid themselves of colonialism of the past."

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 3 (AP) — Plain sugar pills can actually make some people feel sicker and others feel better, a new study pointed out today.

And this power-of-suggestion effect can be a booby-trap in testing any new drug, said Dr. Stewart Wolf, University of Oklahoma School of Medicine.

It explains why you may hear that some new drug looks pretty good from first tests on humans. Later it turns out the drug really doesn't do much, and it is abandoned.

The funny effects of sugar pills in humans showed up clearly in an experiment described to the American Medical Assn.

The guinea pigs were 31 patients suffering mainly from tension and anxiety. Some had muscle pains, headaches, sweating, or other complaints.

Dr. Wolf was testing for a drug firm whether a certain drug, tolserol, would help relieve anxiety and tension. The firm supplied pills of this drug and other pills, made of sugar, which looked exactly the same.

The patients were told they would get a drug which might relieve tension and muscle pains. For two weeks, they took daily pills from one batch, for the next two weeks pills from another batch. The doctors dispensing the pills didn't know which batches were tolserol and which sugar pills. Code numbers held that secret.

After eight two-week periods, the sugar pills turned out to be about as good, or bad, as the real drug in the dosage given.

From 20 to 30 per cent of patients said they felt better, from either kind of pill. Fifty to 70 per cent felt no change, and 10 to 20 per cent said they felt worse.

Ike Will Fly To Bermuda Parley Today

Churchill, Laniel Line Up Argument To Support Views

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda, Dec. 3 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Joseph Laniel separately lined up arguments today to convince President Eisenhower on policies they believe the Allies should follow to promote a new phase in East-West relations.

A closer alignment of Western aims and actions clearly is the goal of each of the Big Three, who will open what may prove to be a historic parley on this British island colony in the Atlantic late tomorrow.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers—U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, Anthony Eden of Britain and Georges Bidault of France—are to set the stage with a preliminary meeting a few hours after Eisenhower's party arrives from Washington tomorrow noon (11 a.m. EST).

Troops To Stand Guard

Then Churchill, as host, Eisenhower and Laniel will take seats at a huge mahogany round table set up in the conference room of the plush Mid-Ocean Club, sealed off from kibitzers, cranks and any would-be spies by British tommy-gunners manning road blocks and barbed wire barricades outside.

Churchill and Eden, with a team of 28, flew in from Britain yesterday. Laniel and Bidault, with 25 advisers, arrived from Paris today as representatives of a government that will resign automatically in mid-January after France installs a new president.

Each Has Problem

Judging by private and public statements of the American, British and French participants, each of the leaders will seek conference decision in line with national interests. In many major fields, the interests of the three converge. But in some they seem to diverge.

The United States, for instance, would like the talks to spur the West's lagging buildup against any threat of further Communist aggression.

The changing international scene has led Britain to believe closer coordination of Allied policies in Asia is essential immediately.

France is concerned particularly about Indochina and the projected rearming of West Germans in the six-nation European Defense Community.

Robert Condon Linked To Reds

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3 (AP)—A former Communist told the House Un-American Activities Committee today that he met Robert L. Condon, now a California Democratic congressman, in 1948 at "a closed emergency meeting of Communist party members."

The witness, Charles D. Blodgett of Chicago, said it was a joint meeting of the Communist party political affairs committee for Alameda and Contra Costa Counties in 1948 at the East Oakland home of Gordon Williams, whom he also identified as a Communist.

Condon, for security reasons, was denied admittance earlier this year to a Las Vegas, Nev., atomic test, but he denied being a Communist.

Blodgett said the purpose of the meeting was to "more or less influence the content of the political campaign of the Democratic candidates." He said this was done by running candidates named Morris for Congress on both the Democratic and Progressive party tickets against Rep. George P. Miller (D-Calif).

"I was a little surprised to see Condon, because he himself was a candidate for office and I thought it was a little risky," Blodgett testified.

Truman Says Israel, Arabs Must Negotiate

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman said tonight that Israel and its Arab neighbors must sit down and negotiate their differences.

Unless they do, he declared, "the present condition of smoldering violence will lead to graver dangers and new disaster."

Truman told a dinner meeting of the American Committee for the Weizmann Institute of Science in a prepared speech:

"We should, therefore, do all we can to get the parties to bargain. And we should make it clear that we are concerned to see that justice is done."

Sailors Clash With Police

Police officers drag a man away during a wild battle between some 1,000 AFL sailors and police on the Embarcadero in San Francisco yesterday. The free-for-all started when the sailors sought to break through police lines to get at independent union members picketing a pier where the SS Aleutian is tied up.

Assembly Condemns Communist Atrocities

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—The U. N. Assembly today approved an American-backed resolution condemning atrocities by any government and expressing "grave concern" at reports of Red atrocities in Korea. The Russians protested with cries of "fake" and "libel."

The final vote was 42-5 with only the Russian bloc opposing the resolution. Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief American delegate, said the verdict proved true the American charges that Communist Chinese and North Koreans, acting on a conscious policy laid down by the Communists, tortured or killed 38,000 U.N. soldiers and Korean civilians.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Russian deputy foreign minister, made a further assault on the American case after the vote. He denounced it as "a falsification, a fake and utterly spurious." He assailed the resolution as libelous and hypocritical.

Official Roll Call

Here is the official roll call on the resolution submitted by the United States, Britain, France, Australia and Turkey;

For (42): Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Ethiopia, France, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Iceland, Iran, Israel, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Philippines, Sweden, Thailand, Turkey, South Africa, Britain, United States, Uruguay and Venezuela.

El Salvador and Lebanon were absent.

India's delegate, V. K. Krishna Menon, said "not participating" when the roll was called. He had announced at the beginning of the debate that India would not take part because India is chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission now trying to dispose of prisoners of war in Korea.

The source said an Iranian note is on its way to the British Foreign Office.

The source added the move is considered by the government of Premier Fazollah Zahedi as a test of British good faith.

Nine Persons Die As Tornado Hits Louisiana

Another 20 were injured in Louisiana, and 14 injured in Mississippi when an early morning storm struck a rural area.

Homes and barns were ripped to firewood.

Two babies were killed when the tornado ripped through Tullos, 40 miles northeast of Aexandria.

The Mississippi storm hit in the delta country north of Vicksburg, about 150 miles northeast of Aexandria.

Demolished and damaged homes and barns marked the northeasterly arc of the storm. Beginning in the Leander area, it brushed the outskirts of Alexandria, hit Paradise, Dry Prong and Tullos.

LaSalle Parish officials said at least 20 houses were destroyed or damaged at Tullos.

Berle Ready For 3rd Venture In Matrimony

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Television comedian Milton Berle took out a license today for his third venture in matrimony.

The 46-year-old showman set next Wednesday as the date for his marriage to 32-year-old Ruth Cosgrove, a brunette who also has been married twice before.

When the time came to pay the $3 fee for the license, Berle peeled two one-dollar bills off a roll of currency and turned to his bride-to-be:

"Ruth, give me a dollar. This is forever, so pay your share."

Miss Cosgrove smiled — just smiled. Berle went to the roll for another dollar.

Risks Of Strapless Gowns Are Wearers', Judge Rules

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—A judge today ruled that a woman who exposes herself in low-cut strapless evening gown must accept the hazards—and pay the dressmaker.

What's more, Judge Wilfrid Clother further ruled in Lambeth County Court, the buyer of the dress must be prepared to put up with a considerable amount of discomfort and even support the bodice by hand, if necessary.

The judge made his observations in ruling against two women who had strapless gowns made for them to wear at a wedding where they were matrons of honor. The dressmaker sued for payment. The two women counter-claimed for damages contending the gowns were not properly made.

After seeing one of the gowns, the judge said:

"It is apparent to me that the gown is only supported by reason of the fact that it is so shaped to take fullest advantage of the bust.

"It must seem to anyone that such support is precarious. It is meant to attract men, and a lady who selects such a dress must be prepared to put up with a considerable amount of discomfort. She must even be prepared to support the bodice by hand, if necessary."

He ruled he could see no ground for complaint and ruled in favor of the dressmaker.

Urges People 'Write To Ike' Backing Stand

Senator Denies Any Idea Of Challenging Party's Leadership

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), disowning any idea of challenging President Eisenhower's leadership, called today for a nationwide "Write the President" campaign designed to reverse one phase of Eisenhower foreign policy.

Speaking out within 24 hours after Eisenhower warned against "coercion" of America's allies, McCarthy requested all who agree with his views to write or wire the President asking him to halt what McCarthy termed the "blood trade" with Red China.

McCarthy said he is in "complete disagreement" with Secretary of State Dulles on the question of continued aid to countries trading with the Chinese Communists.

120 Telegrams Received

Dulles' stand, as set forth at his news conference on Tuesday, is that U. S. dollar aid to friendly nations "does not give us the right to dictate their trade policies."

The President backed Dulles to the hilt at his own news conference yesterday and cautioned that "the easiest thing to do with great power is to abuse it."

At 8:30 p.m., Murray Snyder, the President's assistant press secretary, said that up to that time about 120 telegrams had been received.

Asked if they all supported McCarthy's stand, Snyder said:

"No, they are not all one way by any means, but we will have to wait until tomorrow to get a breakdown."

There was no comment from the President.

Not Challenging Ike

1. Scoffed at suggestions that he was challenging Eisenhower's party leadership. "Ridiculous and untrue," he said.

2. Refused to retreat an inch from the previous stands with which the administration disagreed.

3. Called on Dulles to "reappraise our whole policy" toward allies trading with Red China.

It was in a nationwide radio-TV speech on Nov. 24 that McCarthy aroused the current furore over U. S. foreign policy and drew answering fire from both Dulles and the President.

Among other things, McCarthy demanded that the United States set up a free-world embargo against Red China by warning this country's allies—notably Britain—that U. S. dollar aid would be cut with the Chinese Communists.

Nixon Unable To Sway Indians

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 3 (AP)—Vice President Richard Nixon tried before a joint session of Parliament tonight—without a notable response—to explain American foreign policies the Indians do not accept.

Indian leaders made it clear they do not intend to abandon their neutrality or markedly change their international views.

Aware of concern here over the influence of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), Nixon told parliament President Eisenhower will make U.S. foreign policy "and you can be sure the President will be supported overwhelmingly by the majority of the people."

The visiting American official, Eisenhower's envoy on an Asian tour, emphasized that the President, who acts with the help of key advisers, is trying to insure peace by maintaining sufficient military strength "to keep men of the Communist nations from thinking they can start a war and win it."

Americans "believe Communist colonialism is still colonialism," Nixon said. "We intend to stand with the free nations in resisting that type of colonialism and (to help) other peoples rid themselves of colonialism of the past."

Ship Officers Strike

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 3 (AP)—Norwegian shipowners were swamped tonight by wholesale resignations of ship officers in a strike for more pay that may tie up Norway's merchant fleet around the world.

Spy Suspects Kept On Treasury Payroll Following FBI Warnings

Reports On Trio Sent White House

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Senate investigators learned today that on July 15, 1946, the White House sought and got FBI reports on three spy suspects in the Treasury—but they remained on the government payroll.

Records of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, reinforced by information from the Justice Department, showed the suspects, Victor Perlo, Solomon Adler and Harold Glasser, stayed in government service from eight months to nearly four years after the reports to the White House.

Sen. Welker (R-Ida) suggested the subcommittee should ask Clark M. Clifford, special counsel to former President Truman at the time, to explain why he requested FBI information on the trio and what he did with it.

"It seems obvious, from the record," Welker told a reporter, "that nothing was done except to promote them to higher positions in government."

The subcommittee also dug into the career of V. Frank Coe, a fourth Treasury official accused of Soviet espionage. Records show he remained with the department and then with the International Monetary Fund for more than six years after the FBI first reported on him to the White House.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) and Sen. Welker said repeatedly at today's subcommittee session—there were no witnesses—that suspected spies were retained on the government payroll, and even promoted, long after the FBI alerted high officials about them.

Perlo, Adler, Lasser and Coe all served under the late Harry Dexter White, former assistant Treasury secretary who also has been accused of serving Russia as a wartime spy. Coe and then Glasser succeeded White as director of the Treasury Department's monetary research division.

Attorney General Brownell provided ammunition for the subcommittee's hunt for Communists in government with a speech Nov. 6 accusing Truman of promoting White to be U. S. director of the International Monetary Fund in 1946 in disregard of FBI reports which Brownell said identified White as a spy.

Two Pilots Survive Sabre Jet Collision

PORT HURON, Mich., Dec. 3 (AP)—Two Air Force pilots escaped without a scratch in a spectacular belly-crash collision of their F86D Sabre jets at 23,000 feet today.

The two Selfridge Air Force Base pilots ejected themselves with automatic equipment and parachuted to safety. Their planes, plunging into open fields, were demolished.

The pilots, Capt. Henry W. Jones, 31, of Phenix City, Ala., and 2nd Lt. Robert L. Buss, 23, of Lourel, Neb., were flying in formation alone in routine training.

Jones said he signaled Buss to catch up and then went into a turn. Buss said he found himself overtaking Jones too fast and attempted to pull away.

The bellies of the planes collided.

More Women Than Ever Before In Office

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—There now are more women in Congress, in state legislatures and in other state elective offices than ever before.

This was shown today by the 1953 annual survey of "women in public service," made by the women's division of the Republican National Committee. Anne Wheaton, publicity director of the division, said the survey covered women of all party affiliations and classifications.

Bertha Adkins, division director, said the survey "reflects the ever-increasing recognition of women and their qualifications for important places in government."

She added that the Eisenhower administration already has named women to 40 important positions, some never before held by women.

Christmas Comes Early To Gale-Lashed Island

HAM, Island of Foula, Shetlands, Scotland, Dec. 3 (AP) — Christmas came early to the 149 residents of this craggy, gale-lashed North Atlantic island today.

Cut off from the outside world for 42 days because of violent storms, the islanders cheered the arrival of the mail boat Ilsnad Lass with food, fuel, tobacco and whisky.

The 30-foot steamer chugged into Foula's only landing place just as the sub-arctic night closed in.

Housewives prepared their first good meals in days. And the lights went up. Supplies of kerosene and other fuel had run out several days ago.

Death Ends Girl's Dream Of Walking

DETROIT, Dec. 3 (AP) — Janet Gray, 11, hugged a new pair of saddle shoes as another girl her age would cuddle a doll.

At night she took the shoes to bed with her, laid them on the pillow beside her pretty head. She dreamed of walking again.

Korean Parley Near Collapse

PANMUNJOM, Friday, Dec. 4 (AP)—A dispute over Russia's role in a Korean peace conference brought preliminary talks to such a complete standstill that it was apparent today only a Communist about face could get them going again.

U. S. envoy Arthur Dean again told Red negotiators yesterday that the U. N. command could never agree to seating Russia at the peace conference as a neutral.

The Reds persisted in arguing Russia is needed in such a role to help "smooth" the negotiations.

Dean told newsmen he still was "trying my best" to get the conference arranged and has not considered setting any time limit on the preliminary discussions.

More and more, these preliminary talks resemble the pattern of the two-year armistice negotiations. Yesterday Dean met for three and a half hours in an angry session with the Red negotiators and reported no apparent progress.

Russia Charges U.S. Failed To Send Home 800,000 Nazi POWs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 3 (AP)—The Soviet Union accused the United States today of failing to send home 800,000 German prisoners from World War II.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, Soviet delegate, made the accusation in the U. N. Assembly's social committee, where a West German last Friday said more then 102,000 German prisoners were known or presumed to remain, dead or alive, in the Soviet Union.

Tsarapkin charged the U. S. had got the prisoner-of-war issue put on the Assembly's agenda to poison world opinion against the Soviet Union and other Communist countries and "facilitate the armaments race and the preparations of a new war." He said the move had failed.

Pakistan Would Welcome U. S. Troops In Emergency

BONN, Germany, Dec. 3 (AP) — Abdul Qayumm Khan, Pakistan's minister of industry, said today his country would welcome the troops of any friendly country on its soil if a world emergency developed.

He was commenting on the protests by Russia and India over reports that the United States is negotiating for military bases in Pakistan. The United States has said bases are not involved in talks concerning possible military aid to Pakistan.

The minister is seeking German cooperation in Pakistan's program of developing industries.

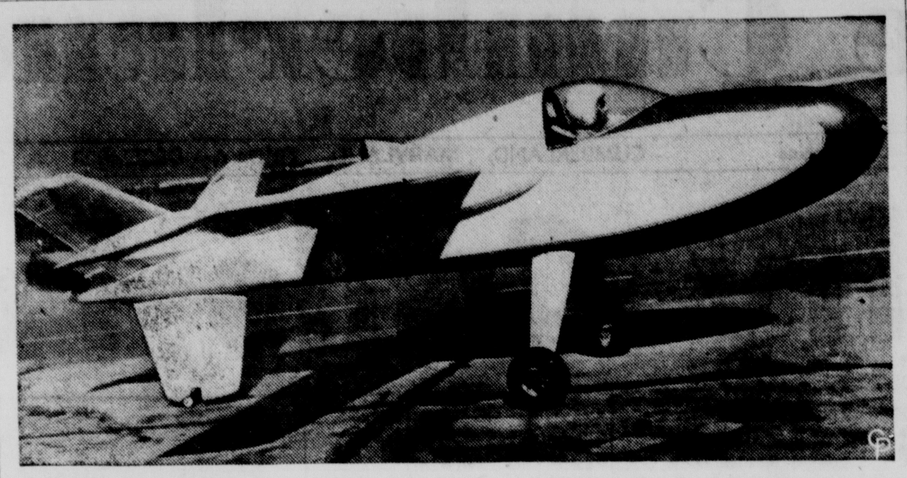
Reds Said To Have 30 Airfields In N. Korea

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP) — Gen. Samuel Anderson, commander of the 5th U. S. Air Force in Korea, was quoted today as saying the Communists now have about 30 airfields in North Korea, and that almost all of them have been constructed since the armistice.

Anderson made the statement in an interview in Seoul today with Robert Pierpoint, Far Eastern correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting System, CBS reported here.



TEST PILOT Paul Franklin is shown taxiing a radically new sports plane to a halt after taking it on its maiden flight at Los Angeles. Builders of the plane estimate its top speed at 200 miles per hour, with a cruising speed of 165 miles per hour. The sleek craft is only five and three quarter feet high, 18 feet long and 20 feet wide, with a propeller mounted on the rear of the plane. (International Soundphoto)

Pay Hike Urged To Attract Military Career Personnel

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Military career service is losing its attractiveness because of too little pay and too much criticism, a special committee of admirals and generals reported today.

"Unless the present trend of career personnel leaving the service can be reversed," they said, "most serious consequences to the national defense effort will result."

On the question of pay, the group said:

"Increases in service pay have neither approximated the increase in the cost of living nor increases afforded organized labor or even increases afforded civilian public servants. At the same time there has been an alarming decrease in compensatory benefits."

No specific increase was recommended in the report, but a committee aide told reporters that military compensation now is about 8 per cent below the cost of living index.

On the subject of criticism, the committee said it found "an unwholesome amount of irresponsible criticism of the implementation of our national military policies," and added:

"The more vociferous of critics aim their slanderous attacks at our military leaders, whom they refer to derogatorially, collectively and repeatedly as 'the brass.'

"More recently 'the brass' has been extended to connote all career military officers as a class. . . able and conscientious men will not indefinitely continue in a profession dishonored by public criticism."

Retreat From Moscow

It is unfortunate that every official note from the Soviet Union to the West has to be raked fore and aft to make certain that it contains no hidden meaning. It is also unfortunate that a better job of raking was not done in the past. Bitter experience has taught the U. S. that this is the only safe course to follow.

Acceptance by Russia of an invitation to join in a Big Four conference has been received as another phony gesture by the free world. The Russians decided the best propaganda gesture at this time was to pretend to agree to a meeting.

The gimmick in the Russian note is that on the surface it seems to impose no conditions. This merely shows the desperate nature of the Russian gesture. There is, of course, the hint that the Soviet Union has not given up the idea that Red China must eventually be admitted as an equal partner in any negotiations leading to a settlement of world affairs.

Although the new note seems to represent a retreat from the previous position taken by the Kremlin, the timing of it raises the suspicion that it is based on ulterior motives. The purpose may be to make as much trouble as possible for the French government. And it could be a calculated plan to torpedo the Bermuda conference in which the United States, Great Britain and France are to take part.

Whatever the main propaganda motive behind the Moscow note, it is clear that it is not proof that communism has changed its identifying spots.

Eugene O'Neill

By common consent Eugene O'Neill was the best playwright America ever produced. A tormented soul, whose plays many persons found offensive, he wrote as if he were tearing himself apart. He saw man as the Greek dramatists saw him, a plaything of fate, but less heroic—bewildered, harassed, twisted into deformity and ugliness, a being whose ultimate tragicomedy came from the defeat and destruction of his vague, wistful aspirations for love and goodness and heroism by powers he fought aimlessly and hopelessly.

His plays were grim and terrible. Murder, disease, suicide, economic and spiritual failure, insanity and depravity stalked through them. But his genius was so undeniable that he was awarded prizes for what they are worth — the Nobel once and the Pulitzer three times. The power of his writing brought him an international audience.

He wrote, obviously, out of some deep inner compulsion. An actor's son, who trouped with his father until he was eight, he wrote good theater. A former unsuccessful jack-of-all trades—common sailor, prospector, reporter, actor, bartender—he knew and identified himself with the noisome types he portrayed. He made their talk vivid and convincing. They breathed and lived.

His personal life was full of tragedy—divorces, suicide of a son, prolonged illness. At 65 he died, after suffering for a decade from a form of palsy which made it impossible for him to write. Perhaps no other playwright ever lived whose stage tragedies and personal torment were so indissolubly merged.

Film Pioneer

Old timers who remember the motion picture industry when it was in its infancy will regret the passing of George K. Spoor recently in Chicago.

Spoor was a partner in the Essanay Film Company, a pioneer in the motion picture industry in Chicago, which prior to World War I was the capital of the movie industry.

The Essanay was founded in 1897 by Spoor and Gilbert M. Anderson, better known as Broncho Billy Anderson. Broncho Billy was the leading cowboy actor of his day, eventually being succeeded in public appreciation by William S. Hart.

Prior to the motion picture exodus to Hollywood in 1916, the Essanay studio gained prominent recognition as one of the leading picture companies. Such stars as H. B. Walthal, Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery, Francis X. Bushman and Charles Chaplin were started on the road to success via the Essanay lot.

In an industry which has rounded out better than a half century of entertainment history, the pioneers still living are relatively few and the passing of George K. Spoor evokes nostalgic memories of the days when the motion picture was in its crude beginning.

Ruble Diplomacy

The Soviet Union is using "ruble diplomacy" in Finland for all it is worth. First, having committed aggression against Finland in 1940, she demanded heavy reparations. To meet those demands, Finland had to expand her output of goods Russia wanted and curtail wood-working and other production, thus making her economy increasingly dependent on Russia.

Finland was in no position to keep Communists out of her government. She refused Marshall Plan aid so as not to offend Russia. Her trade with Russia necessarily expanded while her trade with the West declined.

Now Finland has finished paying reparations, only to find her economy at Russia's mercy. The Soviet Union compels her, for instance, to buy more grain than she needs and even to sell back the surplus to Russia at a loss. Russia is in a position to cause an economic depression in Finland, create mass unemployment, and in the resultant crisis boost Finnish Communists into power. This, however, may not happen until Finland follows Czechoslovakia's forlorn example and moves to prevent further erosion of her independence.

Parathyroid Glands And Calcium

The parathyroids are among the smallest glands in the body. They are the size of a pea and are situated under the thyroid gland near the windpipe. Most of us have two on each side.

These glands are important because they regulate calcium metabolism which in turn affects the muscles, nerves, and bony tissues of the body. But their size and location are a bugaboo to the surgeon when operating upon the thyroid gland. When inadvertently removed the parathyroids never grow back and cannot be replaced. But the modern surgeon rarely, if ever, makes this mistake because the operation is geared to bypass these glands. Furthermore, it is only when the four glands are removed that serious consequences result; there is enough reserve function so that if one is left it is capable of carrying the usual load.

Removal of the parathyroids has the same effect as when the organs become lazy and fail to manufacture the parathyroid hormone. Underactivity leads to a depletion of calcium content of the blood and tissues. Tetany is the most common manisfestation. Lack of calcium increases irritability of the nerves and muscles, followed by painful spasms and tightness of various muscle groups. The nerves, for example, are so sensitive that if the facial nerve in front of the ear is tapped lightly with the finger, the face muscles quiver or contract. When a tourniquet is applied to the arm, the added pressure on the nerves throws the muscles of the hand into a typical spasm. The hand becomes stiff, the fingers rigid, and the thumb is drawn over toward the little finger to create a hollow in the palm. The wrist and elbow become flexed when the muscles higher on the arm contract. A similar phenomenon occurs in the lower extremities. The big toe and the heel are pulled up; the other toes go down and the sole is arched in much the same way as the hand. These spasms are indistinguishable from the leg cramps that occur to many of us at night in bed.

Calcium is needed to overcome the deficiency. Immediate relief follows an injection of the solution into the vein. But the effect is temporary; more lasting results are obtained by injecting parathyroid hormones or the synthetic super vitamin D product dihydrotachysterol. Meanwhile a diet low in calcium supplemented with large doses of vitamin D and calcium tablets is advised to keep the blood level as high as possible.

Now and then the parathyroids go berserk and become overactive. This condition is difficult to diagnose because a tumor in one of the glands is usually responsible. When this occurs, calcium metabolism is disturbed so that the chemical leaves the bone and enters the blood. In time this leads to softening of the bones, the appearance of hollow areas, and spontaneous fractures. Meanwhile the kidneys do their best to eliminate the excess calcium in the blood. The increased concentration of the mineral in the urine frequently results in stone formation. The spontaneous fractures or the kidney stones may be the initial manifestations that a parathyroid tumor exists.

TOMORROW: Infectious or viral hepatitis.

The Termite Ranch

Mr. Eisenhower says he will run the Red ants out of the Washington woodwork by next election time. That brings up more things than an auctioneer's assistant.

It means the end of the termite farming in Washington. The commies will join Lot's wife in the cruise up salt creek.

Most important is the argument propounded by this Guttenburg slagheap that anybody who hid behind the Fifth Amendment was as pink as granulated eyelids.

The amended ambush is the line, "Nor shall he be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself."

This rider was a postscript to the preamble. It was adopted four years after the original seven articles were ratified in 1787. It proved to be a recipe for treason, a synopsis for chicanery and blueprints for evasion.

Why shouldn't you be compelled to be a witness against yourself? In the second of the seven ages of man you do it when you bring your school report home. Wow!

You're a witness against yourself when you get caught with your hand in the cookie jar. When the doctor makes you stick out your tongue you are waving the white flag.

When a man gets married he is a witness against himself. Why do you think the bride stashes that happy subpoena in the fireproof hope chest?

Aren't you a witness against yourself when you fill out that income tax blank on March fifteenth?

When you lay down that bobtailed straight aren't you turning state's evidence? When the coppers make you walk that chalk line in the station-house you are your own worst witness.

Fact is we go through life blowing the whistle on ourselves. How many times have you been nixed for insurance when the doctor's stehoscope blew a fuse?

Let the amendment stand. But make the Commies toe the mark with their chins.

U. S. Ambassadors Warned That McCarthy Must Be Put In Place; Ike's Ad Lib Remarks On Farming Cause White House Headaches

WASHINGTON—Secretary John Foster Dulles' blast at Senator McCarthy was made only after the most careful consideration and after the State Department had asked American ambassadors all over the world to cable reaction to the McCarthy-Harry Dexter White-Truman controversy.

When a summary of these cables was placed before the President he was so shocked that he instructed the National Security Council to make a study of what could be done abroad to counteract the unfavorable publicity.

Without exception, every ambassador cabled that American prestige had hit a new level by the combined attack on ex-President Truman by the Eisenhower administration and the subsequent attack on the Eisenhower administration by McCarthy.

Some presidential advisers, such as Gen. Wilton Persons, didn't want the administration to tangle with McCarthy, thought he should be ignored, not answered. Others, however, sided with Dulles and the State Department, felt that a blunt statement must be made showing that American foreign policy was being dictated by the administration, not by the senator from Wisconsin. Hence the Dulles statement.

Ike On Farming

Some of the White House staff have been trying to figure ways of curbing the President's pleasant "off-the-cuff" remarks. They're particularly unhappy about his agricultural ad libs.

Earlier this week, for example, President Eisenhower inspected an Agriculture Department exhibit showing the erosion to farm land when conservation is not followed. Ike studied the ruts and gullies worn by unchecked water; then, turning to Secretary Benson and newsmen, he said:

"I'd like to see the whole appropriation for this (soil conservation) work go up." He added that he didn't know just how much more money should be spent, but he knew that the funds should be increased.

It was a natural offhand remark, and obviously Ike meant it. But it's going to cause some political embarrassment for the reason that it doesn't jibe with the administration's program.

Last January, outgoing President Truman asked Congress to appropriate $15,566,000 for upstream water conservation. President Eisenhower, however, cut this figure by more than one-half — to $7,000,000. In addition, Ike's budget knocked $6,000,000 off the funds requested for the Soil Conservation Service and $110,000,000 from the amount to be spent next year by the agricultural conservation program.

Words Vs. Deeds

Personally, Ike has always been a strong champion of soil-conservation methods. Last year, for example, he said that "the only trouble with this kind of conservation work is that it is moving too slowly." But his budget spells out a different story, and farmers say the real test of how the President feels about soil conservation is the money he spends on it.

Farm leaders remember other occasions when Ike took a strong stand on the farm program, only to find his own budget bureau had pulled the rug from under him. Last May the President paid a visit to the government's huge agriculture research center at Beltsville, Md., where he remarked:

"I read in the papers of making a lot of promises that I did not make. But I did make one which shows I'm not as stupid as I sometimes appear. That was that we needed more research."

Only a few weeks before this statement, however, the President's own budget for the Department of Agriculture had recommended cuts in the very same research work he was then inspecting.

Mysterious Figure

What really made White House aides wince was a remark the president made at a press conference last month that one reason the federal budget couldn't be balanced next year was the $880,000,000 of unusual expenditures for the farm program.

Ike advisers, both at the White House and the Agriculture Department, are still scratching their heads to find out exactly what the President meant by that.

Obviously, he wasn't referring to drought relief, because earlier in the press conference he had spoken of that as costing about $40,000,000. And he couldn't have been thinking of losses on the price-support program because that figure is expected to run about $148,800,000.

The only figure that looms close to the President's $880,000,000 in unusual farm expenses is the $882,000,000 appropriated by Congress for farm support and related programs. The bulk of this item, however, is comprised of routine appropriations definitely set by Congress. Only a small portion of it varies with crops and weather, so it can't be classified as an unusual expense. It was fixed by Congress months ago, and exactly what the President had in mind by the unusual farm expenditure of $880,000,000 still remains a Washington mystery.

No man, especially one burdened by the terrible weight of the presidency, can hope to keep tabs on the nation's budget with all its detail. But White House aides recognize that in the rough and tumble of politics anything a politician says will be used against him. And whether Ike likes it or not, his advisers have warned that every time he fumbles on conservation, agricultural research or price supports, his opponents write it down in a little book to be used in future political battles. That's why they constantly urge him to "stick to the script" and keep his off-the-cuff ad libs to minimum.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

HAMILTON, Bermuda (INS) — President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel could render few greater services to the free world, during their Bermuda talks, than to issue a vigorous 3-power denunciation of the perpetrators of Korean atrocities.

Whether this matter will reach the agenda, or be taken up even if it does, is not known as yet. But at the conclusion of a vicious war engaged in by the three nations represented here, aligned in varying strength against Russian-inspired invaders, what more pertinent topic could be broached?

It seems apparent that the men will do a great deal of talking about recognition of Red China, the continuing war in Indochina, the build up of Western German military forces, the eventual evacuation of Allied troops from Germany, the Italy-Yugoslavia and Israel-Jordan disputes, and the further distribution of U. S. funds, arms and know-how.

On virtually every point there are differences of opinion. The British and the Americans hardly see eye to eye on Red China. Britain plainly wants to get China's Communist government a seat in U. N. as soon as possible, to give China the cloak of responsibility that will enable the United Kingdom to step up trade relations.

We insist that there is no place in decent society for the murderous rulers of Red China. We will adamantly continue to support Chiang Kai-shek, though he seems hopelessly immobilized just now on Formosa, with an ever-aging army.

France can find fault with both British and American outlooks on almost any topic, just as Churchill and Eisenhower will complain privately that having Laniel at the conference at all is as if Harry Truman went to a Big Three meeting last January 19, the day before Ike took over the White House.

But on the question of atrocities there can be no difference of opinion. Torture and death know no language barriers.

The documented proof this country has submitted to the United Nations cannot be contradicted. The horrifying record stands for all the world to see. In an age hailed by historians as a period of enlightenment never before achieved by man, a party to a war was base enough to put to death in a variety of diabolical ways some 38,000 human beings who fell into its hands and sought mercy.

The documents now in the U. N. give names, places, and the stunned statements of witnesses. It is possible that these crimes might have been committed by North Koreans acting unilaterally, or by Red Chinese doing the same.

But the real culprit is known to the world. Cabot Lodge put the finger on him the other day at U. N. when he cried:

"These facts indicate a sort of common dedication to wholesale brutality which is utterly repulsive to contemplate. These terrible acts were taken by an authority having an uphappily close connection with the Soviet Union and were and are in comformity with actions tragically typical of so many absolutist systems throughout history."

He then charged that most North Korean leaders were Soviet citizens and that Russian officers were in the chain of command of the North Korean prison camps. The U. N. resolution condemning the atrocities is a natural fruit of such revelations. But it lacks the emphasis of a pronouncement signed by Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel.

A few Frenchmen, a few hundred Britons and about 10,000 Americans perished before the evil of their Communist captors in Korea. The big Western Nations were all involved. There could have been no war of that scale without Russian encouragement, and there is ample evidence on hand that there would have been no atrocities of that revolting nature without Russian prompting.

Perhaps the desire of the Western leaders to sit down soon with Malenkov will blunt their natural desire to give Russia hell for what it has done in Korea to innocent victims of the war that was thrust upon the free world. But, if they do soft-pedal the leaders concerned may all live to rue the day when—gathered together—they failed to speak clearly and sharply on the supreme subject of the desecrated dignity of man.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—For several days now the headlines have been implying that President Eisenhower and Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin have "broken." It just isn't true. For if a difference of opinion on whether Communists in government is going to be an issue in the coming political campaigns means a "break," then Mr. Eisenhower must be considered as having "broken" with more Republicans than the senator from Wisconsin. Even differences of foreign policy have heretofore not caused the President to "break" with members of his party. For Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, doesn't always see eye to eye with the State Department.

Since Mr. Eisenhower made his first comment to his press conference last week that he hoped the issue of Communists in government would be a memory by the time of the 1954 campaign, five Republican senators have differed with the President by expressing the belief that it really would be an issue. They are:

Ives And Welker Disagree

1. Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the Armed Services Committee of the Senate.
2. Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Finance Committee and head of the Republican Conference of the Senate.
3. Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana, chairman of the Committee on Rules and Administration and also chairman of the subcommittee on internal security.
4. Senator Ives of New York, chairman of the subcommittee on labor.
5. Senator Welker of Idaho, member of the Agriculture Committee.

When President Eisenhower reiterated at his press conference on Wednesday of this week that he expected Communists in government not to be an issue in the 1954 congressional campaigns, he issued a prepared statement on the subject.

There has been steady pressure at the White House from "left wingers" and others who don't know much about politics—except perhaps from the standpoint of what benefits the Democrats—to persuade Mr. Eisenhower that he must demonstrate dramatically to the country that he is anti-McCarthy. The people who have advised the President along this line seem to have forgotten that McCarthy as an individual senator can be readily attacked, but this leaves in its wake a considerable disaffection among millions of Republicans who believe McCarthy has been doing a good job in awakening the Congress and the executive branch of the government to the menace of Communist infiltration in the government.

Democrats Learned Nothing

What seems difficult to understand is Mr. Eisenhower's belief that all that's necessary to eradicate the issue of Communists in government from politics is to eliminate them from the government under his own administration. That's a rather naive approach, and undoubtedly it is also the innocent approach of some of his inexperienced advisers.

The truth is that, if Communists are driven out of the government now, what assurance is there that, if a Democratic administration returns to power in 1956, the Communist sympathizers will not get back again into positions of influence? Must the party out of power not be held responsible for its sins, especially when the recent reaction of its leaders to the Harry Dexter White case shows they have learned nothing by it? The importance of the 1954 congressional elections is that, if the Democrats get back into control of both houses and some of their so-called "liberals" become chairmen of congressional committees, the work that has to be done to check executive agencies constantly will be regarded as finished because of the Eisenhower pronouncement, and inquiries will be abandoned.

Yet the record shows that the executive agencies cannot do their own house-cleaning because often the facts are mobilized by congressional investigators or facts are brought out in committee hearings that could never be detected in departmental hearings. William Remington, recently convicted of perjury in denying that he was a Communist, was cleared by departmental boards. Alger Hiss was never caught till he testified before a congressional committee. There are many instances where the Statue of Limitations has run and only by congressional inquiry can facts be brought to light that show contacts between government personnel already "cleared" and persons outside the government whose connections are dubious.

Fight Pleases Democrats

Mr. Eisenhower cannot possibly control or censor what is said in a congressional campaign either by the members of his own party or the opposing party. If he thinks he can get a commitment from the Democrats to avoid attacking "McCarthyism" in the 1954 campaign, then maybe not much will be said about the Communists-in-government issue. But Mr. Eisenhower is not in control of what the Democrats may say on this, and many of them think "McCarthyism" will be an issue. So it seems rather pointless for Mr. Eisenhower to lend himself to any schemes to discipline members of his party for openly expressing their own ideas as to the 1954 campaign.

Nothing can hurt a president more quickly than the impression that he wants to muzzle the members of his own party. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman tried "purges" to their sorrow. Somebody ought really to give Mr. Eisenhower a few pointers on how to avoid friction in his own party because the people who are pressing him to start a row inside his party aren't really Republicans of influence but "left wingers," and their concepts are largely of the New Deal-Fair Deal variety. The kind of voters who want a McCarthy-Eisenhower fight aren't going to vote Republican next time anyhow. They are mostly Stevenson-Truman followers. The Democrats hereabouts are already rejoicing over the prospects of a wreckage of the Republican party in Congress at the next session.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Tightening of the nation's security laws will likely be one of the major issues before the next session of Congress, especially as a result of the Harry Dexter White case.

The expectation is that the current investigation of Reds in government, highlighted by the charge that White, a former Treasury Department aide, was a Russian spy, will smooth the path for such legislation.

The National Security Council has asked the Justice Department to study existing loopholes in the laws preliminary to possible legislative recommendations.

High officials who have been studying the statutes report that the requirements for proving treason are so rigid that it is extremely difficult to convict a clever conspirator of this crime.

A Library of Congress study of the security laws also found that constitutional guarantees of a public trial make it difficult to prove espionage without endangering secret sources of information.

Will Propose Changes

Whatever else the White spy case has accomplished, it has, for good or ill, added impetus to a drive for a single committee composed of House and Senate members to investigate subversion and other security matters.

One of the charges most frequently aired in the White controversy is that existing committees have primarily been scrambling to grab the headlines from each other. As one Capitol Hill observer put it: "To get there fustest with the mostest sensationalism."

The complaints have come from the pulpit and from Republican as well as Democratic members of Congress, among other sources. On one occasion, the Republican National Committee felt it necessary to intervene.

At least one congressman says he will offer a bill when the House and Senate reconvene January 6 to set up a single joint investigating committee. There probably will be a number of others with similar proposals.

Farm Program

Look for a heavy emphasis on market development in the Eisenhower administration's 1954 farm program. Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has already stated on several occasions that expanded markets rather than more production controls furnish the eventual answer to problems faced by the American farmer.

The Republican farm program is expected to call for:

1—Plans to go after new foreign markets for American farm products through a variety of trading devices.

2—Plans for advertising and promotion to increase domestic sales of grain and fiber.

3—A stepped-up research program to develop new uses for farm and ranch products.

Fewer Changes Asked

The White House "memorandum" on Taft-Hartley Act amendments, which leaked out last summer and never reached Capitol Hill has apparently had a direct effect on the controversy over how the law should be changed.

There are definite indications that industry groups have revised their strategy. Last year, management spokesmen called for many changes in the law to strengthen its teeth. Meanwhile, labor groups were calling for relaxation and repeal of some of its provisions.

Now, with White House official views partially revealed through the memorandum, industry spokesmen appear set to request only a limited number of amendments, and to dig in to hold the line against any other changes.

The National Lumber Manufacturers Association, for example, urged that changes be limited to (1) granting more authority to states in labor disputes and (2) strengthening provisions to avert strikes threatening the national welfare and one or two other modifications. The group then specifically opposed 10 amendments which had been urged by labor groups.

Retreat From Moscow

It is unfortunate that every official note from the Soviet Union to the West has to be raked fore and aft to make certain that it contains no hidden meaning. It is also unfortunate that a better job of raking was not done in the past. Bitter experience has taught the U. S. that this is the only safe course to follow.

Acceptance by Russia of an invitation to join in a Big Four conference has been received as another phony gesture by the free world. The Russians decided the best propaganda gesture at this time was to pretend to agree to a meeting.

The gimmick in the Russian note is that on the surface it seems to impose no conditions. This merely shows the desperate nature of the Russian gesture. There is, of course, the hint that the Soviet Union has not given up the idea that Red China must eventually be admitted as an equal partner in any negotiations leading to a settlement of world affairs.

Although the new note seems to represent a retreat from the previous position taken by the Kremlin, the timing of it raises the suspicion that it is based on ulterior motives. The purpose may be to make as much trouble as possible for the French government. And it could be a calculated plan to torpedo the Bermuda conference in which the United States, Great Britain and France are to take part.

Whatever the main propaganda motive behind the Moscow note, it is clear that it is not proof that communism has changed its identifying spots.

Eugene O'Neill

By common consent Eugene O'Neill was the best playwright America ever produced. A tormented soul, whose plays many persons found offensive, he wrote as if he were tearing himself apart. He saw man as the Greek dramatists saw him, a plaything of fate, but less heroic—bewildered, harassed, twisted into deformity and ugliness, a being whose ultimate tragicomedy came from the defeat and destruction of his vague, wistful aspirations for love and goodness and heroism by powers he fought aimlessly and hopelessly.

His plays were grim and terrible. Murder, disease, suicide, economic and spiritual failure, insanity and depravity stalked through them. But his genius was so undeniable that he was awarded prizes for what they are worth — the Nobel once and the Pulitzer three times. The power of his writing brought him an international audience.

He wrote, obviously, out of some deep inner compulsion. An actor's son, who trouped with his father until he was eight, he wrote good theater. A former unsuccessful jack-of-all trades—common sailor, prospector, reporter, actor, bartender—he knew and identified himself with the noisome types he portrayed. He made their talk vivid and convincing. They breathed and lived.

His personal life was full of tragedy—divorces, suicide of a son, prolonged illness. At 65 he died, after suffering for a decade from a form of palsy which made it impossible for him to write. Perhaps no other playwright ever lived whose stage tragedies and personal torment were so indissolubly merged.

Film Pioneer

Old timers who remember the motion picture industry when it was in its infancy will regret the passing of George K. Spoor recently in Chicago.

Spoor was a partner in the Essanay Film Company, a pioneer in the motion picture industry in Chicago, which prior to World War I was the capital of the movie industry.

The Essanay was founded in 1897 by Spoor and Gilbert M. Anderson, better known as Broncho Billy Anderson. Broncho Billy was the leading cowboy actor of his day, eventually being succeeded in public appreciation by William S. Hart.

Prior to the motion picture exodus to Hollywood in 1916, the Essanay studio gained prominent recognition as one of the leading picture companies. Such stars as H. B. Walthal, Gloria Swanson, Wallace Beery, Francis X. Bushman and Charles Chaplin were started on the road to success via the Essanay lot.

In an industry which has rounded out better than a half century of entertainment history, the pioneers still living are relatively few and the passing of George K. Spoor evokes nostalgic memories of the days when the motion picture was in its crude beginning.

Ruble Diplomacy

The Soviet Union is using "ruble diplomacy" in Finland for all it is worth. First, having committed aggression against Finland in 1940, she demanded heavy reparations. To meet those demands, Finland had to expand her output of goods Russia wanted and curtail wood-working and other production, thus making her economy increasingly dependent on Russia.

Finland was in no position to keep Communists out of her government. She refused Marshall Plan aid so as not to offend Russia. Her trade with Russia necessarily expanded while her trade with the West declined.

Now Finland has finished paying reparations, only to find her economy at Russia's mercy. The Soviet Union compels her, for instance, to buy more grain than she needs and even to sell back the surplus to Russia at a loss. Russia is in a position to cause an economic depression in Finland, create mass unemployment, and in the resultant crisis boost Finnish Communists into power. This, however, may not happen until Finland follows Czechoslovakia's forlorn example and moves to prevent further erosion of her independence.

Parathyroid Glands And Calcium

The parathyroids are among the smallest glands in the body. They are the size of a pea and are situated under the thyroid gland near the windpipe. Most of us have two on each side.

These glands are important because they regulate calcium metabolism which in turn affects the muscles, nerves, and bony tissues of the body. But their size and location are a bugaboo to the surgeon when operating upon the thyroid gland. When inadvertently removed the parathyroids never grow back and cannot be replaced. But the modern surgeon rarely, if ever, makes this mistake because the operation is geared to bypass these glands. Furthermore, it is only when the four glands are removed that serious consequences result; there is enough reserve function so that if one is left it is capable of carrying the usual load.

Removal of the parathyroids has the same effect as when the organs become lazy and fail to manufacture the parathyroid hormone. Underactivity leads to a depletion of calcium content of the blood and tissues. Tetany is the most common manisfestation. Lack of calcium increases irritability of the nerves and muscles, followed by painful spasms and tightness of various muscle groups. The nerves, for example, are so sensitive that if the facial nerve in front of the ear is tapped lightly with the finger, the face muscles quiver or contract. When a tourniquet is applied to the arm, the added pressure on the nerves throws the muscles of the hand into a typical spasm. The hand becomes stiff, the fingers rigid, and the thumb is drawn over toward the little finger to create a hollow in the palm. The wrist and elbow become flexed when the muscles higher on the arm contract. A similar phenomenon occurs in the lower extremities. The big toe and the heel are pulled up; the other toes go down and the sole is arched in much the same way as the hand. These spasms are indistinguishable from the leg cramps that occur to many of us at night in bed.

Calcium is needed to overcome the deficiency. Immediate relief follows an injection of the solution into the vein. But the effect is temporary; more lasting results are obtained by injecting parathyroid hormones or the synthetic super vitamin D product dihydrotachysterol. Meanwhile a diet low in calcium supplemented with large doses of vitamin D and calcium tablets is advised to keep the blood level as high as possible.

Now and then the parathyroids go berserk and become overactive. This condition is difficult to diagnose because a tumor in one of the glands is usually responsible. When this occurs, calcium metabolism is disturbed so that the chemical leaves the bone and enters the blood. In time this leads to softening of the bones, the appearance of hollow areas, and spontaneous fractures. Meanwhile the kidneys do their best to eliminate the excess calcium in the blood. The increased concentration of the mineral in the urine frequently results in stone formation. The spontaneous fractures or the kidney stones may be the initial manifestations that a parathyroid tumor exists.

TOMORROW: Infectious or viral hepatitis.

The Termite Ranch

Mr. Eisenhower says he will run the Red ants out of the Washington woodwork by next election time. That brings up more things than an auctioneer's assistant.

It means the end of the termite farming in Washington. The commies will join Lot's wife in the cruise up salt creek.

Most important is the argument propounded by this Guttenburg slagheap that anybody who hid behind the Fifth Amendment was as pink as granulated eyelids.

The amended ambush is the line, "Nor shall he be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself."

This rider was a postscript to the preamble. It was adopted four years after the original seven articles were ratified in 1787. It proved to be a recipe for treason, a synopsis for chicanery and blueprints for evasion.

Why shouldn't you be compelled to be a witness against yourself? In the second of the seven ages of man you do it when you bring your school report home. Wow!

You're a witness against yourself when you get caught with your hand in the cookie jar. When the doctor makes you stick out your tongue you are waving the white flag.

When a man gets married he is a witness against himself. Why do you think the bride stashes that happy subpoena in the fireproof hope chest?

Aren't you a witness against yourself when you fill out that income tax blank on March fifteenth?

When you lay down that bobtailed straight aren't you turning state's evidence? When the coppers make you wall that chalk line in the station-house you are your own worst witness.

Fact is we go through life blowing the whistle on ourselves. How many times have you been nixed for insurance when the doctor's stehoscope blew a fuse?

Let the amendment stand. But make the Commies toe the mark with their chins.

U. S. Ambassadors Warned That McCarthy Must Be Put In Place; Ike's Ad Lib Remarks On Farming Cause White House Headaches

WASHINGTON—Secretary John Foster Dulles' blast at Senator McCarthy was made only after the most careful consideration and after the State Department had asked American ambassadors all over the world to cable reaction to the McCarthy-Harry Dexter White-Truman controversy.

When a summary of these cables was placed before the President he was so shocked that he instructed the National Security Council to make a study of what could be done abroad to counteract the unfavorable publicity.

Without exception, every ambassador cabled that American prestige had hit a new level by the combined attack on ex-President Truman by the Eisenhower administration and the subsequent attack on the Eisenhower administration by McCarthy.

Some presidential advisers, such as Gen. Wilton Persons, didn't want the administration to tangle with McCarthy, thought he should be ignored, not answered. Others, however, sided with Dulles and the State Department, felt that a blunt statement must be made showing that American foreign policy was being dictated by the administration, not by the senator from Wisconsin. Hence the Dulles statement.

Ike On Farming

Some of the White House staff have been trying to figure ways of curbing the President's pleasant "off-the-cuff" remarks. They're particularly unhappy about his agricultural ad libs.

Earlier this week, for example, President Eisenhower inspected an Agriculture Department exhibit showing the erosion to farm land when conservation is not followed. Ike studied the ruts and gullies worn by unchecked water; then, turning to Secretary Benson and newsmen, he said:

"I'd like to see the whole appropriation for this (soil conservation) work go up." He added that he didn't know just how much more money should be spent, but he knew that the funds should be increased.

It was a natural offhand remark, and obviously Ike meant it. But it's going to cause some political embarrassment for the reason that it doesn't jibe with the administration's program.

Last January, outgoing President Truman asked Congress to appropriate $15,566,000 for upstream water conservation. President Eisenhower, however, cut this figure by more than one-half — to $7,000,000. In addition, Ike's budget knocked $6,000,000 off the funds requested for the Soil Conservation Service and $110,000,000 from the amount to be spent next year by the agricultural conservation program.

Words Vs. Deeds

Personally, Ike has always been a strong champion of soil-conservation methods. Last year, for example, he said that "the only trouble with this kind of conservation work is that it is moving too slowly." But his budget spells out a different story, and farmers say the real test of how the President feels about soil conservation is the money he spends on it.

Farm leaders remember other occasions when Ike took a strong stand on the farm program, only to find his own budget bureau had pulled the rug from under him. Last May the President paid a visit to the government's huge agriculture research center at Beltsville, Md., where he remarked:

"I read in the papers of making a lot of promises that I did not make. But I did make one which shows I'm not as stupid as I sometimes appear. That was that we needed more research."

Only a few weeks before this statement, however, the President's own budget for the Department of Agriculture had recommended cuts in the very same research work he was then inspecting.

Mysterious Figure

What really made White House aides wince was a remark the president made at a press conference last month that one reason the federal budget couldn't be balanced next year was the $880,000,000 of unusual expenditures for the farm program.

Ike advisers, both at the White House and the Agriculture Department, are still scratching their heads to find out exactly what the President meant by that.

Obviously, he wasn't referring to drought relief, because earlier in the press conference he had spoken of that as costing about $40,000,000. And he couldn't have been thinking of losses on the price-support program because that figure is expected to run about $148,800,000.

The only figure that looks close to the President's $880,000,000 in unusual farm expenses is the $882,000,000 appropriated by Congress for farm support and related programs. The bulk of this item, however, is comprised of routine appropriations definitely set by Congress. Only a small portion of it varies with crops and weather, so it can't be classified as an unusual expense. It was fixed by Congress months ago, and exactly what the President had in mind by the unusual farm expenditure of $880,000,000 still remains a Washington mystery.

No man, especially one burdened by the terrible weight of the presidency, can hope to keep tabs on the nation's budget with all its detail. But White House aides recognize that in the rough and tumble of politics anything a politician says will be used against him. And whether Ike likes it or not, his advisers have warned that every time he fumbles on conservation, agricultural research or price supports, his opponents write it down in a little book to be used in future political battles. That's why they constantly urge him to "stick to the script" and keep his off-the-cuff ad libs to minimum.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

HAMILTON, Bermuda (INS) — President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Laniel could render few greater services to the free world, during their Bermuda talks, than to issue a vigorous 3-power denunciation of the perpetrators of Korean atrocities.

Whether this matter will reach the agenda, or be taken up even if it does, is not known as yet. But at the conclusion of a vicious war engaged in by the three nations represented here, aligned in varying strength against Russian-inspired invaders, what more pertinent topic could be broached?

It seems apparent that the men will do a great deal of talking about recognition of Red China, the continuing war in Indochina, the build up of Western German military forces, the eventual evacuation of Allied troops from Germany, the Italy-Yugoslavia and Israel-Jordan disputes, and the further distribution of U. S. funds, arms and know-how.

On virtually every point there are differences of opinion. The British and the Americans hardly see eye to eye on Red China. Britain plainly wants to get China's Communist government a seat in U. N. as soon as possible, to give China the cloak of responsibility that will enable the United Kingdom to step up trade relations.

We insist that there is no place in decent society for the murderous rulers of Red China. We will adamantly continue to support Chiang Kai-shek, though he seems hopelessly immobilized just now on Formosa, with an ever-aging army.

France can find fault with both British and American outlooks on almost any topic, just as Churchill and Eisenhower will complain privately that having Laniel at the conference at all is as if Harry Truman went to a Big Three meeting last January 19, the day before Ike took over the White House.

But on the question of atrocities there can be no difference of opinion. Torture and death know no language barriers.

The documented proof this country has submitted to the United Nations cannot be contradicted. The horrifying record stands for all the world to see. In an age hailed by historians as a period of enlightenment never before achieved by man, a party to a war was base enough to put to death in a variety of diabolical ways some 38,000 human beings who fell into its hands and sought mercy.

The documents now in the U. N. give names, places, and the stunned statements of witnesses. It is possible that these crimes might have been committed by North Koreans acting unilaterally, or by Red Chinese doing the same.

But the real culprit is known to the world. Cabot Lodge put the finger on him the other day at U. N. when he cried:

"These facts indicate a sort of common dedication to wholesale brutality which is utterly repulsive to contemplate. These terrible acts were taken by an authority having an uphappily close connection with the Soviet Union and were and are in conformity with actions tragically typical of so many absolutist systems throughout history."

He then charged that most North Korean leaders were Soviet citizens and that Russian officers were in the chain of command of the North Korean prison camps. The U. N. resolution condemning the atrocities is a natural fruit of such revelations. But it lacks the emphasis of a pronouncement signed by Eisenhower, Churchill and Laniel.

A few Frenchmen, a few hundred Britons and about 10,000 Americans perished before the evil of their Communist captors in Korea. The big Western Nations were all involved. There could have been no war of that scale without Russian encouragement, and there is ample evidence on hand that there would have been no atrocities of that revolting nature without Russian prompting.

Perhaps the desire of the Western leaders to sit down soon with Malenkov will blunt their natural desire to give Russia hell for what it has done in Korea to innocent victims of the war that was thrust upon the free world. But, if they do soft-pedal the leaders concerned may all live to rue the day when —gathered together—they failed to speak clearly and sharply on the supreme subject of the desecrated dignity of man.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—For several days now the headlines have been implying that President Eisenhower and Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin have "broken." It just isn't true. For if a difference of opinion on whether Communists in government is going to be an issue in the coming political campaigns means a "break," then Mr. Eisenhower must be considered as having "broken" with more Republicans than the senator from Wisconsin. Even differences of foreign policy have heretofore not caused the President to "break" with members of his party. For Senator Knowland, the Republican leader, doesn't always see eye to eye with the State Department.

Since Mr. Eisenhower made his first comment to his press conference last week that he hoped the issue of Communists in government would be a memory by the time of the 1954 campaign, five Republican senators have differed with the President by expressing the belief that it really would be an issue. They are:

Ives And Welker Disagree

1. Senator Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the Armed Services Committee of the Senate.

2. Senator Eugene Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Finance Committee and head of the Republican Conference of the Senate.

3. Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana, chairman of the Committee on Rules and Administration and also chairman of the subcommittee on internal security.

4. Senator Ives of New York, chairman of the subcommittee on labor.

5. Senator Welker of Idaho, member of the Agriculture Committee.

When President Eisenhower reiterated at his press conference on Wednesday of this week that he expected Communists in government not to be an issue in the 1954 congressional campaigns, he issued a prepared statement on the subject.

There has been steady pressure at the White House from "left wingers" and others who don't know much about politics—except perhaps from the standpoint of what benefits the Democrats—to persuade Mr. Eisenhower that he must demonstrate dramatically to the country that he is anti-McCarthy. The people who have advised the President along this line seem to have forgotten that McCarthy as an individual senator can be readily attacked, but this leaves in its wake a considerable disaffection among millions of Republicans who believe McCarthy has been doing a good job in awakening the Congress and the executive branch of the government to the menace of Communist infiltration in the government.

Democrats Learned Nothing

What seems difficult to understand is Mr. Eisenhower's belief that all that's necessary to eradicate the issue of Communists in government from politics is to eliminate them from the government under his own administration. That's a rather naive approach, and undoubtedly it is also the inocent approach of some of his inexperienced advisers.

The truth is that, if Communists are driven out of the government now, what assurance is there that, if a Democratic administration returns to power in 1956, the Communist sympathizers will not get back again into positions of influence? Must the party out of power not be held responsible for its sins, especially when the recent reaction of its leaders to the Harry Dexter White case shows they have learned nothing by it? The importance of the 1954 congressional elections is that, if the Democrats get back into control of both houses and some of their so-called "liberals" become chairmen of congressional committees, the work that has to be done to check executive agencies constantly will be regarded as finished because of the Eisenhower pronouncement, and inquiries will be abandoned.

Yet the record shows that the executive agencies cannot do their own house-cleaning because often the facts are mobilized by congressional investigators or facts are brought out in committee hearings that could never be detected in departmental hearings. William Remington, recently convicted of perjury in denying that he was a Communist, was cleared by departmental boards. Alger Hiss was never caught till he testified before a congressional committee. There are many instances where the Statue of Limitations has run and only by congressional inquiry can facts be brought to light that show contacts between government personnel already "cleared" and persons outside the government whose connections are dubious.

Fight Pleases Democrats

Mr. Eisenhower cannot possibly control or censor what is said in a congressional campaign either by the members of his own party or the opposing party. If he thinks he can get a commitment from the Democrats to avoid attacking "McCarthyism" in the 1954 campaign, then maybe not much will be said about the Communists-in-government issue. But Mr. Eisenhower is not in control of what the Democrats may say on this, and many of them think "McCarthyism" will be an issue. So it seems rather pointless for Mr. Eisenhower to lend himself to any schemes to discipline members of his party for openly expressing their own ideas as to the 1954 campaign.

Nothing can hurt a president more quickly than the impression that he wants to muzzle the members of his own party. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman tried "purges" to their sorrow. Somebody ought really to give Mr. Eisenhower a few pointers on how to avoid friction in his own party because the people who are pressing him to start a row inside his party aren't really Republicans of influence but "left wingers," and their concepts are largely of the New Deal-Fair Deal variety. The kind of voters who want a McCarthy-Eisenhower fight aren't going to vote Republican next time anyhow. They are mostly Stevenson-Truman followers. The Democrats hereabouts are already rejoicing over the prospects of a wreckage of the Republican party in Congress at the next session.

Finance Firm Names Screen As Treasurer

Joseph F. Screen, formerly of this city, has been elected treasurer of the Citizens Credit Corporation in Washington, D. C. This firm is the parent corporation of a number of subsidiaries in the consumer finance field.

Screen is a graduate of Fort Hill High School and a veteran of World War II. He attended Strayer College in Washington, graduating in 1950 with a bachelor of commercial science degree. He attained the highest standing in the college by maintaining straight A's in all studies and graduated with "highest distinction." He was president of his fraternity and of the college honor society.

In 1951 he received his master's degree and passed the certified public accountants examination in 1953. Screen joined Citizens Credit Corporation in August as treasurer of two of their subsidiaries and last Friday the board of directors elected him treasurer of the parent firm. Screen is president of the District of Columbia Chapter, Phi Theta, an international honorary fraternity.

He is married to the former Miss Laverne Tichnell, of this city, and they have one daughter. His mother, Mrs. Bernice E. Screen, resides at Narrows Park.

Two Local Postal Workers To Retire

Two veteran postal workers at the Cumberland Post Office will retire effective December 31, Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon announced yesterday.

They are Claude A. Huff, 61, of 7 East Elder Street, and Sylvenus M. Harper, 58, of Fort Ashby.

Huff has served at the Cumberland Post Office for 36 years and Harper for 30 years.

Huff entered postal service December 15, 1917. During World War I he served in the Army in 1918 and 1919.

A city letter carrier for many years, his last duties are as delivering parcel post.

Harper, a fireman-laborer, started work in the post office December 1, 1923, as a substitute letter carrier.

In March 1941, he transferred to the rural carrier section, hauling the mail to RD 1, LaVale.

In August 1948, he transferred to fireman-laborer, a position he now holds. Harper served in the Army during World War I.

Election Of Officers Planned By IOOF

Nomination and election of officers of Chosen Friends Lodge 34, IOOF, will be held today at 7:30 p. m. at Odd Fellows Temple, South Mechanic Street. All past grands of the lodge are urged to be present as election of Grand Lodge officers will also be held.

B. E. DeBolt, recording secretary of the lodge, is a candidate for grand warden of the Grand Lodge of Maryland.

Due to circumstances the annual Christmas party for children sponsored by the lodge will not be held this year.

Cumberland Encampment 23, IOOF, will nominate and elect officers at a meeting next Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at Odd Fellows Temple. An installation dinner will be held at the temple on Saturday, January 9, at 5:45 p. m. when Grand Patriarch Alex J. Watts, of Joppa, and his staff will be present.

Marriage Licenses

Walter Joseph Beeman and Donna Ileen Brooks, both Barton.

Harry Merle Fleigle, Central City, Pa., and Dora Elizabeth Wingard, Stoyestown, Pa.

Early Christmas Mailing Being Urged

It's only 20 days until Christmas and Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon of the Cumberland Post Office urges early mailing of packages and cards.

This year all parcel post packages going out of the state should be mailed by December 11. For local delivery, the packages should be in the post office by December 15.

Size and weight limitations in effect vary according to destination. Some zones, for example, parcel post may not exceed 72 inches in length and girth combined, and must not be over 40 pounds in weight.

In others, the combined length and girth may be 100 inches and the weight up to 70 pounds.

These matters should be handled early so that there will not be the last minute confusion and maybe disappointment because rules do not allow a certain package to be mailed.

One of the important things to remember about Christmas cards is: Send them first class with a return address on the envelop.

With a three-cent stamp, Christmas cards will be forwarded if the addressee has moved and a new address is on file, or returned if the addressee cannot be located.

Christmas cards mailed first class may also carry written messages. This is not allowed when they are mailed second class.

Another regulation to remember about Yule cards, is that if they are smaller than 2¾x4 inches or larger than 9x12 inches, they must carry three-cent stamps.

The reason for this rule is the fact their size requires special treatment.

Christmas cards addressed to other states should be posted by December 11 and those for delivery in the state should be mailed by December 15.

To help the post office personnel, Yule cards should be tied in separate parcels for out-of-state and within-state destinations. The stamps and addresses should all face one way.

Car Strikes Man

Charles Frederick Drew, 36, of 121 Walnut Place, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital late Wednesday night for X-rays and observation after being struck by an automobile on Paca Street.

Police said the pedestrian suffered a cut on the right side of the head. His left eye and mouth were swollen.

Officer Kenneth Morrissey reported Drew walked into the right fender of a car driven by William Francis Dickel, 213 Water Street. The accident occurred about 11:30 near Blue Bridge.

No charges were filed against the motorist pending the outcome of Drew's injuries.

Drought Relief Program Cited

The first in a series of five meetings in West Virginia on the drought relief program was held yesterday at the New Century Hotel in Romney.

Representatives of the drought committees from Hampshire, Hardy, Grant, Berkeley, Mineral, Morgan and Pendleton counties attended.

The drought relief agreement between the state and the federal government will release $185,000 federal funds for relief measures in the state's 37 drought stricken counties. Under the plan, funds will be released to eligible farmers to pay up to 50 per cent of the freight costs on hay for their livestock, not to exceed $10 on each ton of hay.

Junior Civic Club Packs Yule Boxes

Yuletide boxes were packed and a Christmas program presented at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club, Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Alvin H. Wilson, Bedford Road.

Each member brought food to pack boxes for two families. Each will contain enough to take care of the family for a week, and will be distributed by the Associated Charities. Mrs. C. M. Sanner is chairman of arrangements.

Dolls, dressed by members of the club for the Associated Charities, were displayed and judged. The one dressed by Mrs. Jack Cotton was selected as the prettiest; and Mrs. Edward Sakolawski's the most original. The former was dressed in net and sequins and the latter as a space cadet. Mrs. William A. Douglas, Mrs. Emerson Loar and Mrs. Frank Turnley, Grafton, W. Va., were the judges.

Members will serve at the toy booth December 19. It will be placed on Baltimore Street, to receive contributions for Christmas distribution. Mrs. Joseph H. Pellerzi is chairman of the Welfare committee, which includes Miss Margaret Reid and Mrs. Joseph F. Wagner. Mrs. Pellerzi also reported on the success of the benefit dance held at Thanksgiving time for the Allegany County Heart Association.

Mrs. Paul Gipe presided and reported the new sign had been erected at the Cumberland Free Public Library, and read a letter of appreciation received from Miss Mary G. Walsh. The sign replaces the original one given by the club.

The club also is purchasing the new book, "Unity in Diversity," published by the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and will present it to the library for the use of all club members. In it, Mildred White Wells traces the club movement from its beginnings in scattered clubs in the United States in the early 1800's, through the founding of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in the 1890's, up to the present. The title of the book is taken from the motto of the federation. It is the first history of the federation since 1912.

Five new members were introduced. They are Mrs. William Gardner, Mrs. Wilmer Knepper, Mrs. K. O. Nelson, Miss Earlene Grim and Miss Geraldine Warren.

A Christmas program, consisting of two tableaux, was presented under the direction of Mrs. S. Lua Syckes. The one was a nativity scene and the other carolers in a sleigh. Characters in the former were Mrs. John MacVeigh, portraying Mary; Mrs. Pellerzi, as Joseph; Mrs. Warren Norris, an angel and Miss Virginia Harmison, a shepherd.

The music was by the Junior Woman's Sextet and the brass quintet of Allegany High School, with Mrs. Wilson playing the organ. Soloists were Mrs. Allan Macy, singing, "I Wonder as I Wander;" and Mrs. Syckes singing, a lullaby, "Jesu, Dear Babe Divine." Mrs. Wilson played "Sleigh Ride;" and the club sang, "Jingle Bells," "Deck the Halls," and "Come All Ye Faithful."

Singers in the sleigh were Mrs. Miles Thompson, Jr., Miss Jeanne Lippold, altos; Mrs. Macy and Mrs. Gipe, seconds; and Mrs. Syckes, soprano. The Allegany quintet was composed of Paul Marriott, Fremont Sheavly, Margaret Thompson, Ray Vernall and Perry Shelton.

Pine and red candles were used in the decorations throughout the house, and concluding the evening refreshments were served with Mrs. Bruce Douglas, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Galen Metzger, Mrs. Ward Hauger, Jr., Mrs. Simon Rosenbaum, II, Mrs. Gipe and Mrs. Sanner as hostesses. Plans Are Completed For South End Tree Ceremony

Plans for the lighting of community Christmas trees in South Cumberland were completed at a meeting of the executive board of the South End Businessmen's Association Monday evening.

George Millenson and James F. Scarpelli, co-chairmen in charge of arrangements, said plans call for the erection of a permanent tree at the small park between Race and Seymour streets at the Second Street intersection.

The tree will be lighted at a dedication program at 7:30 p. m. Monday, December 21, the chairman stated. Invocation will be by Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, and the dedication speaker will be Rev. Judge Senieur, OFM, Cap., superior of SS. Peter and Paul Monastery.

The brass section of the Fort Hill High School Band and the choir of that school will present several selections during the program, Millenson and Scarpelli said, adding that James L. Weber will be master of ceremonies.

Officials of both the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the businessmen's association will participate in a tree lighting ceremony at the B&O Y, following the dedication program.

The South End business district will also be lighted in the traditional Christmas colors during the holiday season, association officials said.

Contest Slated For Top Posts In State CIO

Annual Election Planned Saturday

A spirited contest for at least the two top posts in the Maryland Industrial Union Council was indicated yesterday as delegates got the 15th annual convention under way.

Caucuses were being held throughout the day as delegates began lining up support for their candidates in preparation for the annual election which will be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, convention headquarters for the 190 CIO delegates.

Nominations will be from the floor of the convention and election will be by roll call.

According to corridor talk, there will be contests for the post of president and secretary-treasurer and possibly one of the four vice presidents.

Audrey M. Smid, of Baltimore, a member of the Communications Workers of America, is president and she is a candidate for re-election.

Backing For Martin

A number of delegates report there is considerable backing for Roy Martin of Hagerstown as her opposition. Martin is financial secretary of Local 842, United Auto Workers, which is the bargaining union for Fairchild Aircraft Corporation workers.

It is understood there has been a division in the Steelworkers, mainly from Baltimore, for the important position of secretary-treasurer.

This $5,200 post has been held for four years by Charles Della, a member of Local 2609, Steelworkers, one of the locals at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Sparrows Point works.

His opposition, it is understood, stems from within his own local. The candidate mentioned as seeking Della's job is Charles Nelson.

One of the important factors in the race for these two positions is the split in the Steelworkers vote. The Steelworkers unions have 255 votes out of a total of 670 for the convention.

Another factor to be considered is the strength of the United Auto Workers block of votes as a number of Baltimore locals are UAW.

To Name Vice Presidents

There were no immediate indications as to whether the four vice presidential posts will be contested.

The possibility of a contest in the vice presidential post representing Baltimore was cited, however, if trading is done for the top posts.

Present vice presidents, elected on a regional basis, are Albert Mattes, Baltimore; E. T. Michael, Hagerstown; Nettie Mehaffey, Salisbury, and Ralph C. Beard, Cumberland.

Plans Are Completed For South End Tree Ceremony

Plans for the lighting of community Christmas trees in South Cumberland were completed at a meeting of the executive board of the South End Businessmen's Association Monday evening.

George Millenson and James F. Scarpelli, co-chairmen in charge of arrangements, said plans call for the erection of a permanent tree at the small park between Race and Seymour streets at the Second Street intersection.

The tree will be lighted at a dedication program at 7:30 p. m. Monday, December 21, the chairman stated. Invocation will be by Rev. Frederick J. Eckert, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, and the dedication speaker will be Rev. Judge Senieur, OFM, Cap., superior of SS. Peter and Paul Monastery.

The brass section of the Fort Hill High School Band and the choir of that school will present several selections during the program, Millenson and Scarpelli said, adding that James L. Weber will be master of ceremonies.

Officials of both the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the businessmen's association will participate in a tree lighting ceremony at the B&O Y, following the dedication program.

The South End business district will also be lighted in the traditional Christmas colors during the holiday season, association officials said.

Contest Slated For Top Posts In State CIO

Annual Election Planned Saturday

A spirited contest for at least the two top posts in the Maryland Industrial Union Council was indicated yesterday as delegates got the 15th annual convention under way.

Caucuses were being held throughout the day as delegates began lining up support for their candidates in preparation for the annual election which will be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel, convention headquarters for the 190 CIO delegates.

Nominations will be from the floor of the convention and election will be by roll call.

According to corridor talk, there will be contests for the post of president and secretary-treasurer and possibly one of the four vice presidents.

Audrey M. Smid, of Baltimore, a member of the Communications Workers of America, is president and she is a candidate for re-election.

Backing For Martin

A number of delegates report there is considerable backing for Roy Martin of Hagerstown as her opposition. Martin is financial secretary of Local 842, United Auto Workers, which is the bargaining union for Fairchild Aircraft Corporation workers.

It is understood there has been a division in the Steelworkers, mainly from Baltimore, for the important position of secretary-treasurer.

This $5,200 post has been held for four years by Charles Della, a member of Local 2609, Steelworkers, one of the locals at the Bethlehem Steel Company's Sparrows Point works.

His opposition, it is understood, stems from within his own local. The candidate mentioned as seeking Della's job is Charles Nelson.

One of the important factors in the race for these two positions is the split in the Steelworkers vote. The Steelworkers unions have 255 votes out of a total of 670 for the convention.

Another factor to be considered is the strength of the United Auto Workers block of votes as a number of Baltimore locals are UAW.

To Name Vice Presidents

There were no immediate indications as to whether the four vice presidential posts will be contested.

The possibility of a contest in the vice presidential post representing Baltimore was cited, however, if trading is done for the top posts.

Present vice presidents, elected on a regional basis, are Albert Mattes, Baltimore; E. T. Michael, Hagerstown; Nettie Mehaffey, Salisbury, and Ralph C. Beard, Cumberland.

Damage Suits Filed Here

A Rawlings man has been named defendant in a $10,000 damage suit filed in Circuit Court for allegedly assaulting a woman and inflicting permanent injuries.

He is Floyd Shepherd, who is accused by Pearl Mae Clem, RD 3, Keyser, of assaulting her. She is asking damages of $10,000 while her husband, Robert D. Clem, is asking $2,500 damages for loss of his wife's services and medical expenses. Earl E. Manges is attorney for the couple.

Alleges Fall

Marie Frankfort, 104 Maple Street, docketed suit against the G. R. Kinney Company for $10,000 damages for injuries allegedly received in a fall in the firm's store at 119 Baltimore Street.

Edwin Horchler, attorney for the plaintiff, stated in the declaration that the Frankfort woman was entering the store at 11:15 a. m. on April 6, 1953, when she slipped on some muck and other matter at the entrance. It had been raining on the morning of the fall.

She suffered injuries of the wrist, thigh and back and besides hospital and medical expenses lost wages while incapacitated. She is employed as a waitress.

Lloyd W. Diehl, 421 Columbia Street, operator of a service station on the northern end of the bridge across Wills Creek in the Narrows, has docketed suit for $2,700 against the E. J. Albrecht Company of Chicago, contractor doing flood control work here.

The declaration states that during regrading and resurfacing work on U. S. Route 40 at the northern end of the bridge traffic was detoured within three feet of gasoline pumps at his station.

Claims Business Loss

As a result, Diehl claims loss of business, especially during the long Memorial Day weekend and into the middle of June. Thomas N. Berry is attorney for Diehl.

In another case, Lydia C. Millman, 319 Greene Street, has docketed a damage suit for $2,800 against the George and Lynch Company, a Delaware firm, for damages to property she owns on Greene Street during flood work in 1951.

The declaration, filed by Thomas N. Berry, attorney for the plaintiff, states that during construction of a conduit by the defendant firm that the Millman property was damaged, both from work on the conduit and by trucks traversing her property.

Savage Dam Accounts For Third Of Potomac's Flow

Savage River Dam above Luke last month provided 36 per cent of the flow in the North Branch of the Potomac River here, according to Robert M. Beall, engineer in charge of the local office of Geological Survey, Department of the Interior.

Operation of Savage River Reservoir caused an average increase of 47.1 cubic feet per second in the flow of the river at Cumberland. Water which was released throughout November to sustain the flow in the potomac River amounted to about 30 million gallons per day.

The mean daily flow of the Potomac River here during November, Beall said, was 132 cubic feet per second or 85 million gallons per day, according to the agency's gauge at Wiley Ford.

This was 22.3 per cent of normal. The daily flow varied between 192 cubic feet per second or 124 million gallons per day on November 25, and 118 cubic feet per second or 76 million gallons per day on November 5, 6, 20 and 21.

Beall reported that the total precipitation in the Queen City, according to the Weather Bureau, was 1.61 inches which was 0.57 inches below the November average.

The average daily temperature was 44.9 degrees last month, which was 1.8 degree above normal.

Beall announced that due to winter conditions which will affect the stream flow in this area in the form of storage of snow and ice, no review or outlook of conditions will be made for the next three or four months.

Conversion Plans For Auditoriums Receive Study

Preliminary plans for conversion of existing auditoriums at Oldtown and Carver High Schools to other uses were received yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

These plans have been prepared by Walton and Madden, Mt. Rainier architects.

At Oldtown the present auditorium will become a cafeteria. The stage will be removed and the kitchen and serving area will be located at that position. At Carver the auditorium will become home economics facilities.

Webster said that the Oldtown plan was referred to William P. Cooper, director of county school cafeterias, for suggested changes. The Carver drawings were turned over to Miss Ruth C. McColly, supervisor of home economics, for her consideration.

In the construction of new additions to the Oldtown and Carver schools, new combination auditorium-gymnasiums will be built.

Charge Is Filed After Auto Crash

A local motorist is scheduled for a hearing in Trial Magistrates Court Saturday as a result of a minor collision Tuesday afternoon at South Mechanic and Williams streets.

Powell and Shober said Diehl's car emerged from South Mechanic Street and rammed into the side of a car driven by Vernon L. Shepherd, 34, of RFD 6, who was traveling along Williams Street.

A passenger in Shepherd's car, Mrs. Beatrice M. Rowan, 58, of Cresaptown, was taken to Memorial Hospital suffering from shock, but was not hospitalized. Damage to Shepherd's car was estimated at $100, and to Diehl's, at about $25.

Surgeons Separate Siamese Twin Negro Girls; One Dies

LONDON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Tomunotanye and Wariboko Davies, 3-month-old Siamese twin Negro girls from Nigeria, were separated successfully in a London hospital today, but Tomunotanye died three hours later.

Her curly haired sister was reported in good shape tonight and sleeping peacefully in a specially designed oxygen tent.

They had been joined across their abdomens and chests.

In the dialect of their West African homeland, Tomunotanye means "The will of God." Wariboko means "She who will bring her parents greatness."

The parents are Victor Davies, a Bantu clerk, and his wife Veronica, a sales assistant in a store of Kanu, Nigeria. The 24-year-old mother kissed the children before they went under the anesthetic at Hammersmith Hospital, and knelt in prayer in a white-walled room as surgeons went to work in the operating theater.

"Thank God," she exclaimed, when notified the delicate surgery had been completed.

Doctors pronounced the 90-minute operation "a complete success." Both the girls left the operating theater in fine shape. An hour later Tomunotanye died.

Dr. Ian Aird, 48-year-old professor of surgery at London University, led the 10-man team of specialists who carried out Britain's first Siamese twin separation. Fifteen other specialist observers, including an American surgeon at the Hammersmith Hospital, stood by.

Dr. Aird said tonight the survivor was "in excellent condition, quite as well as any baby could be after an operation of that magnitude."

"But the baby who was lost was equally well before her sudden collapse, and we are therefore in some apprehension about the surviving one," he said.

The twins, linked by an oval bridge 15 inches long, were separated after one hour under Dr. Aird's knife. Dr. H. Woodfield-Davies, the anesthetist in charge, reported "we met no snags—none at all."

Then the twins were placed on separate operating tables for individual surgery to close up the separation wounds. Five surgeons attended each twin during that session, which took 30 minutes.

Throughout the operation under blazing arc-lights, the silence was broken only by the whir of color cameras making a record of the operation and the low murmur of the surgeons giving instructions and commentaries.

The Davieses decided to let the children be flown to London Nov. 13 after Nigerian surgeons said surgery was their only hope of survival.

The twins weighed seven pounds together at birth. Before today's operation, they weighed about eight pounds each.

The latest successful separation of Siamese twins occurred in the United States. Eight-week-old daughters of Mayor and Mrs. Ashton J. Mouton of Lafayette, La., joined near the base of the spine, were cut apart in New Orleans Sept. 17.

Champion Steer Sold For $20,100

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (AP)—A skinny Hereford calf she fattened into a 1,005 pound grand champion steer in 12 months, today brought a rich reward to a Texas farm girl.

The sale of "Lone Star," grand champion of the International Livestock Exposition, returned $20,100 to 18-year-old Sue White, of Big Spring, Tex., who paid $189 for the animal in Nov. 1952, when it was two months old and weighed only 140 pounds.

Albert Pick Jr., president of the Pick Hotel Chain, paid $20 a pound for the white faced Hereford, an all time record for a grand champion at the Chicago show.

Cash realized from the sale of the steer, plus $345 in prizes and a $1,000 award from the American Hereford Association, gave Miss White, a 4-H worker, a return of $21,445 on her $189 investment in "Lone Star."

"Customer," Car Vanish

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (AP) — The prospective customer liked the looks of the used car, but wondered how it would run.

"Take it around the block," urged the salesman, Jack Gordon.

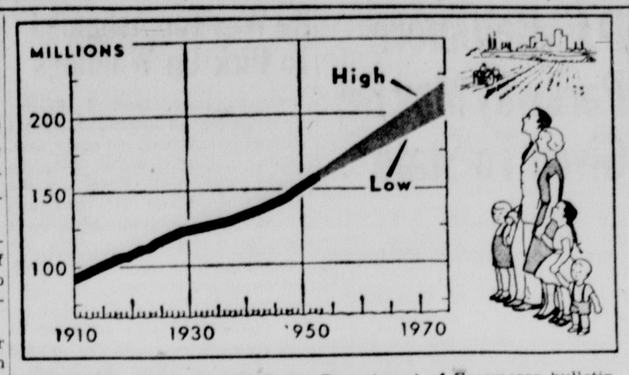
That was last night. The "customer" and car hadn't returned today.

Banquet Closes 4-H Club Congress

CHICAGO, Dec. 3 (AP)—Some 1,250 boys and girls met tonight for the final event of the week-long National 4-H Club Congress—the annual banquet.

Each of the 198 winners of national awards for a variety of youth projects were introduced to delegates to this 32nd annual congress.

Joe Neely, young cattle breeder and 4-H member from Simpson County, Ky., served as toastmaster. Entertainment for the hours-long banquet was supplied by delegate-members, who came from each of the states and territories.



THIS CHART from a United States Department of Commerce bulletin illustrates growth of U. S. population since 1910, with estimates projected to 1970, when population is expected to be 200,000,000. There were 4,000,000 persons in the U. S. when the Constitution was adopted. Currently it is increasing at a rate of 2,000,000 annually. (Central Press)

Liquor Store Stickup Man Flashes $100 Bill

MEMPHIS, Dec. 3 (AP)—A nattily-dressed stickup man who flashed a $100 bill and spurned a clerk's slim wallet robbed a liquor store last night of $300.

The bandit pulled out the big bill after ordering a bottle of whisky. When the clerk, John W. Childress, 44, opened the safe to make change the robber pulled a gun and cleaned out the safe and cash register.

He also took the clerk's wallet but when he found it held only $8 tossed it scornfully to the floor and fled.

With a record of 118,000 vehicles in one day, the Washington, D. C., highway bridge over the Potomac may be the busiest in the world.

Charles Dickens' house in London is still standing. It was here, at 1 Devonshire terrace, that he wrote A Christmas Carol and most of David Copperfield.

Court Asked To Rule Whether Damage Should Be Paid For Injuries Treated Free

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3 (AP) — Three sailors asked the Court of Appeals today to decide whether they should receive damages for injuries treated free in a Navy hospital.

Their lawyer objected to a Circuit Court ruling that the motorist who caused the crash in which they were hurt could not be charged for the value of hospital and medical services.

They also argued the jury which heard their suit in Prince George's county was kept up so late it was too weary to reach a fair decision. The verdict was announced at 4:40 a.m. after 2½ hours of deliberation last May 2.

Robert E. Plank, whose last address was the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda; Edward T. Glenn, West Collingswood, N. J., and Bruce Van Cauwenberg, Carmel, Ind., appealed. They were awarded $800, $700 and $900, respectively, for suffering endured after the accident on U. S. 301 in Prince George's County, May 16, 1952.

Each insisted the damages levied against Samuel J. Summers, 17, of Aquasco were "grossly inadequate."

Summers was driving a car which ran into the back of another and knocked it into the path of the sailors' sedan as they motored from Norfolk for a weekend in Philadelphia. Each was hospitalized at Bethesda for at least three months.

The court's opinion, expected next month, could set a precedent.

Rival attorneys disagreed whether an earlier Federal Court ruling favorable to a serviceman touched directly on the point raised in this case.

Thomas B. Lawrence, representing the sailors, asserted it was "effrontery" to contend Summers "is the only person in the world who should benefit from the government's care and its doctors' skill."

He said Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury erred in telling the jury it could not compensate the sailors for treatment they received for nothing. If that were true, he said, the government would be in the position of insuring wrongdoers.

Hal C. B. Clagett and Jerrold V. Powers argued for Summers that the sailors couldn't be compensated for money they did not spend. And they said if anyone had a right to be paid, it would be the government.

Two Prisoners Guilty Of Arson

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Dec. 3 (AP) —Two teen-age inmates today were convicted of arson in a fire at the Reformatory for Males after prosecutors said the blaze was set as a signal for a mass escape.

A Washington County Circuit Court jury deliberated about five hours before returning guilty verdicts against George S. Caulk, 18, of Centreville, and Alfred Summerville, 19, of Baltimore, both Negroes.

They were accused of burning down a barn on the Reformatory's farm property last Sept. 22, nine days after a series of riots by white prisoners.

James W. Curran, assistant superintendent of prisons for Maryland, testified there had been indications some Negro prisoners had also planned to riot a week after the first outbreaks.

"There were persistent rumors that there might be an outbreak on the colored side," he said.

State's Attorney John Hollyday produced statements in which Summerville was quoted as saying he started the fire with matches given him by Caulk.

He said Wilson had told him of plans for a mass escape during the fire and had warned him he would meet the same as "that fellow in H2" if he refused to start the blaze.

H2 is a recreation hall where a prisoner was stabbed to death by a fellow inmate in 1951.

Boonsboro Will Try To Buy Water System

BOONSBORO, Md., Dec. 3 (AP)—The town council of water-short Boonsboro has scheduled a meeting next Monday with the Boonsboro Water Co. to try to buy the system, a member of the council said today.

A high school and elementary school here have been closed because a prolonged dry spell has cut the water supply.

Councilman Joseph F. Clopper said the council hopes a representative of the Maryland Public Service Commission can attend Monday's meeting to help determine a fair evaluation of the water company property.

The council is planning to expand the water system if it buys it from the company.

About 1,000 students attend the two schools which have been shut down indefinitely.

Washington Air Raid Drill Set For May 12

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—District of Columbia commissioners today tentatively set May 12—a Wednesday—for a full-scale air raid drill during which all persons will be cleared from the streets.

Plans call for stopping all traffic for from 10 to 15 minutes and requiring all persons to leave private automobiles, buses and streetcars to enter air raid shelters.

D.C.-Baltimore Parkway May Be Given To State

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP) — The government is considering relinquishing the Washington-Baltimore Parkway to Maryland which would relieve an organized complaint of residents along U. S. 1.

Residents along the old boulevard met in College Park last night to form what they called the Maryland United States Route No. 1 Safety Council.

Their complaint is that because of the new parkway, U. S. 1 is likely to become a road exclusively for trucks. The federal government is building the parkway from Jessup to Washington and trucks won't be allowed on it.

The boulevard residents claim their property values will go down and traffic hazards will go up if all trucks have to use it.

The state of Maryland's section of the parkway from Baltimore to Jessup now in use may be used by trucks.

Orme Lewis, assistant Secretary of Interior, said today he has talked with Conrad Wirth, director of the National Park Service, about giving the federal section to Maryland also when it is finished.

Lewis said that the divided highway appears to be anything except a park, although it is under supervision of the National Park Service. He feels the same about the Suitland Parkway which runs from the South Capitol St. bridge to Andrews Field.

Lewis said so far his idea is merely a matter of discussion and that Maryland hasn't been asked for its reaction.

The meeting of boulevard complainants was attended by Rep. Frank Small (R-5th), State Senators Ferdinand Sybert (D-Howard) and John R. Feltcher (R-Prince Georges), the mayors of Mount Rainier, Hyattsville, Laurel, College Park and Colmar Manor, and county commissioners from Howard and Prince Georges.

He Was Too Ashamed To Pick Up Winnings

TURIN, Italy, Dec. 3 (AP)—For years he played totocalcio, Italy's national soccer pool. He never won.

With patience worn thin, he bought one last ticket, wrote naughty words on the back and mailed it in a final gesture of anonymous scorn.

This time he won. He was identified by ticket number.

Soccer pool authorities said today the winner was ashamed to step forward to claim his 322,880 lire ($510) winnings. He hired a lawyer, who identified his client only as Aurelio F., to pick up the money for him.

McKeldin Backs Ike In Dispute

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today supported President Eisenhower in a dispute over administration foreign policy but said "healthy debate" is good for the country.

He said Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) has a right to express his opinions and "did much good" by speaking out and giving Secretary of State Dulles a chance to clarify United States policy.

McCarthy last week criticized that policy, especially a willingness to continue aid to nations trading with Communist China. Dulles said McCarthy's views conflicted with the essence of U. S. policy. The President declared yesterday he was in thorough accord with Dulles.

McKeldin backed the administration in a statement drawn from a text used as the basis for a forthcoming radio interview (MBS Facts Forum). He differed with Eisenhower on whether Communists in government would be an issue in the 1956 elections.

"I think the facts still will be coming out next year," the governor said. "No one has the right to bury history, or to hide it in the making."

On foreign policy, the Maryland governor said Dulles "made it clear that we shall be firm and persistent with our allies in seeking agreement on what we believe to be right."

Three Robbers Shot In Ambush

MECHANICSVILLE, Md., Dec. 3 (AP)—Three Baltimore Negroes were hospitalized today with shotgun wounds after running into an ambush set up by two wholesalers whose warehouse was robbed twice in the past 10 days.

Shot up were William Mack Holt, 33, his brother, Joseph, 42, and William A. Delly, 22. Police were looking for a fourth man.

Herbert Wise and Samuel Burch put themselves on guard duty in their two-story wooden warehouse last night. The warehouse, in which cigarettes, confections and dry goods were stored, had been robbed of $4,000 worth of articles on Nov. 22 and $836 worth on Nov. 30.

About 2:30 this morning, four men entered the building. "Don't move, we got you covered," warned the owners.

But the four started back through the door. Both Wise and Burch fired shotguns.

William Holt dropped to the floor. State police later picked up the other Holt and Delly. All were taken to St. Mary's Hospital in Leonardtown with wounds.

21 Witnesses Summoned In Morals Perjury Probe

BALTIMORE, Dec. 3 (AP)—Twenty-one witnesses were summoned today to appear next Monday and Tuesday before the grand jury which will decide if perjury was committed during a series of trials involving offenses of morals.

The first to be questioned will be Philip Sudano, his cousin, Michael Sudano, and George H. Baccalla.

They testified that Franklin D. Roosevelt D'Alesandro Jr., 20-year-old son of the mayor, was the fourth youth with them and the two young girls against whom the offenses were committed last July.

Chief Judge W. Consell Smith then suggested a probe of possible perjury by recalling D'Alesandro's testimony at his earlier trial. D'Alesandro testified he had never even seen the girls. He is the only one of 12 youths tried so far to be acquitted.

Four more accused remain to be tried in Juvenile Court.

The two girls, now aged 12 and 14, and their parents also were summoned before the grand jury. The other 12 witnesses will be members of the police department, including Commissioner Beverly Ober.

The two girls testified they were in a car with four youths who took them to an apartment where acts of sexual perversion took place. The girls failed to identify D'Alesandro at his trial as being one of the four, except to say one of them was called "Roosy" or "Rooty."

The Sudanos and Baccalla testified that D'Alesandro was the fourth youth with them.

D'Alesandro swore he had never been in an automobile with the three other youths and the girls or in the apartment.

Court Asked To Rule Whether Damage Should Be Paid For Injuries Treated Free

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 3 (AP) — Three sailors asked the Court of Appeals today to decide whether they should receive damages for injuries treated free in a Navy hospital.

Their lawyer objected to a Circuit Court ruling that the motorist who caused the crash in which they were hurt could not be charged for the value of hospital and medical services.

They also argued the jury which heard their suit in Prince George's county was kept up so late it was too weary to reach a fair decision. The verdict was announced at 4:40 a.m. after 2½ hours of deliberation last May 2.

Robert E. Plank, whose last address was the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda; Edward T. Glenn, West Collingswood, N. J., and Bruce Van Cauwenberg, Carmel, Ind., appealed. They were awarded $800, $700 and $900, respectively, for suffering endured after the accident on U. S. 301 in Prince George's County, May 16, 1952.

Each insisted the damages levied against Samuel J. Summers, 17, of Aquasco were "grossly inadequate."

Summers was driving a car which ran into the back of another and knocked it into the path of the sailors' sedan as they motored from Norfolk for a weekend in Philadelphia. Each was hospitalized at Bethesda for at least three months.

The court's opinion, expected next month, could set a precedent.

H2 is a recreation hall where a prisoner was stabbed to death by a fellow inmate in 1951.

Rival attorneys disagreed whether an earlier Federal Court ruling favorable to a serviceman touched directly on the point raised in this case.

Thomas B. Lawrence, representing the sailors, asserted it was "effrontery" to contend Summers "is the only person in the world who should benefit from the government's care and its doctors' skill."

He said Circuit Judge Charles C. Marbury erred in telling the jury it could not compensate the sailors for treatment they received for nothing. If that were true, he said, the government would be in the position of insuring wrongdoers.

Hal C. B. Clagett and Jerrold V. Powers argued for Summers that the sailors couldn't be compensated for money they did not spend. And they said if anyone had a right to be paid, it would be the government.

Church In Russia Gains Strength Despite Reds' Scorn For Religion

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Out of the fog of fact, rumor and fiction comes this authoritative finding: the church in Russia today is more vigorous than in many years—despite communism's scorn for religion.

The situation, and how it came about, involves a strange paradox, heretofore not fully known this side of the Iron Curtain.

It has been brought to light by historian John Shelton Curtiss, who has assembled probably the most thorough data available to the Western world on religious conditions in the Soviet Union.

These conditions, as reported by the 54-year-old professor of Duke University, Durham, N. C., are oddly latent with both peril and promise for the church.

From what he has determined through interviews and research in this country and abroad, he made these points in response to questions from this reporter:

1. Not since the Communist revolution of 1917 has the Russian Orthodox Church "enjoyed such favorable relations with the government."

Church Strength Increases

2. "Church strength and activity" in Russia have "increased substantially" since 1941.

3. These gains have come about in the face of communism's avowed hostility to religion and waves of antireligious propaganda, concentrated mainly on youth.

Dr. Curtiss says the church's survival and its present strength in Russia are the result of a peculiarly ironic arrangement, born of struggle and compromise about which the free world knows little.

"I believe," he said, "that most people in this country believe there is almost no religious toleration in Russia at all today."

But despite the government's present official sanction, he added, the church's future still is in doubt.

Dr. Curtiss, author of a new book, "The Russian Church and the Soviet State," says the church is beset by two conflicting forces:

On the one hand, the Soviet government in recent years has not sought to suppress the church, but actually has aided it to expand—and the church, in turn, has supported the government.

On the other hand, the Communist party constantly assails religion, and this propaganda, aimed particularly at the younger generation, seems to be intensifying.

12 Years Of Research

Eventually, Dr. Curtiss says, this propaganda could "win more and more of the young away from religion and thus in time starve the church of followers."

Dr. Curtiss, a tall, white-haired native of Buffalo, N. Y., talked with Russian church leaders and combed information in Prague, London, Paris and the United States in 12 years of research for his findings.

His new work, published by Little, Brown and Co., Boston, traces the church's status since the 1917 Revolution, a period originally marked by bitter church opposition to the Communist regime.

The Communist government, in turn, fought the church in the early years, but finally came the strange truce, followed in the last decade by an amity that has produced a resurgence of the church.

Asked how the church could support a government ruled by an anti religious party, he said the church had "no alternative."

"It had tried opposition in various forms without success for many years and found itself in an increasingly desperate position as a result."

In justifying its present position, he said, the church "claims that in its internal affairs it is much freer from interference by the state under the present regime than it was under the czars.

"It also claims that communism has abolished the exploitation of man by man and is closer to the ideals of the Sermon on the Mount than capitalism and 'colonial imperialism' and 'aggressive alliances' as found in Atlantic Pact countries."

Since 1941, Curtiss writes, the "church has gained markedly," and the government has "lavished favors" on it.

"Since the interests of the U.S.S.R. would be currently furthered by a flourishing church," Curtiss writes, "the church was aided to expand, to develop its theological schools, and to establish strong contact with Orthodox churches abroad."

Other denominations also have been allowed to function, he said, although the Roman Catholics "reported grave difficulties."

Meantime, he said, there is a "growing drive to indoctrinate the youth with a materialist, godless outlook, even while the Russian church is encouraged to expand its activities.

"Probably to the leaders in the Kremlin it matters little that some millions of middle-aged and elderly people still believe, as long as the rising generation are convinced materialists."

Church In Russia Gains Strength Despite Reds' Scorn For Religion

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Out of the fog of fact, rumor and fiction comes this authoritative finding: the church in Russia today is more vigorous than in many years—despite communism's scorn for religion.

The situation, and how it came about, involves a strange paradox, heretofore not fully known this side of the Iron Curtain.

It has been brought to light by historian John Shelton Curtiss, who has assembled probably the most thorough data available to the Western world on religious conditions in the Soviet Union.

These conditions, as reported by the 54-year-old professor of Duke University, Durham, N. C., are oddly latent with both peril and promise for the church.

From what he has determined through interviews and research in this country and abroad, he made these points in response to questions from this reporter:

1. Not since the Communist revolution of 1917 has the Russian Orthodox Church "enjoyed such favorable relations with the government."

Church Strength Increases

2. "Church strength and activity" in Russia have "increased substantially" since 1941.

3. These gains have come about in the face of communism's avowed hostility to religion and waves of antireligious propaganda, concentrated mainly on youth.

Dr. Curtiss says the church's survival and its present strength in Russia are the result of a peculiarly ironic arrangement, born of struggle and compromise about which the free world knows little.

"I believe," he said, "that most people in this country believe there is almost no religious toleration in Russia at all today."

But despite the government's present official sanction, he added, the church's future still is in doubt.

Dr. Curtiss, author of a new book, "The Russian Church and the Soviet State," says the church is beset by two conflicting forces:

On the one hand, the Soviet government in recent years has not sought to suppress the church, but actually has aided it to expand—and the church, in turn, has supported the government.

On the other hand, the Communist party constantly assails religion, and this propaganda, aimed particularly at the younger generation, seems to be intensifying.

12 Years Of Research

Eventually, Dr. Curtiss says, this propaganda could "win more and more of the young away from religion and thus in time starve the church of followers."

Dr. Curtiss, a tall, white-haired native of Buffalo, N. Y., talked with Russian church leaders and combed information in Prague, London, Paris and the United States in 12 years of research for his findings.

His new work, published by Little, Brown and Co., Boston, traces the church's status since the 1917 Revolution, a period originally marked by bitter church opposition to the Communist regime.

The Communist government, in turn, fought the church in the early years, but finally came the strange truce, followed in the last decade by an amity that has produced a resurgence of the church.

Asked how the church could support a government ruled by an anti religious party, he said the church had "no alternative."

"It had tried opposition in various forms without success for many years and found itself in an increasingly desperate position as a result."

In justifying its present position, he said, the church "claims that in its internal affairs it is much freer from interference by the state under the present regime than it was under the czars.

"It also claims that communism has abolished the exploitation of man by man and is closer to the ideals of the Sermon on the Mount than capitalism and 'colonial imperialism' and 'aggressive alliances' as found in Atlantic Pact countries."

Since 1941, Curtiss writes, the "church has gained markedly," and the government has "lavished favors" on it.

"Since the interests of the U.S.S.R. would be currently furthered by a flourishing church," Curtiss writes, "the church was aided to expand, to develop its theological schools, and to establish strong contact with Orthodox churches abroad."

Other denominations also have been allowed to function, he said although the Roman Catholics "reported grave difficulties."

Meantime, he said, there is "growing drive to indoctrinate the youth with a materialist, godless outlook, even while the Russian church is encouraged to expand its activities.

"Probably to the leaders in the Kremlin it matters little that some millions of middle-aged and elderly people still believe, as long as the rising generation are convinced materialists."

Husband-Wife Food Observer Teams Named

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—The government is going to send several husband and wife teams to Europe in a week or 10 days to observe and report on distribution of American food packages in the Christmas-New Year holiday period.

The Foreign Operations Administration (FOA) is sponsoring the project, will bear the expenses, and will pay each of the observers $25 a day as a consultant to the government.

An FOA official said today that four teams have been selected so far and a fifth is to be chosen.

Those selected:

Mr. and Mrs. C. Edward of Excelsior, Minn. She is a regent of the University of Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Ahlgren of Washington, D.C. She is president of the General Federation of Womens Clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Gunderson of Rapid City, S.C. She is a Republican national committeewoman.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton T. Leonard of Providence, R. I. She is national president of the Parent-Teachers Assn.

An FOA official said those chosen were selected "as people who in the nature of their work are representative in some degree of the American people." He had no estimate of the total cost.

The Christmas food program, from U.S. surplus stocks, will cover 20 countries all together—13 in Europe and the Near East and seven in Latin America.

Blizzard In Nebraska

OMAHA, Dec. 3 (AP)—Northwesterly winds howled across the western three-quarters of Nebraska this afternoon causing near blizzard conditions. Snow accumulated to at least 10 inches.

As was the case in the past two big storms of the season, central Nebraska was hardest hit. Winds there ranged up to 45 miles per hour and visibility was cut to ⅛ mile by blowing snow.

Earth Tremor Felt

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 3 (AP)—A slight earth tremor was felt in Santiago and Valparaiso at 11:23 a.m. (EST) today.

Cigaret consumption in the United States reached a new peak of 394 billion in 1952.

Inventing Hits Slump, Records Of Patent Office Reveal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Inventors aren't inventing like they used to.

In 1931, for example, there were 84,000 applications for patents. Last year that had dropped to 60,000.

What's happened?

The most obvious answer is that in 1931 a lot of people were in the inventing business because they couldn't find anything else to do. But a glance at the latest "Official Gazette" of the Patent Office shows a reason that may be even more important.

First, a look at the old days. Fulton decided a steamboat would come in handy, so he invented one. We could use an electric light around here, Edison said, reaching for the switch.

But life gets more complicated, as you can see by noting these new inventions:

Robert W. Foreman and Melvin M. Fink of Cleveland have come up with an "apparatus for coordinating wave length and slit size in spectrophotometers."

Frederick C. McCallum of Williamsville, N.Y., has a gadget he calls "haemacytometer and the like."

Harold J. Hasbrouchk Jr. of Teaneck, N.J., has invented—and just let the Russians say they thought of this one first—a sphygmomanometer.

If you think that's tough, see what Richard W. Young and Jack Blodinger of Stamford, Conn., assisted by Alice D. Welcher of Old Greenwich, Conn., have been up to. They have a "preparation of tetraalkylpyrophosphites."

These undoubtedly are fine, useful inventions, but they're hardly the type that would come with a blinding flash to the average fellow while he was shaving.

Still, an inventor's life isn't exclusively sphygmomanometers and tetraalkylpyrophosphites these days.

Claude Paxton of El Paso, Tex., has a new paint can brush scraper, and Barbara B. Tittle of South Bend, Ind., has a plan for pinless disapers.

One curious thing about inventors, is that, having invented something, they often have to produce something that partly disinvents it.

Such as the radio. Having got it, inventors then went to work trying to get a gadget which would quiet it during overly enthusiastic commercials, thereby giving us blessed silence, which is what we had in the first place.

That tendency still goes on.

Inventors have been coming up with lotions and creams to permit sunbathers to stretch out with as little on as the law will allow. And now comes Michael J. Rochford with a screen-like "sunbath tent" to cover them up again.

Bathroom showers have been invented, so a person doesn't have to lie down to take a bath. But here's Kirk P. Willis of Wagoner, Okla., with a recumbent shower bath, putting us flat on our backs again.

On the whole some of the old-time lightheartedness seems to be gone from the official gazette.

Where is the like of the automatic hat tipper, whereby a dandy could tip his bowler merely by squeezing a bulb in his pocket? And where is there something similar to the windshield wipers for spectacles during grapefruit season?

Those were the days, eh, Patent Office?

Airplane Inventors Brilliant Scientists

Diaries Of Wright Brothers Tell Of Their Triumphs And Disappointments

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Orville and Wilbur Wright tell their own story tomorrow of the moments of triumph and disappointment they lived in inventing the airplane.

Their philosophies—even their rare differences and disputes—are revealed in the Wright brothers' diaries, notes and hundreds of letters handed over to the Library of Congress after the death of Orville in 1948. Wilbur died in 1912.

The sum total is a composite picture that does away for all time with the need to apologize—as many writers have in the past—for the scientific background of the two young men who were the first in history to apply engines to wings successfully.

The diaries show the onetime bicycle repairmen to have been brilliant, patient, precise, thorough-going scientists.

Oberlin College in Ohio sponsored publication of the Wright papers in order to "recognize fittingly the benefactions" of the two brothers to Oberlin.

The two thick volumes are published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Correspondence Exchange

Heart and core of the work is an exchange of correspondence between Wilbur Wright and a famed engineer and aeronautics student of the day, Octave Chanute. The volumes contain almost 1,000 papers from the Wright collection and about 250 from the Chanute collection.

Wilbur started the exchange in May 1900 by writing from Dayton to Chanute, at Chicago:

"For some years I have been afflicted with the belief that flight is possible to man. My disease has increased in severity and I feel that it will soon cost me an increased amount of my money if not my life. I have been trying to arrange my affairs in such a way that I can devote my entire time for a few months to experiment in this field."

Wilbur went on to recount his observations of bird flights, and asked Chanute for advice as to a suitable locality for flying experiments—with steady winds of about 15 miles an hour.

Chanute gave a prompt, detailed and sympathetic answer. He said San Diego, Calif., and St. James City (Pine Island), Fla., were suitable, but that even better sites might be found on the Carolina or Georgia coasts.

The letters followed in a steady flow, with both men thinking out by mail the problems before them.

Exchanges Dwindle

After the brothers became successful the exchanges with Chanute dwindled until, at the end of 1909, Wilbur Wright was able to write to a newspaperman of Chanute:

"For many years we entrusted to him many of our most important secrets, and only discontinued it when we began to notice that his advancing years made it difficult for him to exercise the necessary discretion."

In January 1910, Wilbur complained to Chanute about articles in the New York World quoting Chanute as questioning the Wrights claim to have been the first to maintain lateral balance in the air by adjusting the wing tips to different angles.

Chanute denied this and in reply expressed the grievance that Wilbur, at a dinner, gave the impression that Chanute had thrust his friendship on the brothers.

In a lengthy answer, Wilbur brought in a new point:

"As to inordinate desire for wealth, you are the only person acquainted with us who has ever made such an accusation. . . . We honestly think that our work of 1900-1906 has been and will be of value to the world, and that the world owes us something as inventors, regardless of whether we personally make Roman holidays for accident-loving crowds."

Chanute, in May 1910, wrote: "I have never given out the impression that you had taken up aeronautics at my instance or were, as you put it, pupils of mine. . . . I have never made any claims in that respect, but I may confess that I have sometimes thought that you did not give me as much credit as I deserved."

Chanute died the following November, with the breached friendship still unhealed.

In letters to their father, Bishop Milton Wright of the United Brethren Church, and to their sister Katharine, and in other documents the Wrights tell of their aeronautical studies and of their persistent glider experiments at Kitty Hawk, N. C. The brothers spent most of the off-season months from 1900 to 1903, when their bicycle shop business at Dayton was slack, on the North Carolina sand dunes.

Wilbur's notebook at Kitty Hawk in September 1900, for example, contains these observations:

Md. CIO Seeks Cut In Liquor Excise Taxes

The 15th annual meeting of the Maryland Industrial Union Council yesterday adopted 17 resolutions approved by the national CIO and added one of their own.

The resolution enterprised locally called for cutting back the federal excise taxes on beer, wine and liquor to 1942 levels.

The tax rate, if adopted, would put a $7 bite on a barrel of beer instead of the existing $9 and would cut the federal take on distilled spirits from $10.50 per gallon to $6 per gallon. The resolution called for "pro-rated" reductions on wine taxes.

The resolutions adopted on recommendation of the national body urged the Eisenhower administration to reduce excise taxes, get rid of those used for other than regulatory purposes and called for "closing loopholes" in present income tax laws and applying withholding taxes to dividends and interest collections.

Housing Resolution

Extension of public housing programs was also backed in the series of resolutions adopted.

Speakers before the meeting were Henry Goldstein, executive director of the Histadrut who called upon the council to help finance a cultural center in some village in Israel, and John Brophy, national CIO representative who urged support of Point Four work abroad.

Brophy said aid to foreign countries has suffered a marked letdown under the Eisenhower Administration and urged support for its continuation.

Today, the group will hear from John Grogan, international president of the CIO Shipbuilders Union, and R. J. Collins, assistant director of organization.

Oppose Sales Tax

The council also:"

Declared opposition to all state and local sales taxes and served notice it will oppose any attempt to impose a federal sales tax.

Applauded the AEC for harnessing atomic energy for electric power for industry and urged the expansion of the program.

Urged Congress to erect in Washington a suitable memorial for the memory of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Deplored raids by unions upon plants already organized and pledged aid in resisting raids, in particular to "the Brewery Workers in resisting raiding attempts of the AFL Teamsters Union."

Called on society to fight dishonesty and unethical practices and to stamp out racketeering and immoral elements.

Back 'No-Raiding' Pact

Supported the National CIO in actions toward a no-raiding agreement with the AFL:

Commended the success of the CIO in setting up machinery for reaching agreement on jurisdictional disputes.

Pledged the support of its members for all legitimate strikes, including the present Steelworkers strike with can companies.

Endorsed efforts underway toward labor unity which would allow the CIO to pursue its main task, organizing the unorganized.

Also passed were resolutions on labor unity, unauthorized use of officers' titles, supporting cooperatives, urging the extension of the CIO's community service program, pledging support to the Insurance Workers of America and urging the purchase of insurance from firms which are organized.

The group also adopted resolutions supporting Labor Press Associated and the CIO's public relations program.

Assign Committees

Important committee assignments were made during the opening session yesterday in Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Chairman of the important 17-member rules committee is Madelyn Willey, of Cambridge, from Local 107, Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

The credentials committee is headed by Albert Mattes, member of Local 239, United Auto Workers, one of the unions at the Baltimore plant of the Chevrolet Company.

Patrick Ellington, Baltimore, staff worker for the Textile Workers Union of America in Baltimore and Virginia, is chairman of the 22-member resolutions committee.

The group of ten sergeants-at-arms is headed by Eugene Sweigert of Baltimore, a member of a Communications Workers of America unit there.

Patrick Zembower, of this city, a member of Local 26, United Rubber Workers, who is a field representative for the Rubber Workers working in Maryland and Virginia, is chairman of the constitution committee that has 22 members.

Opens Convention

The convention got underway with remarks by Ralph C. Beard, this city, regional vice president of the council, and member of Local 26, United Rubber Workers. He and William G. Rice, president of Local 26, are in charge of arrangements for the session.

Beard introduced Rev. D. E. Makell, pastor of Metropolitan AME Church, this city, who gave the invocation, and Mayor Roy W. Eves, who welcomed the delegates to the city.

Frank J. Bender, Baltimore, who is on the staff of the Pennsylvania-Maryland-Delaware CIO regional organization, gave a tribute to the late Allen Haywood.

Terminal Group To Discuss Better Boiler Operation

Plans for more efficient operation of stationary boilers in local railroad terminals and the B & O Bolt and Forge's reclamation plant will be discussed at a Cumberland Terminal Meeting Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in City Hall.

Charles F. Owens, deputy city smoke inspector, said the regular discussion on motive power of the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland lines will also be held.

B & O installations slated for special discussion are the crane and power plant at the Bolt and Forge shop.

A ring blower is being installed on the crane and attempts are being made to secure lower volatile coals for both operations, Owens said.

W. W. Frye, B & O smoke inspector and fuel conservattionist, is working with the City Smoke Abatement Department in choosing coals which will give top efficiency with the least amount of smoke.

Western Maryland installations slated for special study are the roundhouse and power plant at Maryland Junction at Ridgeley.

Owens said these installations are in nearby West Virginia and not subject to rules laid down by the city's smoke ordinance, but that railroad officials have promised full cooperation in the city's program.

Under certain wind conditions, he added, smoke from these stationary boilers and the roundhouse is blown to the Rose Hill section of Cumberland.

350 Students To Learn More About Politics

Approximately 350 students from high schools and colleges, along with other young men and women, will attend the Second Annual Conference of Practical Politics in Annapolis on December 5.

The non-partisan political school, sponsored by the Young Democratic Clubs of Maryland, gets underway at 11 a.m. with a keynote address by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin at St. John's College.

Participants in the day long school include: Comptroller J. Millard Tawes; Attorney General Edward E. E. Rollins; State Senator Leroy W. Preston, Fifth District, Baltimore City; Delegate Richard E. Lankford, Anne Arundel County; E. Brooke Lee; Deeley K. Nice; president of the Young Republican Clubs, J. Glenn Beall, Jr. and Joseph D. Tydings, president of the Young Democratic Clubs.

Coroner's Jury To Probe Death Of Railroader

GRAFTON, W. Va., Dec. 3 (AP)—Coroner Ona C. Jeffreys said today he would re-impanel a coroner's jury next week, probably Tuesday, in connection with the death of 51-year-old Delbert George Williams.

Williams, a Grafton resident and employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, died in a hospital here about midnight Tuesday. He had been in the hospital since he was stabbed in the chest with a kitchen knife Nov. 22 at his home here.

Jeffreys declined to give an opinion on whether the knife wound was the cause of death, pending receipt of an autopsy report.

Mrs. Myrtle Currence, 41, arrested after the stabbing, now is free under $1,500 bond to await grand jury action on a felonious wounding charge in the case. Authorities identified her as Williams' housekeeper.

The coroner's jury first was impanelled by Jeffreys yesterday, but it withheld a verdict pending completion of the autopsy performed by Dr. William Ehrgott at Fairmont General Hospital.

Williams was a son of Luther M. and Abbie (Poling) Williams. His wife, Mrs. Dona (Hovatter) Williams, died several years ago. He was a member of the First Brethren Church of Tucker County.

Survivors include five daughters, Miss Geraldine Williams, Mrs. Arnold Wilson and Mrs. Paul Nestor, of Grafton; and Anetta Williams, at home; Mrs. Harvey Johns Jr., Fremont, Ohio; and four sons, Hayward, Mansfield, Ohio; Donald, Columbus, Ohio; and Sammie, at home; four brothers, Howard, of Grafton; Dewey, of Thornton; Hansford and Nelson A., both of St. George; and five sisters, Mrs. Eddie Sapp, of Grafton; Mrs. Amasa Nestor, Berkeley Springs; Mrs. Roy Shaffer Rowlesburg; Mrs. Bradford Sevier, and Mrs. Belle Poling, both of Knottsville, W. Va.

Three Hurt In Mishap Near Hyndman, Pa.

Three residents of near Hyndman, Pa., were injured in a recent automobile accident about four and half miles south of that community.

Treated by a Hyndman physician were Mrs. Mearle G. Emerick, 47, who suffered abrasions and cuts of the forehead; Joanne Emerick, 6, lacerations of the forehead and nose and Wayne Emerick, 13, contusions of the mouth. They were taken to Memorial Hospital here for treatment.

The accident occurred when James Albert Reel, 51, of Hyndman, parked his car on Route 96. Another car, operated by Roy C. Emerick, 18, of Hyndman, RD 1, proceeding north, ran into the rear of Reed's car. The three persons injured were in the Emerick vehicle. Police said Reed was arrested for parking on the highway.

Local Churches Top Fund Goal

Emmanuel Methodist Church and LaVale Methodist Church have oversubscribed their goal in the $800,000 campaign for funds for church extension in the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church.

Both local churches are members of the Hagerstown District of the conference. The district has subscribed 93 per cent of $96,442 of its $104,232 goal, tabulations as of November 24 show. That was the deadline but some churches have not completed their reports, Dr. F. Olen Hunt, director of the "Crusade" said.

The Baltimore Conference had subscribed $725,000 of the goal until that time, he added.

"When all reports are in," Dr. Hunt stated, "the goal will have been realized."

The need for new churches and additional parsonages in the conference, and funds for training young men for the ministry at Westminster Theological Seminary was determined in a survey last year that considered population increases and community expansion.

Adopting the slogan of "building churches where there are people but no steeple," the conference decided on the fund-raising campaign to finance the crusade within its boundaries.

Airplane Inventors Brilliant Scientists

Diaries Of Wright Brothers Tell Of Their Triumphs And Disappointments

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Reporter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3 (AP)—Orville and Wilbur Wright tell their own story tomorrow of the moments of triumph and disappointment they lived in inventing the airplane.

Their philosophies—even their rare differences and disputes—are revealed in the Wright brothers' diaries, notes and hundreds of letters handed over to the Library of Congress after the death of Orville in 1948. Wilbur died in 1912.

The sum total is a composite picture that does away for all time with the need to apologize—as many writers have in the past—for the scientific background of the two young men who were the first in history to apply engines to wings successfully.

The diaries show the onetime bicycle repairmen to have been brilliant, patient, precise, thorough-going scientists.

Oberlin College in Ohio sponsored publication of the Wright papers in order to "recognize fittingly the benefactions" of the two brothers to Oberlin.

The two thick volumes are published by the McGraw-Hill Book Co.

Correspondence Exchange

Heart and core of the work is an exchange of correspondence between Wilbur Wright and a famed engineer and aeronautics student of the day, Octave Chanute. The volumes contain almost 1,000 papers from the Wright collection and about 250 from the Chanute collection.

Wilbur started the exchange in May 1900 by writing from Dayton to Chanute, at Chicago:

"For some years I have been afflicted with the belief that flight is possible to man. My disease has increased in severity and I feel that it will soon cost me an increased amount of my money if not my life. I have been trying to arrange my affairs in such a way that I can devote my entire time for a few months to experiment in this field."

Wilbur went on to recount his observations of bird flights, and asked Chanute for advice as to a suitable locality for flying experiments—with steady winds of about 15 miles an hour.

Chanute gave a prompt, detailed and sympathetic answer. He said San Diego, Calif., and St. James City (Pine Island), Fla., were suitable, but that even better sites might be found on the Carolina or Georgia coasts.

The letters followed in a steady flow, with both men thinking out by mail the problems before them.

Exchanges Dwindle

After the brothers became successful the exchanges with Chanute dwindled until, at the end of 1909, Wilbur Wright was able to write to a newspaperman of Chanute:

"For many years we entrusted to him many of our most important secrets, and only discontinued it when we began to notice that his advancing years made it difficult for him to exercise the necessary discretion."

In January 1910, Wilbur complained to Chanute about articles in the New York World quoting Chanute as questioning the Wrights claim to have been the first to maintain lateral balance in the air by adjusting the wing tips to different angles.

Chanute denied this and in reply expressed the grievance that Wilbur, at a dinner, gave the impression that Chanute had thrust his friendship on the brothers.

In a lengthy answer, Wilbur brought in a new point:

"As to inordinate desire for wealth, you are the only person acquainted with us who has ever made such an accusation. . . . We honestly think that our work of 1900-1906 has been and will be of value to the world, and that the world owes us something as inventors, regardless of whether we personally make Roman holidays for accident-loving crowds."

Chanute, in May 1910, wrote: "I have never given out the impression that you had taken up aeronautics at my instance or were, as you put it, pupils of mine. . . . I have never made any claims in that respect, but I may confess that I have sometimes thought that you did not give me as much credit as I deserved."

Chanute died the following November, with the breached friendship still unhealed.

In letters to their father, Bishop Milton Wright of the United Brethren Church, and to their sister Katharine, and in other documents the Wrights tell of their aeronautical studies and of their persistent glider experiments at Kitty Hawk, N. C. The brothers spent most of the off-season months from 1900 to 1903, when their bicycle shop business at Dayton was slack, on the North Carolina sand dunes.

Wilbur's notebook at Kitty Hawk in September 1900, for example, contains these observations:

Brazil Nuts In Divinity And Brittle Candy

BRAZIL nuts are back at markets. Candy-making is on the roster for holiday gifts and home festivities. This makes a happy combination of circumstances for Brazil nut divinity and Brazil nut brittle candies are delightful in flavor and excellent samples of kitchen skill. See recipes elsewhere on this page.

Divinity has long been a classic in the candy family, and here with the distinctive flavor of Brazil nuts, rum flavoring and candied fruits this favorite borrows nesselrode popularity. The choco-crunch candy with Brazil nuts is a simple brittle. Cut in squares, dipped in melted semi-sweet chocolate and chopped Brazil nuts, this crunch candy has a professional air.

To shell Brazil nuts quickly, cover them with cold water, bring to a boil and boil three minutes. Drain, cover with cold water for a minute, then drain and note how quickly the Brazil nut meats can be cracked and freed from the shells.

Brazil Nut Nesselrodes

- 2 cups sugar
- ½ cup light corn syrup
- ½ cup water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon rum or vanilla flavoring
- 1 cup chopped Brazil nuts, divided
- ½ cup finely cut candied fruit

Combine sugar, corn syrup, water and salt in a saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring until syrup, when dropped in cold water, forms a hard ball, or until candy thermometer reaches 265°F. Just before sugar reaches 265°F., beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Remove syrup from heat and gradually pour the syrup in a very fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly while pouring. Continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Stir in vanilla, ½ cup of the Brazil nuts and fruit. With lightly buttered hands form into ¾-inch balls; roll in remaining ½ cup Brazil nuts. YIELD: 1½ pounds.

Brazil Nut Choco-Crunch

- 2 cups sugar
- 4 tablespoons butter
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1⅔ cups chopped Brazil nuts, divided
- 1 package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 tablespoon shortening

Put sugar and butter in heavy skillet. Place over low heat and stir constantly until sugar melts. It is important to keep the mixture stirred constantly over low heat to get an even carmelization of the sugar. Just as soon as all the sugar is melted and light brown in color, add the soda and stir in 1 cup of the Brazil nuts. Turn onto a greased baking sheet and roll out with rolling pin until brittle is ¼-inch thick. Pull corners to make a square. While candy is hot, mark quickly into squares with a sharp knife. Break into pieces when brittle hardens. Melt semi-sweet chocolate pieces and shortening over hot, not boiling water. Dip one third of each square into melted chocolate; coat with remaining Brazil nuts. YIELD: 2 pounds.

Waffles are family favorites. It's true, they are quite delicious with lots of syrup and butter or margarine. But there's other ways to treat these favorites. Add chopped walnuts or pecans to the batter. Chocolate waffles make good dessert eating when served a la mode with vanilla ice cream.

Here's a main dish way with waffles. Big tender chunks of yesterday's turkey will take new airs when served in a cream sauce atop hot waffles. Sprinkle grated cheese on top for the gourmet. It will gain new fans as well as please the old followers.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

WIFE PRESERVERS

The less expensive cuts of beef may be cooked in the pressure cooker to complete tenderness in a short time, and they are easier on your budget.

Remodel your once-cooked meats by transforming them into a flavorful casserole. The "meat in disguise" main dish can be crowned with a tender biscuit topping to make a meal-in-one. Flaky golden brown biscuits are a treat in themselves. Vary the biscuit topping to fit the "under cover" filling. Shredded cheese, finely chopped parsley, pimiento, or onion add their own flavor to biscuits. Caraway seeds added to biscuit dough give a very distinctive flavor. All of these biscuit variations travel nicely atop the main dish. Remember to bake the "extras" to be served piping hot with butter or margarine.

Griddlecakes are never out of season. These steaming hot breakfast treats delight "early arisers." Surprise your family with the next batch of griddlecakes. Make your favorite batter. Core apples and slice. Pour ¼ cup batter on hot griddle. Place an apple slice on top and cover with ¼ cup more batter. Turn the griddlecake when it's bubbly on top and only once. Remember ... if you want nice fluffy pancakes ... don't "spank" the cakes.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Orange Frosting

(Fine for white or yellow cake)

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 pkg. chocolate quick fudge and frosting mix
Pecan or walnut halves

Use double boiler. Keep water boiling in bottom part. Into top part put butter. Measure orange juice in paper measure in package—fill once to FROSTING mark. Add orange juice and orange rind to butter. When butter has melted, add entire contents of package of quick fudge and frosting mix. Stir over boiling water 3 to 4 minutes . . . until glossy. Remove from heat. Spread frosting on cake. To keep frosting thin, replace over boiling water. If too thin, cool slightly. Before frosting cools completely, press on walnut or pecan halves for decoration.

The tart red cranberry season is here. Put tradition aside in favor of your own ingenuity in using these berries in your cooking. One new way of using these berries is in hot breads. Perk up muffins—in flavor and color—by the addition of these acrid sweet cranberries. Sweeten ground raw cranberries to be added to the muffins with the liquid ingredients. Serve this delicious hot bread with butter or margarine for any fall meal.

Diaries Of Wright

hedral angles finds greater difficulty to maintain equilibrium in strong winds than eagles and hawks which hold their wings level.

"The hen hawk can rise faster than the buzzard and its motion is steadier. . . .

"Hawks are better soarers than buzzards but more often resort to flapping because they wish greater speed. . . .

"No bird soars in a calm."

Back at Kitty Hawk a year later, Wilbur's notebook contains elaborate reports on flying tactics of buzzards, as observed through field glasses. In March 1905, Chanute and Wilbur Wright were still exchanging data on the wing measurements of crows and buzzards.

With all their preoccupation with flying at Kitty Hawk, the brothers still had time for other matters. Orville wrote to his sister from Kitty Hawk in October 1900:

"The economics of this place were so nicely balanced before our arrival that everybody here could live and yet nothing be wasted. Our presence brought disaster to the whole arrangement. We, having more money than the natives, have been able to buy up the whole egg product of the town and about all the canned goods in the store."

Katharine herself wrote to her father in August 1902, just before the brothers were to leave again for Kitty Hawks:

"The flying machine is in process of making now. Will spins the sewing machine around by the hour while Orv squats around marking the places to sew. There is no place in the house to live but I'll be lonesome enough by this time next week . . ."

From Kitty Hawk, one brother or another would write of the difficulties of camping, of building a "death trap for a poor mouse that has been annoying us," of searching unsuccessfully in the dark for a bottle which kept them awake because of the wind whistling into it, and of the cold weather.

Their father described the brothers as "inseparable as twins." And an editor's note describes an instance in which "the uncanny interplay of two remarkably sympathetic minds" completed, within a few hours, the essentials of the Wright system of controlling an airplane.

In this case, Orville told his brother at breakfast of an idea that came to him in the night, to convert the vertical tail from a fixed vane to a movable rudder. Wilbur, without hesitation, accepted the change and startled Orville by proposing the further bold modification of interconnecting the rudder wires with those of the wing warping, so that an operator could effect both controls with a single movement.

The Wright biographies, by Fred C. Kelly of Washington, have made familiar the story of the brothers' first powered flight, at Kitty Hawk Dec. 17, 1903.

There were four flights—marking the birth of aviation—that day, the first lasting about 12 seconds and the last 59 seconds, all made over level ground.

If Dec. 17, 1903, was their greatest day, the brothers were able to write even more excitedly of later triumphs.

In August 1908, Wilbur wrote France of the public's sudden change from skepticism to great popularity, after his first circling and figure-8 flights at Le Mans:

"The newspapers and the French aviators nearly went wild with excitement. . . . You would have almost died of laughter if you could have seen them. . . . You never saw anything like the complete reversal of position that took place after two or three little flights of less than two minutes each."

And a month later, after Orville had successfull demonstrated their airplane to the Army at Ft. Myer, Va., Wilbur wrote from Paris:

"You ought to seen it. You ought to seen it. I refer to the excitement roused by Orville's dandy flights . . . I have had almost as many congratulations on Orville's success as I had a month ago."

Wilbur died of typhoid fever May 30, 1912. The entry in his father's diary:

"This morning at 3:15, Wilbur passed away, aged 45 years, 1 month and 14 days. A short life, full of consequences."

The final paper in the two volumes is the last letter Orville wrote, to the General Electric Co., from Dayton just six days before his death in January 1948.

"I have a 10-hp General Electric motor that I would like to sell," wrote Orville.

"This motor was purchased in 1917 for use in my laboratory on a wind tunnel. . . .

"Would you be interested in purchasing it or do you know of an interested purchaser?"

Brazil Nuts In Divinity And Brittle Candy

BRAZIL nuts are back at markets. Candy-making is on the roster for holiday gifts and home festivities. This makes a happy combination of circumstances for Brazil nut divinity and Brazil nut brittle candies are delightful in flavor and excellent samples of kitchen skill. See recipes elsewhere on this page.

Divinity has long been a classic in the candy family, and here with the distinctive flavor of Brazil nuts, rum flavoring and candied fruits this favorite borrows nesselrode popularity. The choco-crunch candy with Brazil nuts is a simple brittle. Cut in squares, dipped in melted semi-sweet chocolate and chopped Brazil nuts, this crunch candy has a professional air.

To shell Brazil nuts quickly, cover them with cold water, bring to a boil and boil three minutes. Drain, cover with cold water for a minute, then drain and note how quickly the Brazil nut meats can be cracked and freed from the shells.

Brazil Nut Nesselrodes

- 2 cups sugar
- ½ cup light corn syrup
- ½ cup water
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 2 egg whites
- 1 teaspoon rum or vanilla flavoring
- 1 cup chopped Brazil nuts, divided
- ½ cup finely cut candied fruit

Combine sugar, corn syrup, water and salt in a saucepan. Place over low heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring until syrup, when dropped in cold water, forms a hard ball, or until candy thermometer reaches 265°F. Just before sugar reaches 265°F., beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Remove syrup from heat and gradually pour the syrup in a very fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly while pouring. Continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Stir in vanilla, ½ cup of the Brazil nuts and fruit. With lightly buttered hands form into ¾-inch balls; roll in remaining ½ cup Brazil nuts. YIELD: 1½ pounds.

Brazil Nut Choco-Crunch

- 2 cups sugar
- 4 tablespoons butter
- ¼ teaspoon baking soda
- 1⅔ cups chopped Brazil nuts, divided
- 1 package semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 tablespoon shortening

Put sugar and butter in heavy skillet. Place over low heat and stir constantly until sugar melts. It is important to keep the mixture stirred constantly over low heat to get an even carmelization of the sugar. Just as soon as all the sugar is melted and light brown in color, add the soda and stir in 1 cup of the Brazil nuts. Turn onto a greased baking sheet and roll out with rolling pin until brittle is ¼-inch thick. Pull corners to make a square. While candy is hot, mark quickly into squares with a sharp knife. Break into pieces when brittle hardens. Melt semi-sweet chocolate pieces and shortening over hot, not boiling water. Dip one third of each square into melted chocolate; coat with remaining Brazil nuts. YIELD: 2 pounds.

Waffles are family favorites. It's true, they are quite delicious with lots of syrup and butter or margarine. But there's other ways to treat these favorites. Add chopped walnuts or pecans to the batter. Chocolate waffles make good dessert eating when served a la mode with vanilla ice cream.

Here's a main dish way with waffles. Big tender chunks of yesterday's turkey will take new airs when served in a cream sauce atop hot waffles. Sprinkle grated cheese on top for the gourmet. It will gain new fans as well as please the old followers.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

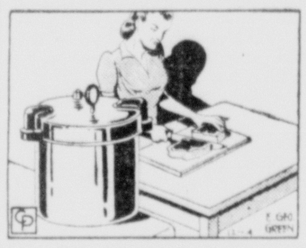
WIFE PRESERVERS



The less expensive cuts of beef may be cooked in the pressure cooker to complete tenderness in a short time, and they are easier on your budget.

Remodel your once-cooked meats by transforming them into a flavorful casserole. The "meat in disguise" main dish can be crowned with a tender biscuit topping to make a meal-in-one. Flaky golden brown biscuits are a treat in themselves. Vary the biscuit topping to fit the "under cover" filling. Shredded cheese, finely chopped parsley, pimiento, or onion add their own flavor to biscuits. Caraway seeds added to biscuit dough give a very distinctive flavor. All of these biscuit variations travel nicely atop the main dish. Remember to bake the "extras" to be served piping hot with butter or margarine.

Griddlecakes are never out of season. These steaming hot breakfast treats delight "early arisers." Surprise your family with the next batch of griddlecakes. Make your favorite batter. Core apples and slice. Pour ¼ cup batter on hot griddle. Place an apple slice on top and cover with ¼ cup more batter. Turn the griddlecake when it's bubbly on top and only once. Remember ... if you want nice fluffy pancakes ... don't "spank" the cakes.

Various Stuffings

Here is a Holiday collection of stuffing recipes. It runs the gamut from the exotic, the new, to the old-fashioned, tried and true.

From the inspiring cuisine of China we have developed an exciting taste and texture treat — Mandarin Orange Bread Stuffing. Tropical fruits challenged our test kitchen staff . . . so they worked out a tropical variation which we feel will intrigue you — Banana-Orange Bread Stuffing. This version is particularly good with chicken. Try it with veal, too.

Southern cooking gave us kitchen cues for two more recipes — Peanut Bread Stuffing and Cornmeal Bread Stuffing. The latter is an unusually delightful recipe departure from an old-time southern favorite — cornbread stuffing.

Suggestions for two more came from the bright red, tangy cranberry of Massachusett's shore and Wisconsin's bogs, and the walnut from California's golden valleys — Cranberry Bread Stuffing and Walnut Bread Stuffing.

Bread Stuffings

Banana-Orange Bread Stuffing

⅓ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
2 quarts ½" soft bread cubes
1 pint diced firm bananas
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon salt

Melt butter in a skillet; add onion and saute until tender. Pour over soft bread cubes, bananas, orange juice and salt. Mix thoroughly.

Yield: 2 quarts Banana-Orange Bread Stuffing.

Cranberry Bread Stuffing

1 quart fresh cranberries
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 gallon soft ½" bread cubes
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sage or marjoram
1 cup milk or bouillon

Chop cranberries and add sugar. Melt butter in a skillet; add celery and saute until tender. Combine cranberry and sugar mixture, celery, soft bread cubes, salt, sage and milk.

Yield: 2½ quarts Cranberry Bread Stuffing.

Peanut Bread Stuffing

⅔ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
3 quarts soft bread crumbs
1 cup chopped salted peanuts
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup turkey broth

Yield: 7 cups Peanut Bread Stuffing.

Cornmeal Bread Stuffing

1 cup water
¼ cup yellow corn meal
½ cup (¼ pound) sausage meat
1 quart ½" soft bread cubes
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sage
2 eggs, beaten

Combine water and cornmeal and cook ten minutes, stirring constantly. Fry sausage. Combine cornmeal mixture with soft bread cubes, cooked sausage, celery, onion, salt, sage and beaten eggs. Bake uncovered in a greased quart casserole in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for thirty minutes.

Yield: 1 quart Cornmeal Bread Stuffing.

Mandarin Orange Bread Stuffing

2½ quarts soft bread crumbs
1 cup or (11-ounce) can Mandarin orange sections
½ cup orange juice
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Yield: 2 quarts Mandarin Orange Bread Stuffing.

Walnut Bread Stuffing

¾ cup butter, margarine or shortening
1 pint chopped celery
1 pint chopped onion
1 pint chopped walnuts
4½ quarts toasted or dry ½" bread cubes
1 tablespoon salt
⅜ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoon thyme
¾ teaspoon sage
3 eggs, beaten
2½ cups milk

Melt butter in a skillet; add celery and onion and saute until tender and lightly browned. Pour over walnuts, toasted bread cubes, salt, pepper, thyme and sage. Combine beaten eggs and milk with bread mixture.

Yield: 4½ quarts Walnut Bread Stuffing.

There's sure to be some turkey left from the Thanksgiving bird. Many homemakers count on this and plan meals accordingly. Here's a hint for a club sandwich. Put slices of cold turkey between enriched toast slices. Top with thin slices of jellied cranberry sauce and another slice of toast. Everyone knows cranberries and turkey are "go-togethers." They're good in sandwiches, too.

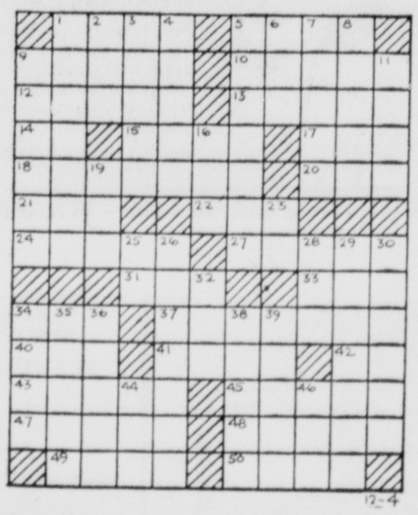
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Orange Frosting

(Fine for white or yellow cake)

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 pkg. chocolate quick fudge and frosting mix
Pecan or walnut halves

Use double boiler. Keep water boiling in bottom part. Into top part put butter. Measure orange juice in paper measure in package—fill once to FROSTING mark. Add orange juice and orange rind to butter. When butter has melted, add entire contents of package of quick fudge and frosting mix. Stir over boiling water 3 to 4 minutes . . . until glossy. Remove from heat. Spread frosting on cake. To keep frosting thin, replace over boiling water. If too thin, cool slightly. Before frosting cools completely, press on walnut or pecan halves for decoration.

The tart red cranberry season is here. Put tradition aside in favor of your own ingenuity in using these berries in your cooking. One new way of using these berries is in hot breads. Perk up muffins—in flavor and color—by the addition of these acrid sweet cranberries. Sweeten ground raw cranberries to be added to the muffins with the liquid ingredients. Serve this delicious hot bread with butter or margarine for any fall meal.

hedral angles finds greater difficulty to maintain equilibrium in strong winds than eagles and hawks which hold their wings level.

"The hen hawk can rise faster than the buzzard and its motion is steadier. . . .

"Hawks are better soarers than buzzards but more often resort to flapping because they wish greater speed. . . .

"No bird soars in a calm."

Back at Kitty Hawk a year later, Wilbur's notebook contains elaborate reports on flying tactics of buzzards, as observed through field glasses. In March 1905, Chanute and Wilbur Wright were still exchanging data on the wing measurements of crows and buzzards.

With all their preoccupation with flying at Kitty Hawk, the brothers still had time for other matters. Orville wrote to his sister from Kitty Hawk in October 1900:

"The economics of this place were so nicely balanced before our arrival that everybody here could live and yet nothing be wasted. Our presence brought disaster to the whole arrangement. We, having more money than the natives, have been able to buy up the whole egg product of the town and about all the canned goods in the store."

Katharine herself wrote to her father in August 1902, just before the brothers were to leave again for Kitty Hawks:

"The flying machine is in process of making now. Will spins the sewing machine around by the hour while Orv squats around marking the places to sew. There is no place in the house to live but I'll be lonesome enough by this time next week . . ."

From Kitty Hawk, one brother or another would write of the difficulties of camping, of building a "death trap for a poor mouse that has been annoying us," of searching unsuccessfully in the dark for a bottle which kept them awake because of the wind whistling into it, and of the cold weather.

Their father described the brothers as "inseparable as twins." And an editor's note describes an instance in which "the uncanny interplay of two remarkably sympathetic minds" completed, within a few hours, the essentials of the Wright system of controlling an airplane.

In this case, Orville told his brother at breakfast of an idea that came to him in the night, to convert the vertical tail from a fixed vane to a movable rudder. Wilbur, without hesitation, accepted the change and startled Orville by proposing the further bold modification of interconnecting the rudder wires with those of the wing warping, so that an operator could effect both controls with a single movement.

The Wright biographies, by Fred C. Kelly of Washington, have made familiar the story of the brothers' first powered flight, at Kitty Hawk Dec. 17, 1903.

There were four flights—marking the birth of aviation—that day, the first lasting about 12 seconds and the last 59 seconds, all made over level ground.

If Dec. 17, 1903, was their greatest day, the brothers were able to write even more excitedly of later triumphs.

In August 1908, Wilbur wrote France of the public's sudden change from skepticism to great popularity, after his first circling and figure-8 flights at Le Mans:

"The newspapers and the French aviators nearly went wild with excitement. . . . You would have almost died of laughter if you could have seen them. . . . You never saw anything like the complete reversal of position that took place after two or three little flights of less than two minutes each."

And a month later, after Orville had successfull demonstrated their airplane to the Army at Ft. Myer, Va., Wilbur wrote from Paris:

"You ought to seen it. You ought to seen it. I refer to the excitement roused by Orville's dandy flights . . . I have had almost as many congratulations on Orville's success as I had a month ago."

Wilbur died of typhoid fever May 30, 1912. The entry in his father's diary:

"This morning at 3:15, Wilbur passed away, aged 45 years, 1 month and 14 days. A short life, full of consequences."

The final paper in the two volumes is the last letter Orville wrote, to the General Electric Co., from Dayton just six days before his death in January 1948.

"I have a 10-hp General Electric motor that I would like to sell," wrote Orville.

"This motor was purchased in 1917 for use in my laboratory on a wind tunnel. . . .

"Would you be interested in purchasing it or do you know of an interested purchaser?"

Beefsteak Pie

1 pound lean raw beef; salt; pepper; flour; fat; 2 or 3 onions, sliced; 2 cups cooked tomatoes; 1 cup cooked snap beans; 1 cup liquor from beans; chopped parsley, if available; pastry.

Select lean beef from round, chuck, flank, shank, neck, or brisket. Cut the meat in inch cubes, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and flour and brown in 2 or 3 tablespoons of fat. Add the onions and brown them. Then add the tomatoes and 1 cup of the liquor in which the beans cooked. Simmer 2-½ to 3 hours, or until the meat is tender. If the stew needs to be thickened, mix 1 to 2 tablespoons of flour to a smooth paste with an equal quantity of cold water. To the paste add several spoonfuls of the stew, then stir the mixture into the rest of the stew and cook until smooth and thickened. Season to taste. Add the beans, and also the parsley if available. Put the stew into a shallow pan or baking dish. Top with fluffy mashed potatoes or biscuit dough and brown in the oven.

To make biscuit dough: Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoons salt. Combine 6 tablespoons fat with the sifted dry ingredients, and add milk or water to make a soft mixture that can be rolled. Roll the dough about ½ inch thick to the size of the baking dish, place on top of the meat filling, and bake at 425°F. (hot oven). The crust bakes better if the filling is hot at the start.

Pot Roast Of Beef

Select 4 to 5 pounds of beef—chuck, rump, or round. Rub the meat with salt, pepper, and flour, and brown on all sides in a little hot fat in a deep heavy pan with cover.

Slip a low rack under meat to keep it from sticking to pan. Add one-half cup water; cover pan closely. Cook slowly over low heat until done—about 3 hours. Add more water as needed.

Add potatoes, onions, and carrots during the last part of the cooking. Allow about one-half hour for quartered vegetables; about one hour for whole vegetables.

A new adaptation of an old-time favorite — Cheese Rabbit — is Mushroom Rabbit. To your favorite cheese sauce, seasoned in high style with cayenne pepper, dry mustard and Worcestershire, add saute'ed mushrooms. The contents of a four-ounce can of mushrooms blended with a cup of cheese sauce will turn the trick. Serve the mushroom mixture over buttered hot toast.

Exclusive double-wrapped Aluminum Package keeps GOOD LUCK fresher and better tasting than any other margarine!

Read the proof! In flavor tests, new Reynolds Wrap kept GOOD LUCK fresh as the day it was made—even after 8 weeks! Only GOOD LUCK has it!

NOW YOU can serve perfect table spread every time—fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was packed! Just look for GOOD LUCK margarine in this revolutionary new package made of shiny Reynolds aluminum foil.

To test this package we put GOOD LUCK in a refrigerator along with other table spreads wrapped in ordinary waxed cartons. Next to them we placed sliced onions—and the strongest cheese we could find.

Fresh and Sweet After Eight Weeks

After eight weeks, GOOD LUCK in its new aluminum package was still as fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was made! But the other quality margarines in the usual waxed cartons had lost flavor and picked up odors very quickly, some after only six days.

Here's the reason for the difference: We wrap each quarter-pound print in pure Reynolds Wrap, then we put the quarter pounds in a waxed carton for extra protection, and finally, we seal the whole carton in shiny aluminum foil.

As a result, GOOD LUCK not only tastes delicious when we wrap it, but stays fresher and better tasting than any other margarine.

Remember: GOOD LUCK in its new package is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Company, 390 Park Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Keep GOOD LUCK in Your Refrigerator—it Spreads Easily!

The delicate flavor of this fine quality margarine is perishable. That's why we carefully refrigerate GOOD LUCK during processing – also while awaiting shipment, and in transit.

If you want to enjoy GOOD LUCK at its delicious best, always keep it in your refrigerator. You'll find GOOD LUCK spreads smoothly even when cold.

1 LB. FAMILY STYLE ROLL SAVES TIME—AND MONEY!

GOOD LUCK'S Family-Style Roll is now wrapped in Reynolds Aluminum Foil. It's easy to unwrap, handy for cooking or serving at the table. It's the same quality margarine—yet saves you 2¢ more than the individually wrapped quarters!

Various Stuffings

From the inspiring cuisine of China we have developed an exciting taste and texture treat — Mandarin Orange Bread Stuffing. Tropical fruits challenged our test kitchen staff . . . so they worked out a tropical variation which we feel will intrigue you — Banana-Orange Bread Stuffing. This version is particularly good with chicken. Try it with veal, too.

Southern cooking gave us kitchen cues for two more recipes — Peanut Bread Stuffing and Cornmeal Bread Stuffing. The latter is an unusually delightful recipe departure from an old-time southern favorite — cornbread stuffing.

Suggestions for two more came from the bright red, tangy cranberry of Massachusett's shore and Wisconsin's bogs, and the walnut from California's golden valleys — Cranberry Bread Stuffing and Walnut Bread Stuffing.

Bread Stuffings

Banana-Orange Bread Stuffing

⅓ cup butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped onion
2 quarts ½" soft bread cubes
1 pint diced firm bananas
¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon salt

Melt butter in a skillet; add onion and saute until tender. Pour over soft bread cubes, bananas, orange juice and salt. Mix thoroughly.

Yield: 2 quarts Banana-Orange Bread Stuffing.

Cranberry Bread Stuffing

1 quart fresh cranberries
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup butter or margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1 gallon soft ½" bread cubes
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon sage or marjoram
1 cup milk or bouillon

Chop cranberries and add sugar. Melt butter in a skillet; add celery and saute until tender. Combine cranberry and sugar mixture, celery, soft bread cubes, salt, sage and milk.

Yield: 2½ quarts Cranberry Bread Stuffing.

Peanut Bread Stuffing

⅔ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
3 quarts soft bread crumbs
1 cup chopped salted peanuts
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup turkey broth

Yield: 7 cups Peanut Bread Stuffing.

Cornmeal Bread Stuffing

1 cup water
¼ cup yellow corn meal
½ cup (¼ pound) sausage meat
1 quart ½" soft bread cubes
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sage
2 eggs, beaten

Combine water and cornmeal and cook ten minutes, stirring constantly. Fry sausage. Combine cornmeal mixture with soft bread cubes, cooked sausage, celery, onion, salt, sage and beaten eggs. Bake uncovered in a greased quart casserole in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for thirty minutes.

Yield: 1 quart Cornmeal Bread Stuffing.

Mandarin Orange Bread Stuffing

2½ quarts soft bread crumbs
1 cup or (11-ounce) can Mandarin orange sections
½ cup orange juice
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon celery salt
3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine

Yield: 2 quarts Mandarin Orange Bread Stuffing.

Walnut Bread Stuffing

¾ cup butter, margarine or shortening
1 pint chopped celery
1 pint chopped onion
1 pint chopped walnuts
4½ quarts toasted or dry ½" bread cubes
1 tablespoon salt
⅜ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoon thyme
¾ teaspoon sage
3 eggs, beaten
2½ cups milk

Melt butter in a skillet; add celery and onion and saute until tender and lightly browned. Pour over walnuts, toasted bread cubes, salt, pepper, thyme and sage. Combine beaten eggs and milk with bread mixture.

Yield: 4½ quarts Walnut Bread Stuffing.

There's sure to be some turkey left from the Thanksgiving bird. Many homemakers count on this and plan meals accordingly. Here's a hint for a club sandwich. Put slices of cold turkey between enriched toast slices. Top with thin slices of jellied cranberry sauce and another slice of toast. Everyone knows cranberries and turkey are "go-togethers." They're good in sandwiches, too.

Praline Frosting

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons cold water
- ½ teaspoon maple flavoring
- 1 pkg. penuche quick fudge and frosting mix
- ½ cup pecans (broken in half, lengthwise)

Use double boiler. Keep water boiling in bottom part. Into top part put butter. Measure water in paper measure in package—fill once to FROSTING mark. Add water to butter. When butter has melted, add maple flavoring and entire contents of package of quick fudge and frosting mix. Stir over boiling water 3 to 4 minutes . . . until glossy. Remove from heat. Spread frosting on bottom layer, put on top layer and frost sides of cake. To remaining frosting add broken pecans. Pour over top of cake, spreading frosting to the edges.

Fudge frosting is the perfect icing for your cakes, whether for tonight's dessert or for next week's bake sale. It's quick to make, always, smooth and creamy when you choose any of the 3 flavors of quick fudge mix. There's rich chocolate, old fashion brown sugar penuche, and luscious coconut with real shredded coconut added.

Rich golden apricots add sunshine and flavor to these "something special" cookies for your November feasting.

As the weather gets colder, more home baking is done. The fragrant aroma of freshly baked cookies is pleasing to everyone. Mothers who keep the cookie jar filled have top rating with youngsters and oldsters alike. And these cookies are ideal when afternoon callers drop in unexpectedly.

These sweet Filled Apricot Cookies are easily made and quite attractive . . . any season of the year. Delicate brown cookies with sun-gold apricot filling and cups of hot tea establish a feeling of well-being among your guests.

The season is at hand when there will be many demands for cakes, pies, cookies and all kinds of tempting desserts. Add this recipe to your file of holiday season cookies.

When there's no time for baking, select hearty or tea-time cookies from the bake shop. The baker always has a variety of seasonal favorites, freshly baked every day.

FILLED APRICOT COOKIES

½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Sift together flour and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla extract. Beat well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture, mixing until well blended. Chill. Roll out ⅛ inch thick on floured board or pastry cloth. Cut half of dough with biscuit cutter and other half with doughnut cutter. Put about 1 teaspoon filling on plain rounds. Cover with doughnut rounds, pressing edges together with fork. Bake on ungreased baking sheets in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 10 min.

Apricot Filling

1 cup chopped cooked dried apricots
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Cook apricots, sugar and water together until thick. Remove from heat and add butter or margarine. Cool.

Makes about 2½ dozen 2-inch cookies.

Cut off the stem ends of green peppers, and remove the seeds. Boil the pepper shells for about 5 minutes in lightly salted water, and drain. Mix chopped or ground cooked beef with bread crumbs, cooked rice, or mashed potatoes, add melted fat, an onion chopped fine, and moisten with gravy, milk, chili sauce, or catsup. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stuff the peppers with this mixture, cover with fine bread crumbs, and bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 30 minutes, or until the peppers are tender and the crumbs are brown.

Red ripe apples are a "standby" for the homemaker. There are many varieties of this plump red fruit. Some are suited better for eating out of hand and others for cooking. But the fact remains... they're good. Add finely chopped apples to muffins or coffee cakes for a flavorsome addition to fall meals. A streusel topping for coffee cakes can also take up the "apple theme." Generous amounts of finely chopped apples added to the topping makes a coffee cake something special.

Beefsteak Pie

1 pound lean raw beef; salt; pepper; flour; fat; 2 or 3 onions, sliced; 2 cups cooked tomatoes; 1 cup cooked snap beans; 1 cup liquor from beans; chopped parsley, if available; pastry.

Select lean beef from round, chuck, flank, shank, neck, or brisket. Cut the meat in inch cubes, sprinkle with salt, pepper, and flour and brown in 2 or 3 tablespoons of fat. Add the onions and brown them. Then add the tomatoes and 1 cup of the liquor in which the beans cooked. Simmer 2-½ to 3 hours, or until the meat is tender. If the stew needs to be thickened, mix 1 to 2 tablespoons of flour to a smooth paste with an equal quantity of cold water. To the paste add several spoonfuls of the stew, then stir the mixture into the rest of the stew and cook until smooth and thickened. Season to taste. Add the beans, and also the parsley if available. Put the stew into a shallow pan or baking dish. Top with fluffy mashed potatoes or biscuit dough and brown in the oven.

To make biscuit dough: Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoons salt. Combine 6 tablespoons fat with the sifted dry ingredients, and add milk or water to make a soft mixture that can be rolled. Roll the dough about ½ inch thick to the size of the baking dish, place on top of the meat filling, and bake at 425°F. (hot oven). The crust bakes better if the filling is hot at the start.

Pot Roast Of Beef

Select 4 to 5 pounds of beef—chuck, rump, or round. Rub the meat with salt, pepper, and flour, and brown on all sides in a little hot fat in a deep heavy pan with cover.

Slip a low rack under meat to keep it from sticking to pan. Add one-half cup water; cover pan closely. Cook slowly over low heat until done—about 3 hours. Add more water as needed.

Add potatoes, onions, and carrots during the last part of the cooking. Allow about one-half hour for quartered vegetables; about one hour for whole vegetables.

A new adaptation of an old-time favorite — Cheese Rabbit — is Mushroom Rabbit. To your favorite cheese sauce, seasoned in high style with cayenne pepper, dry mustard and Worcestershire, add saute'ed mushrooms. The contents of a four-ounce can of mushrooms blended with a cup of cheese sauce will turn the trick. Serve the mushroom mixture over buttered hot toast.

Exclusive double-wrapped Aluminum Package keeps GOOD LUCK fresher and better tasting than any other margarine!

Read the proof! In flavor tests, new Reynolds Wrap kept GOOD LUCK fresh as the day it was made—even after 8 weeks! Only GOOD LUCK has it!

Now you can serve perfect table spread every time—fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was packed! Just look for GOOD LUCK margarine in this revolutionary new package made of shiny Reynolds aluminum foil.

To test this package we put GOOD LUCK in a refrigerator along with other table spreads wrapped in ordinary waxed cartons. Next to them we placed sliced onions—and the strongest cheese we could find.

Fresh and Sweet After Eight Weeks

After eight weeks, GOOD LUCK in its new aluminum package was still as fresh, sweet and delicious as the day it was made! But the other quality margarines in the usual waxed cartons had lost flavor and picked up odors very quickly, some after only six days.

Here's the reason for the difference: We wrap each quarter-pound print in pure Reynolds Wrap, then we put the quarter pounds in a waxed carton for extra protection, and finally, we seal the whole carton in shiny aluminum foil.

As a result, GOOD LUCK not only tastes delicious when we wrap it, but stays fresher and better tasting than any other margarine.

Remember: GOOD LUCK in its new package is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers Company, 390 Park Avenue, New York 22, New York.

Keep GOOD LUCK in Your Refrigerator—it Spreads Easily!

The delicate flavor of this fine quality margarine is perishable. That's why we carefully refrigerate GOOD LUCK during processing – also while awaiting shipment, and in transit.

If you want to enjoy GOOD LUCK at its delicious best, always keep it in your refrigerator. You'll find GOOD LUCK spreads smoothly even when cold.

1 LB. FAMILY STYLE ROLL SAVES TIME—AND MONEY!

GOOD LUCK'S Family-Style Roll is now wrapped in Reynolds Aluminum Foil. It's easy to unwrap, handy for cooking or serving at the table. It's the same quality margarine—yet saves you 2¢ more than the individually wrapped quarters!

Fruit-Cakes Yule Treat

The origin of the fruit-cake is shrouded deep in the past. Many countries—Rome, Persia, and early Spain among them—have claimed it, but ancient Egypt seems to have as sound a basis as any. It was in the Nile River valley, many centuries ago, that Egyptian families ground their own wheat into meal. To the meal they added oil, honey, sun-dried tropical fruits, spices and other aromatic substances for flavor, and formed the mixture into cakes.

Natural evolution played its inevitable part. British sailors, touching at ports in the Orient, returned with stories of the delicious cakes made with fruit, and the more enterprising brought some of the cake or some of the ingredients with them. Spices from the Orient, for example; almonds from Spain; currents and raisins from Greece and Turkey, and citrus peel preserved in honey from Italy. British bakers, hearing the sailors' stories and seeing the fruits and spices, applied their own skill and soon learned to make the aromatic, delicious cakes. Fruit-cake recipes became family heirlooms, jealously guarded and handed down from generation to generation, and when bakers migrated to America the prized recipes came with them.

Beef And Potato Puff

2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons fat
3 cups ground cooked beef
3 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup gravy or milk
3 eggs
Salt and pepper

Cook the onion and parsley for a few minutes in the fat, then mix thoroughly with the meat, potatoes, and gravy or milk. Season to taste. Add the beaten egg yolks, then fold in the beaten whites. Pile lightly into a greased baking dish and bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 1 hour or until set in the center and lightly browned. Serve in the dish, with tomato sauce if desired. 5-6 servings.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

"This project is a challenge, men . . . we must solve the mathematical mystery of why a woman who claims she hasn't a thing to wear; requires 3 closets for them! . . .

If you are interested in a snack which has tang and zip, prepare a bowlful of Horse-radish Mustard Croutons. These out-of-hand bites of delight can be made by tossing a pint of soft bread cubes in a mixture of 2 tablespoons corn oil, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish. Spread the cubes on a cookie sheet and toast under low broiler heat for five minutes, or until golden brown. Turn once or twice during the broiling time.

Praline Frosting

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons cold water
- ½ teaspoon maple flavoring
- 1 pkg. penuche quick fudge and frosting mix
- ½ cup pecans (broken in half, lengthwise)

Use double boiler. Keep water boiling in bottom part. Into top part put butter. Measure water in paper measure in package—fill once to FROSTING mark. Add water to butter. When butter has melted, add maple flavoring and entire contents of package of quick fudge and frosting mix. Stir over boiling water 3 to 4 minutes . . . until glossy. Remove from heat. Spread frosting on bottom layer, put on top layer and frost sides of cake. To remaining frosting add broken pecans. Pour over top of cake, spreading frosting to the edges.

Fudge frosting is the perfect icing for your cakes, whether for tonight's dessert or for next week's bake sale. It's quick to make, always, smooth and creamy when you choose any of the 3 flavors of quick fudge mix. There's rich chocolate, old fashion brown sugar penuche, and luscious coconut with real shredded coconut added.

Rich golden apricots add sunshine and flavor to these "something special" cookies for your November feasting.

As the weather gets colder, more home baking is done. The fragrant aroma of freshly baked cookies is pleasing to everyone. Mothers who keep the cookie jar filled have top rating with youngsters and oldsters alike. And these cookies are ideal when afternoon callers drop in unexpectedly.

These sweet Filled Apricot Cookies are easily made and quite attractive . . . any season of the year. Delicate brown cookies with sun-gold apricot filling and cups of hot tea establish a feeling of well-being among your guests.

The season is at hand when there will be many demands for cakes, pies, cookies and all kinds of tempting desserts. Add this recipe to your file of holiday season cookies.

When there's no time for baking, select hearty or tea-time cookies from the bake shop. The baker always has a variety of seasonal favorites, freshly baked every day.

FILLED APRICOT COOKIES

3½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Apricot Filling

Sift together flour and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs and vanilla extract. Beat well. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture, mixing until well blended. Chill. Roll out ⅛ inch thick on floured board or pastry cloth. Cut half of dough with biscuit cutter and other half with doughnut cutter. Put about 1 teaspoon filling on plain rounds. Cover with doughnut rounds, pressing edges together with fork. Bake on ungreased baking sheets in moderately hot oven (400°F.) 10 min.

Apricot Filling

1 cup chopped cooked dried apricots
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Cook apricots, sugar and water together until thick. Remove from heat and add butter or margarine. Cool.

Makes about 2½ dozen 2-inch cookies.

Cut off the stem ends of green peppers, and remove the seeds. Boil the pepper shells for about 5 minutes in lightly salted water, and drain. Mix chopped or ground cooked beef with bread crumbs, cooked rice, or mashed potatoes, add melted fat, an onion chopped fine, and moisten with gravy, milk, chili sauce, or catsup. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stuff the peppers with this mixture, cover with fine bread crumbs, and bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 30 minutes, or until the peppers are tender and the crumbs are brown.

Red ripe apples are a "standby" for the homemaker. There are many varieties of this plump red fruit. Some are suited better for eating out of hand and others for cooking. But the fact remains . . . they're good. Add finely chopped apples to muffins or coffee cakes for a flavorsome addition to fall meals. A streusel topping for coffee cakes can also take up the "apple theme." Generous amounts of finely chopped apples added to the topping makes a coffee cake something special.

Homemade Candy For Yule Gift

Imagine making confections that look as though they stepped right out of your favorite candy shop!

People have a special fondness for homemade candy, so you'll find it a wonderful holiday gift idea. Making an attractive assortment is unbelievably easy — in fact, it can be done from one basic recipe.

The secret is a cream cheese fudge that you can flavor in many delectable ways. No gift box would be complete without chocolate, and of course maple and almond are popular flavors, too. Peanut butter fudge may be new to you—but you'll find it a delicious novelty to add to your selection.

For variety in shape, you can fashion coconut cream cheese fudge into balls. Then, to give your gift box that professional look, slip each piece of candy into a glassine candy cup.

You'll marvel at the simplicity of cream cheese fudge. It's a blend of delicious cream cheese with confectioners' sugar and flavorings—no cooking, and perfect every time! Glamorous to serve, it has the additional merit of being a wholesome sweet for the family.

Cream Cheese Fudge Gift Box

Coconut Cream Cheese Fudge Balls

* 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese; 2½ cups confectioners' sugar; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; dash of salt; ¼ cup shredded coconut. Place the cream cheese in a bowl and cream it until soft and smooth. Slowly blend the sugar into it. Add the vanilla and salt, and mix until well blended. Add ¼ cup of shredded coconut. Form the mixture into balls about 1 inch in diameter. Roll them in shredded coconut.

Breakfast's Ready

A good breakfast at any season of the year is necessary if you wish to start the day with energy and pep. A skimpy poorly balanced morning meal may mean your food intake for the whole day will be low in food essentials. Milk and butter are important foods at any meal. It is wise to make certain they are included at breakfast. A glass of milk at the start of the day is a valuable contribution to the meal.

French Toast with Honey Butter serves admirably for the feature of a holiday breakfast. Add orange juice, pork link sausages, and milk, of course, and you will have a nutritious, appetizing meal. Try Honey Butter soon on French toast, pancakes, or waffles. It's delicious.

FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons butter
8 slices day-old bread

Beat eggs slightly; add milk and salt and stir well. Dip bread slices into mixture. Heat a little butter in a skillet; add soaked bread slices and cook until delicate brown on both sides. Add extra butter to skillet, as needed. Serve with Honey Butter. Serves 4.

HONEY BUTTER

Blend equal parts of soft butter and honey together. Serve on French toast. Store in refrigerator.

Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge

* 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese; 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar; 2 1-oz. squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; dash of salt; ½ cup chopped pecans.

Place the cream cheese in a bowl and cream it until soft and smooth. Slowly blend the sugar into it. Add the melted chocolate. Mix well. Add the vanilla, salt and chopped pecans and mix until well blended. Press into a well greased shallow pan. Place in the refrigerator until firm (about 15 minutes). Cut into squares. For slightly softer fudge blend in 1 teaspoon of cream).

Maple Cream Cheese Fudge

Follow directions for the Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge, except use 2½ cups of sugar and add 10 drops of maple flavoring instead of the chocolate and vanilla.

Almond Cream Cheese Fudge

Follow directions for the Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge, except use 2½ cups of sugar, add ¼ teaspoon of almond flavoring instead of the chocolate and vanilla, and use ½ cup chopped almonds instead of pecans.

Peanut Butter Cream Cheese Fudge

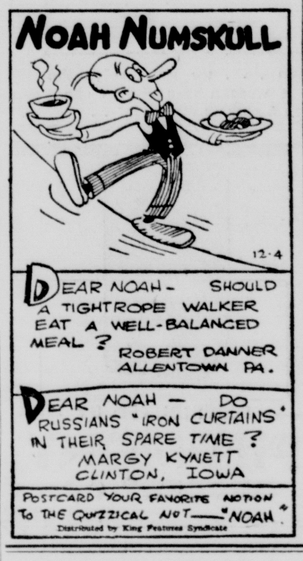
Follow directions for the Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge, except use 2½ cups of sugar, add 2 tablespoons of peanut butter instead of the chocolate, and use ¼ cup of chopped salted peanuts instead of pecans.

Spicy Coconut Frosting

(To frost raisin or applesauce cake)

5 tablespoons milk
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1 pkg. coconut quick fudge and frosting mix

Use double boiler. Keep water boiling in bottom part. Measure milk in paper measure in package—fill TWICE to FROSTING mark. Put milk and cinnamon into top part. Add entire contents of package of coconut quick fudge and frosting mix. Let stand over boiling water without stirring for about a minute. Then, stir over boiling water 3 to 4 minutes . . . until glossy. Remove from heat. Spread frosting on cake. To keep frosting thin, replace over boiling water. If too thin, cool slightly.



Jellied Meat Salad

3½ teaspoons gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
1 cup hot broth (from meat or canned cansomme
1 teaspoon onion juice
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 cup chopped cooked beef
¼ cup cooked or canned peas
2 tablespoons sliced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped celery

Fruit-Cakes Yule Treat

The origin of the fruit-cake is shrouded deep in the past. Many countries—Rome, Persia, and early Spain among them—have claimed it, but ancient Egypt seems to have as sound a basis as any. It was in the Nile River valley, many centuries ago, that Egyptian families ground their own wheat into meal. To the meal they added oil, honey, sun-dried tropical fruits, spices and other aromatic substances for flavor, and formed the mixture into cakes.

Natural evolution played its inevitable part. British sailors, touching at ports in the Orient, returned with stories of the delicious cakes made with fruit, and the more enterprising brought some of the cake or some of the ingredients with them. Spices from the Orient, for example; almonds from Spain; currents and raisins from Greece and Turkey, and citrus peel preserved in honey from Italy. British bakers, hearing the sailors' stories and seeing the fruits and spices, applied their own skill and soon learned to make the aromatic, delicious cakes. Fruit-cake recipes became family heirlooms, jealously guarded and handed down from generation to generation, and when bakers migrated to America the prized recipes came with them.

Beef And Potato Puff

2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons fat
3 cups ground cooked beef
3 cups mashed potatoes
1 cup gravy or milk
3 eggs Salt and pepper

Cook the onion and parsley for a few minutes in the fat, then mix thoroughly with the meat, potatoes, and gravy or milk. Season to taste. Add the beaten egg yolks, then fold in the beaten whites. Pile lightly into a greased baking dish and bake at 350° F. (moderate oven) for 1 hour or until set in the center and lightly browned. Serve in the dish, with tomato sauce if desired. 5-6 servings.

"This project is a challenge, men . . . we must solve the mathematical mystery of why a woman who claims she hasn't a thing to wear; requires 3 closets for them! . . .

If you are interested in a snack which has tang and zip, prepare a bowlful of Horse-radish Mustard Croutons. These out-of-hand bites of delight can be made by tossing a pint of soft bread cubes in a mixture of 2 tablespoons corn oil, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard and 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish. Spread the cubes on a cookie sheet and toast under low broiler heat for five minutes, or until golden brown. Turn once or twice during the broiling time.

Cumberland's 15 Outstanding Football Players Are Named

Fort Hill, Allegany Gridders Share Twelve Places On Team

LaSalle Given Three Berths; Nine Linemen, Six Backs Selected

By TED TROXELL

Cumberland's 1953 football co-champaions, the Allegany High Campers and the Fort Hill High Sentinels, have earned twelve of the berths allotted to fifteen of the city's outstanding players selected from the 1953 crop by the Cumberland News.

LaSalle High's Sentinels gained the three other places in the 15-man all-star aggregation.

This year's edition of the top 15 finds thirteen seniors on the list with the remaining two places filled by juniors among the nine linemen and six backs.

The team, which averages 175 pounds on the line and 156 in the backfield, also produced a scoring punch that accounted for 204 points during the season.

Allegany players chosen were Bob Reiber, Lee Weller, Bernie Beerman, George Reynolds, Bob Kirtley and Ed Joyce. Those honored from Fort Hill were Dick Bittner, Bill Murphy, Ed Cookerly, Neil Bechtol, Bob Andrews and Stanley Teets. LaSalle players chosen were Rickey Harris, Denny Shuck and Bobby Christ.

Thumbnail sketches on the 15 standouts are as follows:

ALLEGANY

BOB REIBER — End — A 170-pound senior, Bob, proved to be a thorn in the side of the LaSalle Explorers when these two clubs met during the season, making several sensational pass catches in the contest, as well as snagging the all-important pass for the point after touchdown . . . Also performs on the basketball court . . . Was selected as Lineman of the Week for his great play in the LaSalle contest.

LEE WELLER — End — Truly the unsung hero of the Alco eleven, Weller, 160-pound senior, consistently proved to be a tower of strength on defense, and on three occasions was barely nosed out for Lineman of the Week honors . . . Scored Allegany touchdown in Turkey Day game on great end around play . . . A great distance runner, he is a miler on the Campobello track squad.

BERNIE BEERMAN — Tackle — Was a guard for the Campers last year and copped All-City honors . . . Bernie found the tackle position to his liking, and the 190-pound senior class president performed masterfully in his new role . . . Joins several teammates as Lineman of the Week choice . . . An exceptionally fast runner, Bernie is a 100-yard dash man on the Alco track team.

GEORGE REYNOLDS — Guard — This was George's second year as a regular on the Lester-coached eleven, and the 140-pound mighty mite gave added strength to the center of the big Allegany line . . . A senior, Reynolds was selected for his sensational play in Patterson Park contest as a Lineman of the Week.

BOB KIRTLEY — Quarterback — Although we are listing him as a quarterback, actually Bob is at home anywhere on the field, as he proved this year filling in on the line, as well as in the backfield . . . A three-time Back of the Week choice . . . Not confining his talents to football, "Kirt" also excels in baseball and basketball.

ED JOYCE — Halfback — A hard-running 140-pound senior, Joyce proved to be a pleasant

Hartman Was Terrific

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN hunters go gunning for male deer during Maryland's six day season which opens Monday, they'll have to bag more than 1,575 whitetails to establish a new record. That was the statewide figure set last year.

Garrett and Allegany were among the counties in which the kills represented an all-time high. A total of 592 bucks fell in Garrett county, topping the previous high of 569 in 1951. Allegany's total was 232 or 22 above the old record of 210 chalked up the previous year. Washington county's kill was 145, including the animals slain at the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, located near Hancock.

Sixty-two per cent of the deer (969) bagged in Maryland in 1952 were taken in District No. 1, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties. In several of the counties near Baltimore bow and arrow hunters killed 21 deer last year. The long bow artists have about that many to their credit this year.

TALL STORIES about anglers and nimrods are a dime a dozen but one of the best ones was told the other day by John Crowe, Johnstown, (Pa.) outdoors writer.

It concerns Joe Maslak, wrestling coach at Somerset, who is supposed to have wrestled a gobbler in a duel to the death in the mountains of Bedford county last year.

Maslak, whose only armament was a single-barrel, 12-gauge gun, was down to his last 26 shells when a flock of wild, ferocious turkeys ambushed him in an almost inaccessible mountain pass of the Alleghenies.

Reacting quickly, Maslak succeeded in routing the flock with rapid and deadly fire.

However, just as he thought the turkeys vanished, Joe was attacked by an angry gobbler. In the ensuing battle, the wrestling coach lost two front teeth and suffered abrasions of the left leg before getting a double headlock on his adversary.

At last the crunch of turkey bones told Maslak that he was out of danger. He picked up the 14-pound gobbler and slowly made his way through the darkening forest to his car.

Crowe says the story came to him by a usually reliable source and he puts emphasis on the word —usually.

THE CONDITION of Martin L. "Bill" Holcomb, one of Cumberland's best known sports figures, who has been a patient at Memorial Hospital for three weeks, is reported to be much improved.

Mr. Holcomb was a partner of Howard Vandegrift at the V.&H. Billiard Parlor on South Mechanic street since 1924 until a serious throat ailment forced him to retire. His son Dick will be remembered as a former football star at Allegany High School.

"Bill" was recognized as one of Cumberland's best informed sports fans and his thorough knowledge of football and baseball helped to settle many an argument.

MAX ROSNER, 77, owner and founder of one of the oldest semi-pro baseball teams in the United States, died the other day at Jewish Hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rosner headed the Bushwicks of Brooklyn and anyone who has ever resided around the New York metropolitan area has read plenty about the Bushwicks over the past 40 years.

Many young players who got their start with the Bushwicks graduated to the minors and thence to the majors and most of the sandlotters around New York dreamed of playing with the Bushwicks some day.

Waite Hoyt and Jimmy Ring were among the many former major league pitchers who played with Rosner's star-studded diamond agregations.

And we recall that three New York players who saw service with the Cumberland Colts in the Middle Atlantic League starred with the Bushwicks after they quit the minors. They were Danny "Buddy" Hall, the little outfielder from the Bronx, and Bob Synnott and Emil Moscowitz, two lanky right-handed pitchers. The New York Yankees sent these three players to Cumberland.

HAGERSTOWN High School, Fort Hill's opening basketball opponent here Tuesday, kicked off the lid the other night with an 86-47 win over St. Mary's High of Hagerstown.

Dave Kuhn, 6-foot-4 center, poured in 22 points, including 10 field goals for Mel Henry's outfit.

Since Henry took over the reins at the Hub City school his teams have played quints tutored by "Bobby Cavanaugh, his former coach, nine times and the Sentinels hold the edge in the series, five games to four.

Last season these schools staged a pair of thrillers, Hagerstown winning the opener, 50-49, and Fort Hill the second game, 45-44. They also put on two hair-raising battles during the 1951-52 campaign with

Lattner And Giel Repeat On AP All-America Team

Jones Of Maryland Gets Tackle Berth

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Two great midwestern backs, John Lattner of Notre Dame and Paul Giel of Minnesota, occupy the spotlight on the 1953 Associated Press All-America football team announced today.

They are the only repeaters from the 1952 team. Paul Cameron of U.C.L.A. and David (Kosse) Johnson of Rice, round the first team backfield.

The team was selected on the recommendations of boards of newspaper and radio experts representing every region of the country. It takes into account all the season's games through Nov. 28.

Rounding out the first team are Don Dohoney of Michigan State and Sam Morley of Stanford at ends, Stanley Jones of Maryland and Jack Shanafelt of Penn at tackles, J. D. Roberts of Oklahoma and Crawford Mims of Mississippi at guards, and Larry Morris of Georgia Tech at center.

With the change in the substitution rule, the AP has teturned to a single first team instead of offensive and defensive squads.

The development of versatile, 60-minute football players such as were known a decade ago brought much sharper focus on personalities in 1953. As a result of the redoubtable players that made up the first All-America were closely challenged by the 1953 second team, the backfield of which is comprised of Bernie Faloney of Maryland, J. C. Caroline of Illinois, Bob Garrett of Stanford, and Bobby Cavazos of Texas Tech.

The team:

Ends—Don Dohonoey, Mich. State, Ann Arbor, Mich.
Tackle—Stanley Jones, Maryland, Lemoyne, Pa.
Guard—J. D. Roberts, Oklahoma, Dallas, Tex.
Center — Larry Morris, Georgia Tech, Decatur, Ga.
Guard—Crawford Mims, Mississippi, Greenwood, Miss.
Tackle—Jack Shanafelt, Penn, Akron, Ohio.
End—Sam Morley, Stanford, San Marino, Calif.
Back—Paul Giel, Minnesota, Winona, Minn.

Homemade Candy For Yule Gift

Imagine making confections that look as though they stepped right out of your favorite candy shop!

People have a special fondness for homemade candy, so you'll find it a wonderful holiday gift idea. Making an attractive assortment is unbelievably easy — in fact, it can be done from one basic recipe.

The secret is a cream cheese fudge that you can flavor in many delectable ways. No gift box would be complete without chocolate, and of course maple and almond are popular flavors, too. Peanut butter fudge may be new to you—but you'll find it a delicious novelty to add to your selection.

For variety in shape, you can fashion coconut cream cheese fudge into balls. Then, to give your gift box that professional look, slip each piece of candy into a glassine candy cup.

You'll marvel at the simplicity of cream cheese fudge. It's a blend of delicious cream cheese with confectioners' sugar and flavorings—no cooking, and perfect every time! Glamorous to serve, it has the additional merit of being a wholesome sweet for the family.

Cream Cheese Fudge Gift Box

Coconut Cream Cheese Fudge Balls

* 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese; 2½ cups confectioners' sugar; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; dash of salt; ¼ cup shredded coconut. Place the cream cheese in a bowl and cream it until soft and smooth. Slowly blend the sugar into it. Add the vanilla and salt, and mix until well blended. Add ¼ cup of shredded coconut. Form the mixture into balls about 1 inch in diameter. Roll them in shredded coconut.

Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge

* 1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese; 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar; 2 1-oz. squares unsweetened chocolate, melted; ¼ teaspoon vanilla; dash of salt; ½ cup chopped pecans.

Place the cream cheese in a bowl and cream it until soft and smooth. Slowly blend the sugar into it. Add the melted chocolate. Mix well. Add the vanilla, salt and chopped pecans and mix until well blended. Press into a well greased shallow pan. Place in the refrigerator until firm (about 15 minutes). Cut into squares. For slightly softer fudge blend in 1 teaspoon of cream).

Maple Cream Cheese Fudge

Follow directions for the Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge, except use 2½ cups of sugar and add 10 drops of maple flavoring instead of the chocolate and vanilla.

Almond Cream Cheese Fudge

Follow directions for the Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge, except use 2½ cups of sugar, add ¼ teaspoon of almond flavoring instead of the chocolate and vanilla, and use ½ cup chopped almonds instead of pecans.

Peanut Butter Cream Cheese Fudge

Follow directions for the Chocolate Cream Cheese Fudge, except use 2½ cups of sugar, add 2 tablespoons of peanut butter instead of the chocolate, and use ¼ cup of chopped salted peanuts instead of pecans.

Breakfast's Ready

A good breakfast at any season of the year is necessary if you wish to start the day with energy and pep. A skimpy poorly balanced morning meal may mean your food intake for the whole day will be low in food essentials. Milk and butter are important foods at any meal. It is wise to make certain they are included at breakfast. A glass of milk at the start of the day is a valuable contribution to the meal.

French Toast with Honey Butter serves admirably for the feature of a holiday breakfast. Add orange juice, pork link sausages, and milk, of course, and you will have a nutritious, appetizing meal. Try Honey Butter soon on French toast, pancakes, or waffles. It's delicious.

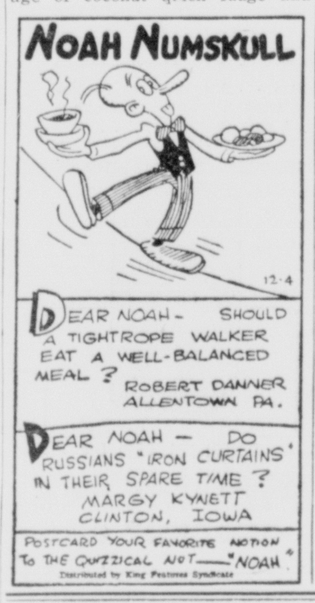
FRENCH TOAST

2 eggs
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons butter
8 slices day-old bread

Beat eggs slightly; add milk and salt and stir well. Dip bread slices into mixture. Heat a little butter in a skillet; add soaked bread slices and cook until delicate brown on both sides. Add extra butter to skillet, as needed. Serve with Honey Butter. Serves 4.

HONEY BUTTER

Blend equal parts of soft butter and honey together. Serve on French toast. Store in refrigerator.



Spicy Coconut Frosting

(To frost raisin or applesauce cake)

5 tablespoons milk
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
1 pkg. coconut quick fudge and frosting mix

Use double boiler. Keep water boiling in bottom part. Measure milk in paper measure in package —fill TWICE to FROSTING mark. Put milk and cinnamon into top part. Add entire contents of package of coconut quick fudge and frosting mix. Let stand over boiling water without stirring for about a minute. Then, stir over boiling water 3 to 4 minutes . . . until glossy. Remove from heat. Spread frosting on cake. To keep frosting thin, replace over boiling water. If too thin, cool slightly.

Jellied Meat Salad

3½ teaspoons gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
1 cup hot broth (from meat or canned consomme
1 teaspoon onion juice
Salt to taste
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 cup chopped cooked beef
¼ cup cooked or canned peas
2 tablespoons sliced pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped celery

Sprinkle gelatin on water and soak a few minutes. Dissolve in hot broth. Add onion juice, salt, and vinegar or lemon juice. Chill until thick enough to hold solid food in place.

Stir in meat, peas, celery, and pimiento. Pour into small loaf pan or individual molds and chill until firm. 4 servings.

Rio Grande Is Stopped

Adelphi Wins, 83-76; Francis Tallies 32

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Adelphi College of Garden City, N. Y. whipped Rio Grande College 83-76 in the opening college basketball doubleheader at Madison Square Garden tonight although Bevo Francis scored 32 points in his metropolitan debut. Rio Grande had won 40 games in a row.

St. John's of Brooklyn met Lafayette in the second game.

Francis, a six-foot-nine sensation from the Ohio hill country, was held to 14 points in the second half as the New Yorkers caged him in a collapsing five man zone defense.

Try as he could, Francis was unable to shake himself for a single decent shot in the final 20 minutes. He made only three field goals after the first half.

Francis obviously was disgusted near the end and he missed four of his seven free throw attempts. Francis made seven of 12 shots in the first half and three of 14 in the second half.

SALEM College, which hosts Potomac State Saturday night, warped Mountain State College of Parkersburg Tuesday night to the tune of 111-62. Hawkins and B. Gibson accounted for 49 points for the victors.

JIM TATUM'S Maryland Terps made a clean sweep of polls conducted by the nation's three big press services.

The College Parkers were rated the No. 1 football team in the nation for 1953 by the Associated Press, United Press and the International News Service.

GEORGE SPRINGER, official statistician for the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference, has released an interesting booklet containing records for the past year.

"Wink" hooped 34 consecutive foul shots against five different teams, which is an all-time record.

He registered the most baskets in a single game (20) and in the same contest tallied 46 points against Potomac State to tie "Ike" Schamp of Fairmont for the season high and paced the foul shooers of the WVIC with 126 out of 153 for the lofty average of .822.

In the conference tourney he was tops in scoring with 123 points in four games and his 48 out of 84 free throws for .600 also gave him first place in that department of the tourney.

Bob Pence, who was graduated from Fairmont State College in 1941 holds eighth place among the all-time point getters of the WVIC with a total of 1,660 tallies. George King, Morris Harvey graduate of 1950, holds the No. 1 spot with 2,537 points.

Pence, incidentally, starts his eighth straight season of pro ball here Sunday when the Old Germans meet the St. Louis Bombers. Bob has been the sparkplug of the Amvets, Dukes, Spas and Old Germans for the past seven years, has figured in 188 of the 196 games played by the locals and has chalked up 2,733 points on 1,500 field goals and 433-595 fouls. He has led the teams in scoring six times in seven seasons.

The word "stateroom" originated during a period before the American Civil war when it became a fashion to have the rooms on the Mississippi river steamboats named after the various states.

surprise to the followers of Allegany grid fortunes, moving up to the first team and playing the part like a seasoned veteran . . . Back of the Week of honors were accorded Eddie for his fine performance in Patterson Park tussle.

FORT HILL

DICK BITTNER — End — This gigantic 6' 3", 210-pounder performed well both defensively and offensively during the year, and is one of the Fort Hill candidates for Player of the Year honors . . . Was on the receiving end of three touchdown passes this year, accounting for 18 points.

BILL MURPHY — Tackle — Two-time Lineman of the Week choice . . . The well-built 175-pound senior was in on most of the tackles in Fort Hill's tie with Allegany, meriting him Lineman laurels in this contest . . . A very steady performer.

ED COOKERLY — Tackle — Teamed with Murphy to give Hahnmen a terrific power punch at the tackle slots . . . The 190-pound senior did the kicking off for the Sentinels.

NEIL BECHTOL — Center — Although he was not a great performer, this 162-pound senior was one of the most consistent players in the city . . . Called defensive signals for the Hilltoppers.

BOB ANDREWS — Halfback — Was injured in Martinsburg battle, suffering dislocated elbow which sidelined him for four games . . . Despite this, he was one of the city's top scorers with 28 markers to his credit . . . A 160-pound junior, Bob gained recognition as Back of the Week for his fine play against LaSalle in the season opener.

STAN TEETS — Halfback — This 160-pound senior was selected as Back of the Week twice during the season, and was one of the leading scorers in the city with 30 points . . . Most of his scores came on long runs.

LA SALLE

RICKEY HARRIS — Guard — Only other junior on the squad . . . Played well on both offense and defense for Norm Geatz's crew . . . May move into backfield next year as quarterback . . . A Frostburg product, this stocky 175-pounder also plays baseball and basketball. . . . A Player of the Year candidate.

DENNY SHUCK — Quarterback — Despite the fact that this senior carries only 135 pounds on his 5' 6" frame, he moved into the quarterback vacancy created by the graduation of Marty Mullaney and played well at this post . . . Also from Frostburg, like Harris, Denny is a three-sports star, and was selected as a Back of the Week.

BOB CHRIST — Halfback—Last year's city scoring leader and a 160-pound senior, Christ ran second in the '53 scoring race with 42 tallies . . . Two-time Player of the Week last year, he also was given the nod as Back of the Week this year . . . Also plays basketball and baseball.

Cumberland's 15 Outstanding Football Players Are Named

Fort Hill, Allegany Gridders Share Twelve Places On Team

By TED TROXELL

Cumberland's 1953 football co-champaions, the Allegany High Campers and the Fort Hill High Sentinels, have earned twelve of the berths allotted to fifteen of the city's outstanding players selected from the 1953 crop by the Cumberland News.

LaSalle High's Sentinels gained the three other places in the 15-man all-star aggregation.

This year's edition of the top 15 finds thirteen seniors on the list with the remaining two places filled by juniors among the nine linemen and six backs.

The team, which averages 175 pounds on the line and 156 in the backfield, also produced a scoring punch that accounted for 204 points during the season.

Allegany players chosen were Bob Reiber, Lee Weller, Bernie Beerman, George Reynolds, Bob Kirtley and Ed Joyce. Those honored from Fort Hill were Dick Bittner, Bill Murphy, Ed Cookerly, Neil Bechtol, Bob Andrews and Stanley Teets. LaSalle players chosen were Rickey Harris, Denny Shuck and Bobby Christ.

Thumbnail sketches on the 15 standouts are as follows:

ALLEGANY

BOB REIBER — End — A 170-pound senior, Bob, proved to be a thorn in the side of the LaSalle Explorers when these two clubs met during the season, making several sensational pass catches in the contest, as well as snagging the all-important pass for the point after touchdown . . . Also performs on the basketball court . . . Was selected as Lineman of the Week for his great play in the LaSalle contest.

LEE WELLER — End — Truly the unsung hero of the Alco eleven, Weller, 160-pound senior, consistently proved to be a tower of strength on defense, and on three occasions was barely nosed out for Lineman of the Week honors . . . Scored Allegany touchdown in Turkey Day game on great end around play . . . A great distance runner, he is a miler on the Campobello track squad.

BERNIE BEERMAN — Tackle — Was a guard for the Campers last year and copped All-City honors . . . Bernie found the tackle position to his liking, and the 190-pound senior class president performed masterfully in his new role . . . Joins several teammates as Lineman of the Week choice . . . An exceptionally fast runner, Bernie is a 100-yard dash man on the Alco track team.

GEORGE REYNOLDS — Guard — This was George's second year as a regular on the Lester-coached eleven, and the 140-pound mighty mite gave added strength to the center of the big Allegany line . . . A senior, Reynolds was selected for his sensational play in Patterson Park contest as a Lineman of the Week.

BOB KIRTLEY — Quarterback — Although we are listing him as a quarterback, actually Bob is at home anywhere on the field, as he proved this year filling in on the line, as well as in the backfield . . . A three-time Back of the Week choice . . . Not confining his talents to football, "Kirt" also excels in baseball and basketball.

ED JOYCE — Halfback — A hard-running 140-pound senior, Joyce proved to be a pleasant

By C. V. BURNS

WHEN hunters go gunning for male deer during Maryland's six day season which opens Monday, they'll have to bag more than 1,575 whitetails to establish a new record. That was the statewide figure set last year.

Garrett and Allegany were among the counties in which the kills represented an all-time high. A total of 592 bucks fell in Garrett county, topping the previous high of 569 in 1951. Allegany's total was 232 or 22 above the old record of 210 chalked up the previous year. Washington county's kill was 145, including the animals slain at the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club, located near Hancock.

Sixty-two per cent of the deer (969) bagged in Maryland in 1952 were taken in District No. 1, comprising Garrett, Allegany and Washington Counties. In several of the counties near Baltimore bow and arrow hunters killed 21 deer last year. The long bow artists have about that many to their credit this year.

TALL STORIES about anglers and nimrods are a dime a dozen but one of the best ones was told the other day by John Crowe, Johnstown, (Pa.) outdoors writer.

It concerns Joe Maslak, wrestling coach at Somerset, who is supposed to have wrestled a gobbler in a duel to the death in the mountains of Bedford county last year.

Maslak, whose only armament was a single-barrel, 12-gauge gun, was down to his last 26 shells when a flock of wild, ferocious turkeys ambushed him in an almost inaccessible mountain pass of the Alleghenies.

Reacting quickly, Maslak succeeded in routing the flock with rapid and deadly fire.

However, just as he thought the turkeys vanished, Joe was attacked by an angry gobbler. In the ensuing battle, the wrestling coach lost two front teeth and suffered abrasions of the left leg before getting a double headlock on his adversary.

At last the crunch of turkey bones told Maslak that he was out of danger. He picked up the 14-pound gobbler and slowly made his way through the darkening forest to his car.

Crowe says the story came to him by a usually reliable source and he puts emphasis on the word —usually.

THE CONDITION of Martin L. "Bill" Holcomb, one of Cumberland's best known sports figures, who has been a patient at Memorial Hospital for three weeks, is reported to be much improved.

Mr. Holcomb was a partner of Howard Vandegrift at the V.&H. Billiard Parlor on South Mechanic street since 1924 until a serious throat ailment forced him to retire. His son Dick will be remembered as a former football star at Allegany High School.

"Bill" was recognized as one of Cumberland's best informed sports fans and his thorough knowledge of football and baseball helped to settle many an argument.

MAX ROSNER, 77, owner and founder of one of the oldest semi-pro baseball teams in the United States, died the other day at Jewish Hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rosner headed the Bushwicks of Brooklyn and anyone who has ever resided around the New York metropolitan area has read plenty about the Bushwicks over the past 40 years.

Many young players who got their start with the Bushwicks graduated to the minors and thence to the majors and most of the sandlotters around New York dreamed of playing with the Bushwicks some day.

Waite Hoyt and Jimmy Ring were among the many former major league pitchers who played with Rosner's star-studded diamond agregations.

And we recall that three New York players who saw service with the Cumberland Colts in the Middle Atlantic League starred with the Bushwicks after they quit the minors. They were Danny "Buddy" Hall, the little outfielder from the Bronx, and Bob Synnott and Emil Moscowitz, two lanky right-handed pitchers. The New York Yankees sent these three players to Cumberland.

HAGERSTOWN High School, Fort Hill's opening basketball opponent here Tuesday, kicked off the lid the other night with an 86-47 win over St. Mary's High of Hagerstown.

Dave Kuhn, 6-foot-4 center, poured in 22 points, including 10 field goals for Mel Henry's outfit.

Since Henry took over the reins at the Hub City school his teams have played quints tutored by "Bobby Cavanaugh, his former coach, nine times and the Sentinels hold the edge in the series, five games to four.

Last season these schools staged a pair of thrillers, Hagerstown winning the opener, 50-49, and Fort Hill the second game, 45-44. They also put on two hair-raising battles during the 1951-52 campaign with

Lattner And Giel Repeat On AP All-America Team

Jones Of Maryland Gets Tackle Berth

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Two great midwestern backs, John Lattner of Notre Dame and Paul Giel of Minnesota, occupy the spotlight on the 1953 Associated Press All-America football team announced today.

They are the only repeaters from the 1952 team. Paul Cameron of U.C.L.A. and David (Kosse) Johnson of Rice, round the first team backfield.

The team was selected on the recommendations of boards of newspaper and radio experts representing every region of the country. It takes into account all the season's games through Nov. 28.

Rounding out the first team are Don Dohoney of Michigan State and Sam Morley of Stanford at ends, Stanley Jones of Maryland and Jack Shanafelt of Penn at tackles, J. D. Roberts of Oklahoma and Crawford Mims of Mississippi at guards, and Larry Morris of Georgia Tech at center.

With the change in the substitution rule, the AP has teurned to a single first team instead of offensive and defensive squads.

The development of versatile, 60-minute football players such as were known a decade ago brought much sharper focus on personalities in 1953. As a result of the redoubtable players that made up the first All-America were closely challenged by the 1953 second team, the backfield of which is comprised of Bernie Faloney of Maryland, J. C. Caroline of Illinois, Bob Garrett of Stanford, and Bobby Cavazos of Texas Tech.

The team:

Ends—Don Dohonoey, Mich. State, Ann Arbor, Mich.
Tackle—Stanley Jones, Maryland, Lemoyne, Pa.
Guard—J. D. Roberts, Oklahoma, Dallas, Tex.
Center — Larry Morris, Georgia Tech, Decatur, Ga.
Guard—Crawford Mims, Mississippi, Greenwood, Miss.
Tackle—Jack Shanafelt, Penn, Akron, Ohio.
End—Sam Morley, Stanford, San Marino, Calif.
Back—Paul Giel, Minnesota, Winona, Minn.

Small Business Gets Share Of Ordnance Defense Pacts

The efforts of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District to place Ordnance defense contracts with small business has paid off.

Sixty-four firms in the Tri-State Area, who meet the criteria of small business by having less than 500 employees, presently hold prime contracts with the District for a total of $36,972,146, an average of $577,000 per contract. Many small businesses in the Pittsburgh area act as subcontractors to large Ordnance prime contractors. In addition to placing prime contracts where possible, Ordnance Corps Installations assist small businessmen to contact sources of subcontract work.

The contracts with small business represents approximately one-third of the District total, which is in accordance with the Ordnance Corps policy of attempting to let a minimum of 35 per cent of its contracts directly to small business.

There is a small business specialist located at every purchasing installation in the Ordnance Corps reporting directly to a senior small business specialist, in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., whose sole responsibility is to see that any contracts for items which can be successfully manufactured by small business is called to the attention of small businesses throughout his area. In many cases, bidding on particularly suitable items is restricted to small business.

Howard Semler, formerly president of the Semler Company, Jeanette, Pa., is the small business specialist of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District. Semler, working in close cooperation with such agencies as the Smaller Manufacturers Council of Pittsburgh and the Chambers of Commerce of Pittsburgh and the various cities and towns in the Pittsburgh Ordnance District area, is available at all times for advice and consultation to small businessmen desiring to enter into the field of Government procurement.

Rio Grande Is Stopped

Adelphi Wins, 83-76; Francis Tallies 32

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—Adelphi College of Garden City, N. Y. whipped Rio Grande College 83-76 in the opening college basketball doubleheader at Madison Square Garden tonight although Bevo Francis scored 32 points in his metropolitan debut. Rio Grande had won 40 games in a row.

St. John's of Brooklyn met Lafayette in the second game.

Francis, a six-foot-nine sensation from the Ohio hill country, was held to 14 points in the second half as the New Yorkers caged him in a collapsing five man zone defense.

Try as he could, Francis was unable to shake himself for a single decent shot in the final 20 minutes. He made only three field goals after the first half.

Francis obviously was disgusted near the end and he missed four of his seven free throw attempts. Francis made seven of 12 shots in the first half and three of 14 in the second half.

the Maroon and Gray copping both decisions, 39-35 and 46-45.

SALEM College, which hosts Potomac State Saturday night, warped Mountain State College of Parkersburg Tuesday night to the tune of 111-62. Hawkins and B. Gibson accounted for 49 points for the victors.

JIM TATUM'S Maryland Terps made a clean sweep of polls conducted by the nation's three big press services.

The College Parkers were rated the No. 1 football team in the nation for 1953 by the Associated Press, United Press and the International News Service.

GEORGE SPRINGER, official statistician for the West Virginia Intercollegiate Conference, has released an interesting booklet containing records for the past year.

"Wink" hooped 34 consecutive foul shots against five different teams, which is an all-time record.

He registered the most baskets in a single game (20) and in the same contest tallied 46 points against Potomac State to tie "Ike" Schamp of Fairmont for the season high and paced the foul shooters of the WVIC with 126 out of 153 for the lofty average of .822.

In the conference tourney he was tops in scoring with 123 points in four games and his 48 out of 84 free throws for .600 also gave him first place in that department of the tourney.

Bob Pence, who was graduated from Fairmont State College in 1941 holds eighth place among the all-time point getters of the WVIC with a total of 1,660 tallies. George King, Morris Harvey graduate of 1950, holds the No. 1 spot with 2,537 points.

Pence, incidentally, starts his eighth straight season of pro ball here Sunday when the Old Germans meet the St. Louis Bombers. Bob has been the sparkplug of the Amvets, Dukes, Spas and Old Germans for the past seven years, has figured in 188 of the 196 games played by the locals and has chalked up 2,733 points on 1,500 field goals and 433-595 fouls. He has led the teams in scoring six times in seven seasons.

The word "stateroom" originated during a period before the American Civil war when it became a fashion to have the rooms on the Mississippi river steamboats named after the various states.

Keyser Presbyterians To Observe Centennial

Service To Mark Anniversary

KEYSER—The centennial observance of the founding of the Keyser Presbyterian will begin in the church at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

It was on December 4, 1853, just 100 years ago today, that the church began its history in a log house owned by Robert K. Sheetz, then located at Potomac Heights in what is now South Keyser. The house was situated near the present home of Mrs. Earl Hess near the ball park.

The church took the name of Mt. Hope Presbyterian Church and was organized with seven members. Dr. William H. Foote, headmaster of a private academy in Romney, and Elder James D. Armstrong, also of Romney, were the organizers.

Tonight's service will commemorate that date. Communion will be a part of the evening's observance, with former pastors of the church being present and participating.

On Saturday at 3 p. m., an historical church service recounting facts in the history of the church, will be conducted by Attorney Donald C. Hott, at which time presentation of members who were on the church roll, 50 or more years ago, will be featured. At 5 p. m. a buffet supper will be served in the Fellowship Hour, and from 7 to 9 p. m., open house will be observed at the church manse on Overton Place.

The dedicatory service will be conducted Sunday at 11 a. m., at which Rev. Charles A. Gibbony, of Atlanta, Ga., a former pastor, will deliver the sermon. This service will bring to a close the celebration of 100 years of Presbyterian worship services in Keyser.

Rev. Gibbony, following his pastorate in Keyser, from 1942 through 1944, went to the Second Presbyterian Church in Norfolk, Va. from there to his present post in Atlanta. He is promotional secretary with the Board of Church Extension of the Presbyterian Church, in the United States. In this official capacity he travels over most of the southern states in the interest of the board, as well as maintaining the work of his office in Atlanta.

During his pastorate here, the chancel of the present church was extensively remodeled, although the work was not completed until after he went to Norfolk. A special feature of the Sunday morning service will be the dedication of the chancel under leadership of Mr. Gibbony.

Special music will be provided during the service, under direction of Mrs. E. E. Church, The choir will sing "We Love Our Church" and "Consider and Hear Me."

Friends and former members of the local congregation are expected at the services from the nearby area and from afar.

The local congregation has had three houses of worship since the founding in 1853. The first wooden building stood on a half acre of land, just east of the manse at Overton Place. During the Civil War it was used by Federal Troops as a commissary and it is claimed that the Confederate troops burned it on November 28, 1864, in order to drive the Federals from the village. The cemetery was at the rear of the church and the street end of the lot, is now occupied by Attorney Herndon Athey.

The second building was erected on East Street, across from the Court House and it was used until 1890, when it was sold to be used by the Peters Hardware Company. At the present time it is occupied by the Pittsburgh Auto Equipment.

The present church, at the corner of Main and Piedmont Streets, a stucco over brick structure, with a Gothic bell tower over the diagonal main entrance, was built in 1890. Foundations for the Sunday School annex were laid in 1916 and after six years of delays, it was completed in 1922 and dedicated on Easter Sunday, April 16, 1922.

The church has had 14 ministers, including the present pastor, Rev. Dr. John D. MacLeod., in its 100 years of dedicated service to the community. The oldest living elder, the one person who has served in this capacity for the longest time, is James B. Johnson, who was elected to that post in 1912.

The local church congregation has assisted in organization of the Presbyterian churches in Piedmont, Lonaconing, Barton, Frostburg and a Community Church in McCoole. In addition, a Sunday School is now sponsored by the youth Fellowship, at Limestone, held in the Elementary School building there.

Small Business Gets Share Of Ordnance Defense Pacts

The efforts of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District to place Ordnance defense contracts with small business has paid off.

Sixty-four firms in the Tri-State Area, who meet the criteria of small business by having less than 500 employees, presently hold prime contracts with the District for a total of $36,972,146, an average of $577,000 per contract. Many small businesses in the Pittsburgh area act as subcontractors to large Ordnance prime contractors. In addition to placing prime contracts where possible, Ordnance Corps Installations assist small businessmen to contact sources of subcontract work.

The contracts with small business represents approximately one-third of the District total, which is in accordance with the Ordnance Corps policy of attempting to let a minimum of 35 per cent of its contracts directly to small business.

There is a small business specialist located at every purchasing installation in the Ordnance Corps reporting directly to a senior small business specialist, in the Office of the Chief of Ordnance, Washington, D. C., whose sole responsibility is to see that any contracts for items which can be successfully manufactured by small business is called to the attention of small businesses throughout his area. In many cases, bidding on particularly suitable items is restricted to small business.

Howard Semler, formerly president of the Semler Company, Jeanette, Pa., is the small business specialist of the Pittsburgh Ordnance District. Semler, working in close cooperation with such agencies as the Smaller Manufacturers Council of Pittsburgh and the Chambers of Commerce of Pittsburgh and the various cities and towns in the Pittsburgh Ordnance District area, is available at all times for advice and consultation to small businessmen desiring to enter into the field of Government procurement.

Compares Life In Several Areas

Catholics Will Make Contributions Sunday To Finance Construction Of National Shrine

Superstructure Work Planned In Washington

Parishioners of Catholic churches in this area will contribute to a special collection scheduled Sunday, December 6, in all Catholic churches in the Baltimore Archdiocese. The local collection will be part of a nation-wide appeal for an $8,000,000 fund to begin construction of the superstructure of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D. C.

Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore, in announcing the collection, pointed out that construction of the Shrine was begun in 1920 but has been delayed by a lack of funds and the intervention of World War II. The Archbishop named Rev. David I. Dorach of Baltimore to direct the appeal in the Baltimore Archdiocese.

Foundation In 1920

The foundation stone of the National Shrine was laid on September 24, 1920 by the late Cardinal Gibbons, then Archbishop of Baltimore.

The Baltimore See at that time embraced the city of Washington. The massive foundations of the Shrine, already complete, contain a crypt which is said to be the largest in the world by reason of its gross area. The total building area on one floor level of the Shrine is 77,500 square feet. The total volume of the Shrine is about 7,000,000 cubic feet.

When completed, more than 250,000 cubic feet of stone and granite will have been used on the exterior of the structure. Limestone to be used will come from Indiana or Alabama. Its massive walls and great piers will require 25,000,000 bricks to build. In addition 170,000 bags of cement will be required to form the 32,000 yards of concrete in the structure to arise above the existing foundations.

The structure of the building will be completely of masonry. No structural steel beams or columns will be used. Structurally, the proposed shrine will be built in a manner similar to the great ecclesiastical monuments of the past which have demonstrated their capacity to endure for centuries.

Vaults And Domes

The entire ceiling area will consist of great vaults and domes that will support not only their own weight but that of the roof structure as well. The thrust and weight of these vaults and domes will be carried to the foundation through the great piers and massive walls.

Maginnis and Walsh, Boston architects, have been engaged in the study of the design and preparation of the working drawings and details for a period of 15 years. It is estimated that it will take five years to erect the superstructure alone. At least another two years will be spent in completing the interior.

The present foundations below the crypt are of reinforced concrete. The most conspicuous parts are four great piers which will support the central dome of the shrine. Each is about 65 feet square, containing 1,100 cubic yards of concrete and is designed to carry a weight of 10,000 tons apiece, or a total imposed load of 40,000 tons.

The completed shrine will occupy a ten-acre tract. The shrine facade will be dominated by a lefty tower, or campanile, terminated by a slender masonry pyramid and crowned by three terraces of open arcading. Cruciform in design, the dominant feature of the shrine will be a massive dome located at the crossing of the nave and the transcept. Elevated upon a polygonal stone drum, the dome itself will be covered with patterned polychrome ceramic tiles. The campanile, topped by a cross, will rise to a height of 316 feet while the dome will be 237 feet high.

The completed shrine will rank among the ten greatest religious edifices in the world. It will have a seating capacity of more than 3,000 while the total capacity will be more than 6,000.

To finance the work of building the superstructure the nation-wide collection was set by the Catholic Bishops of the United States. The blessed Virgin Mary is the patroness of the U. S. under the title of her Immaculate Conception. The year 1954 will mark the centenary of the promulgation (in 1854) by Pope Pius IX of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. U. S. Catholics will begin the construction of the upper church of the shrine next year as a fitting commemoration of the centennial.

SHRINE WILL LOOK LIKE THIS—This is how the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, D. C., will look when completed. It will be one of the ten greatest religious edifices in the world. The massive foundations, enclosing a Crypt Church, the largest in the world, already are completed. Catholics of the United States will begin building the great Upper Church in 1954, the 100th anniversary of the promulgation (1854) of the Dogma of the Immaculate Conception. The Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of God, is Patroness of the United States under the title of her Immaculate Conception. The Shrine will give the Blessed Mother a national church in her honor such as many other countries have had for many years. A national appeal to raise funds for the work on the Shrine will be held, in most parts of the country on Sunday, December 6.

Luther Borror, 42, of RFD 2, Keyser, Walter C. Shupe, 33, and John L. Shupe, 41, both of Washington, all of whom were charged with having two loaded semi-automatic shotguns in their car when they were stopped in Mineral County.

Himan Van Meter, 41, of Hartmansville, who was arrested in Grant County.

Maryland Farmers Learning Soil Conservation Pays Off

Maryland farmers are learning from experience that conservation pays.

This is the conclusion drawn by the Committee for Conservation Now on the basis of farmer testimony compiled by the State Soil Conservation Committee.

Records of experience with conservation are given in a report of the State Soil Conservation Committee, "Maryland Farmers and their Soil Conservation Districts." The publication is available from soil conservation districts and county agents.

Representative statements from farmers among those in the report include:

Horace S. Brauning, Finksburg — "Conservation has done more than merely stop erosion on my farm. It has increased milk production by 30 per cent, crop production by 40 per cent and pasture yield by 60 per cent."

William S. Gardiner, Mechanicsville—"After eleven years of operating my farm, I thought it was no good. But with the help I got from the Soil Conservation District, my crop yields have increased appreciably and much of my land which was not usable before is now growing food crops."

Arthur Reinhold, Chestertown—"My farm has had a complete conservation plan in operation since 1940. By removing sloping fields from clean tillage and establishing average farm production and do it easier and cheaper."

W. Marvel Onion, Forest Hill—"I am sure sold on conservation. The yields on my crops have increased by at least one-third and I figure that is a conservative statement."

John W. Hall, Lusby—"I have had my farm under a conservation plan for three years and would not be without it. My contour strips are the answer to the problem of holding the soil in place as well as conserving water."

J. Anthony Huntt, White Plains—"Conservation farming methods I now use not only help me but also the people below my farm. Contour furrows and strips have helped me the most because they keep my soil from washing away and keep the water where it will do the most good."

Walter E. Burall, New Market—"Following a soil conservation plan is the quickest and best way I know to improve a run-down farm or make a good farm better." permanent pasture, we have been able to more than maintain our

Keyser Presbyterians To Observe Centennial

Service To Mark Anniversary

KEYSER—The centennial observance of the founding of the Keyser Presbyterian will begin in the church at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

It was on December 4, 1853, just 100 years ago today, that the church began its history in a log house owned by Robert K. Sheetz, then located at Potomac Heights in what is now South Keyser. The house was situated near the present home of Mrs. Earl Hess near the ball park.

The church took the name of Mt. Hope Presbyterian Church and was organized with seven members. Dr. William H. Foote, headmaster of a private academy in Romney, and Elder James D. Armstrong, also of Romney, were the organizers.

Tonight's service will commemorate that date. Communion will be a part of the evening's observance, with former pastors of the church being present and participating.

On Saturday at 3 p. m., an historical church service recounting facts in the history of the church, will be conducted by Attorney Donald C. Hott, at which time presentation of members who were on the church roll, 50 or more years ago, will be featured. At 5 p. m. a buffet supper will be served in the Fellowship Hour, and from 7 to 9 p. m., open house will be observed at the church manse on Overton Place.

The dedicatory service will be conducted Sunday at 11 a. m., at which Rev. Charles A. Gibbony, of Atlanta, Ga., a former pastor, will deliver the sermon. This service will bring to a close the celebration of 100 years of Presbyterian worship services in Keyser.

Rev. Gibbony, following his pastorate in Keyser, from 1942 through 1944, went to the Second Presbyterian Church in Norfolk, Va. from there to his present post i n Atlanta. He is promotional secretary with the Board of Church Extension of the Presbyterian Church, in the United States. In this official capacity he travels over most of the southern states in the interest of the board, as well as maintaining the work of his office in Atlanta.

During his pastorate here, the chancel of the present church was extensively remodeled, although the work was not completed until after he went to Norfolk. A special feature of the Sunday morning service will be the dedication of the chancel under leadership of Mr. Gibbony.

Special music will be provided during the service, under direction of Mrs. E. E. Church. The choir will sing "We Love Our Church" and "Consider and Hear Me."

Friends and former members of the local congregation are expected at the services from the nearby area and from afar.

The local congregation has had three houses of worship since the founding in 1853. The first wooden building stood on a half acre of land, just east of the manse at Overton Place. During the Civil War it was used by Federal Troops as a commissary and it is claimed that the Confederate troops burned it on November 28, 1864, in order to drive the Federals from the village. The cemetery was at the rear of the church and the street end of the lot, is now occupied by Attorney Herndon Athey.

The second building was erected on East Street, across from the Court House and it was used until 1890, when it was sold to be used by the Peters Hardware Company. At the present time it is occupied by the Pittsburgh Auto Equipment.

The present church, at the corner of Main and Piedmont Streets, a stucco over brick structure, with a Gothic bell tower over the diagonal main entrance, was built in 1890. Foundations for the Sunday School annex were laid in 1916 and after six years of delays, it was completed in 1922 and dedicated on Easter Sunday, April 16, 1922.

The church has had 14 ministers, including the present pastor, Rev. Dr. John D. MacLeod., in its 100 years of dedicated service to the community. The oldest living elder, the one person who has served in this capacity for the longest time, is James B. Johnson, who was elected to that post in 1912.

The local church congregation has assisted in organization of the Presbyterian churches in Piedmont, Lonaconing, Barton, Frostburg and a Community Church in McCoole. In addition, a Sunday School is now sponsored by the youth Fellowship, at Limestone, held in the Elementary School building there.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3—(INS)—Just when John Wayne and Bob Fellows had all but tied up "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison," it slipped through the fingers into the production hands of Eugene Frenke and Rene Williams.

So now Kirk Douglas will be the star instead of Wayne. Oddly enough, Deborah Kerr, who had been rumored to co-star with John Wayne, is now being rumored to co-star with Kirk.

The Charles Shaw novel is the story of a disenchanted GI who is marooned on an obscure island in the South Pacific during World War II, only to discover that his companion on the isle is a beautiful nun.

Scheduled for the spring, "Mr. Allison" will be in Cinemascope and Technicolor.

As of this present moment, Rita Hayworth is making plans to return to Hollywood the 20th of this month and either she or her attorney will be in contact with Harry Cohn to find out "what goes."

It hasn't been lost on Rita, even in her retreat in Greenwich, Conn., that three important roles scheduled for her have been assigned to other actresses.

Far from arriving waving an olive branch in the direction of Columbia, 'tis said Missy Rita wants to know if this constitutes a breach of her Beckworth Productions contract with Columbia.

British Actor David Farrar is on his way from London arriving in Hollywood over the weekend to join Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Herbert Marshall and Craig Hill in the cast of "Men Of Iron."

Farbar, best known for his work in "Black Narcissus" for J. Arthur Rank, was in Hollywood once before — also for Universal-International. About a year ago he made "The Golden Horde" for the Valley Company.

Recently, he was the third star with Dana Andrews and Jeanne Crain in "Duel In The Jungle" which was filmed in Europe and Africa.

Only the thinnest disguise covers the fact that "Out Of Wedlock" is a comedy treatment of "The Kinsey Reports."

Richard Conti is the star of this story about a bachelor college professor who writes a book about the sex habits of the opposite sex—and the resulting sensational publicity all but wreck his own private love affair.

John Brahm, who will produce and direct, may expect the Johnston office to move in against that "Out Of Wedlock" title. It'll probably wind up "Oh, Doctor, Oh," or "Doctor, No, No" or something like that.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hedy Lamarr checked into the Beverly Hills Hotel yesterday after months in Italy and Europe.

Also at the Bevhills—Pete Martin with the completed book of the life story of Bob Hope which he expects Bob to okay over the weekend.

Something new in woo, John Carroll and Nora Haymes at Jacks at the Beach.

Katharine Hepburn and her stepmother are due to arrive TWA today. Ditto Maureen O'Sullivan Farrow on the same plane. Her friends will be glad to hear that Maureen's mother, in Ireland, is much improved.

Lt. Colonel Dave Epstein and Colonel Henry King take off next week for the Civil Air Patrol meeting in Nashville, Tennessee.

Brynie Foy looked happy buying Lynn Bari's dinner at the Lindomar Lodge the other eve.

One of our best "heavies," Marvin Miller, continues his good work being bad in "The Shanghai Story" with Ruth Roman and Eddie O'Brien.

Despite talk of a reconciliation between Gene and Miriam Nelson, she was with Bob Culbertson, advertising man, at the Bantam Cock last night.

Farley Granger lunched with Somerset Maugham in Venice last week.

Jim Davis and Mary Castle are teamed to co-star in a series for TV, "Outlaws Of The Century."

Kay Spreckles and Hal Hayes (he of the fabulous house) had eyes only for each other at Romanoff's. This romance, now it's revived, may be more serious than you think.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

LOWLY LEAD PENCIL—WE USE MORE THAN BILLION A YEAR

Chewing a lead pencil helps one's train of thought. It's habit we all started so early nobody remembers just when.

By Central Press

NEW YORK — Those commonplace wooden lead pencils on your office desk or in the bureau drawer at home may all look alike to you, like peas in a pod, but don't be deceived by their twin-like appearance. The lead pencil may not have changed in appearance, but it has changed with the times, keeping pace with the march of progress.

Altogether, there are some 350 different kinds of wood-cased pencils now available. Included among them are pencils which write on cellophane, metal or fabric.

There are special pencils which are used by surgeons to mark on human skin when performing operations.

There are pencils with leads hard enough to scratch a stone, used by stone carvers and engravers, and there are pencils that will leave a mark on fiery hot ingots, for use in steel mills.

About 1.4 billion wooden lead pencils are sold a year. Roughly, that's just a bit less than 10 pencils a year for every man, woman and child in the United States.

BUSINESS FIRMS are the pencil industry's biggest customers. Your children—the school kids of America—are the next biggest customers of the pencil makers. The United States government ranks third in importance.

Uncle Sam leads all other nations in pencil manufacture—naturally. The first lead pencils were made in the United States about 100 years ago. England first had a world monopoly on pencil manufacture, then France and Germany.

Nobody knows who first started writing with a pencil. Graphite was discovered 400 years ago, and the first pencils were crude slabs of graphite wrapped in a rag or twine to keep the graphite from smudging the hands.

Today's lead pencil is a marvelously complex writing instrument, although simple in appearance. More than 100 operations are involved in turning out a single pencil. Raw materials involved in its manufacture come from all over the globe.

THE GRAPHITE for pencils comes from Madagascar, Mexico and Ceylon; clay from Bavaria and England; wood from California; flint stones for grinding the lead from Belgium; rubber for the erasers from Malaya; gold leaf for imprinting the manufacturer's name from South Africa; oil which is mixed with the lead for smooth writing quality, from sperm whales in the Arctics.

The housewife has found many ingenious uses for the modern pencil. Using a lead pencil that will write on glass, she no longer has to spend the time glueing labels on jars of home-made preserves and pickles. She now writes on the jar itself. The message won't rub off.

Using a moisture-resistant pencil employed by professional nurserymen—one that defies the elements—the housewife can tag flower and vegetable beds instead of resorting to the time-worn method of the seed packet for identification.

Housewives have also learned that furniture scratches can be "erased" by rubbing the scratch with a pencil, the lead of which matches the color of the furniture (there are 72 colored lead pencils to choose from).

Why tie a scarf around your head when casual coverings can be smart, flattering and warm, too?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"I love my mother," writes a teen-aged correspondent, "and it hurts me not to have her look as nice as the mothers of my friends. She's really prettier than any of them but she just doesn't care how she looks except when Daddy is home or when she's going to a party."

"If you could just get her to stop going around shopping and doing errands with a scarf or babushka over her head it would help a lot. My friends and I think it's simply an awful way to go around and we never wear a head scarf any more. That is why it is so embarrassing for me when mother does it. She always reads your column so anything you say would help."

Excuses Exploded

I'm not only willing but anxious to support any campaign to get babushkas and scarfs off the heads of America's pretty women. Why any woman chooses to smother her attractiveness under this shapeless headgear is beyond me.

Warmth cannot be the reason for this disenchanting practice. There are warmer, head-hugging styles to be had that are not only flattering but gay.

Convenience cannot be the answer. A good-looking head covering can be adjusted just as quickly and kept just as handy.

As pin-curl hiders babushkas are most ineffective, since their contour is invariably revealed through the thin scarf materials. And usually a bobby pin or two is sure to be easily viewed holding the over-the-forehead curls in place.

Somehow or other, career girls manage to keep their coiffures neatly groomed without having to spend their days in pin-curl holders. Why must so many homemakers greet their day-time public in such a state? I suspect that its because the curls should have been combed out and dressed earlier or else set and arranged earlier in the day. (If slow-drying is your problem, how about suggesting to Santa that you would like a hand dryer as a piece of glamorizing equipment?)

Attractive Types

In any case, parting with your head scarves or babushkas should be no problem at all, if you will just visit a well-stocked hat bar, where you are sure to find new ideas galore. The most popular are the snug, warm and almost entirely head-covering turbans which may be worn in different ways to give your appearance variety and interest. Pixie caps that fit down on the head as snuggly as a stocking cap and end in a tasseled tip have crowns that can be shaped as you wish and changed according to your impulse of the moment. And the perennial beret is as charming and becoming as it was the first time it was designed!

How about it, charmers — isn't it time that we had a real big bright babushka fire?

Catholics Will Make Contributions Sunday To Finance Construction Of National Shrine

Superstructure Work Planned In Washington

Parishioners of Catholic churches in this area will contribute to a special collection scheduled Sunday, December 6, in all Catholic churches in the Baltimore Archdiocese. The local collection will be part of a nation-wide appeal for an $8,000,000 fund to begin construction of the superstructure of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D. C.

Archbishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore, in announcing the collection, pointed out that construction of the Shrine was begun in 1920 but has been delayed by a lack of funds and the intervention of World War II. The Archbishop named Rev. David I. Dorach of Baltimore to direct the appeal in the Baltimore Archdiocese.

Foundation In 1920

The foundation stone of the National Shrine was laid on September 24, 1920 by the late Cardinal Gibbons, then Archbishop of Baltimore.

The Baltimore See at that time embraced the city of Washington. The massive foundations of the Shrine, already complete, contain a crypt which is said to be the largest in the world by reason of its gross area. The total building area on one floor level of the Shrine is 77,500 square feet. The total volume of the Shrine is about 7,000,000 cubic feet.

When completed, more than 250,000 cubic feet of stone and granite will have been used on the exterior of the structure. Limestone to be used will come from Indiana or Alabama. Its massive walls and great piers will require 25,000,000 bricks to build. In addition 170,000 bags of cement will be required to form the 32,000 yards of concrete in the structure to arise above the existing foundations.

The structure of the building will be completely of masonry. No structural steel beams or columns will be used. Structurally, the proposed shrine will be built in a manner similar to the great ecclesiastical monuments of the past which have demonstrated their capacity to endure for centuries.

Vaults And Domes

The entire ceiling area will consist of great vaults and domes that will support not only their own weight but that of the roof structure as well. The thrust and weight of these vaults and domes will be carried to the foundation through the great piers and massive walls.

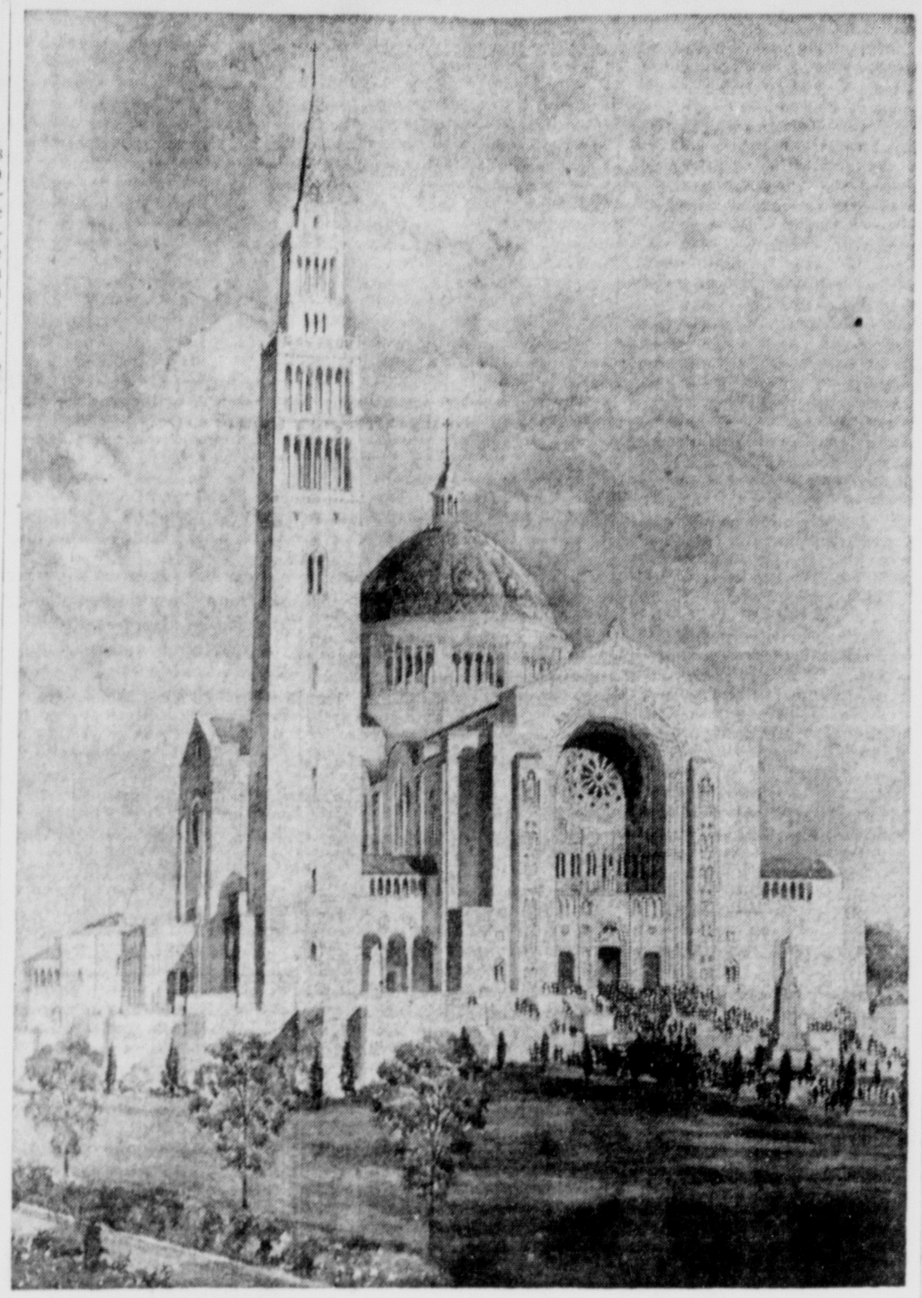
Maginnis and Walsh, Boston architects, have been engaged in the study of the design and preparation of the working drawings and details for a period of 15 years. It is estimated that it will take five years to erect the superstructure alone. At least another two years will be spent in completing the interior.

The present foundations below the crypt are of reinforced concrete. The most conspicuous parts are four great piers which will support the central dome of the shrine. Each is about 65 feet square, containing 1,100 cubic yards of concrete and is designed to carry a weight of 10,000 tons apiece, or a total imposed load of 40,000 tons.

The completed shrine will occupy a ten-acre tract. The shrine facade will be dominated by a lofty tower, or campanile, terminated by a slender masonry pyramid and crowned by three terraces of open arcading. Cruciform in design, the dominant feature of the shrine will be a massive dome located at the crossing of the nave and the transcept. Elevated upon a polygonal stone drum, the dome itself will be covered with patterned polychrome ceramic tiles. The campanile, topped by a cross, will rise to a height of 316 feet while the dome will be 237 feet high.

The completed shrine will rank among the ten greatest religious edifices in the world. It will have a seating capacity of more than 3,000 while the total capacity will be more than 6,000.

To finance the work of building the superstructure the nation-wide collection was set by the Catholic Bishops of the United States. The blessed Virgin Mary is the patroness of the U. S. under the title of her Immaculate Conception. The year 1954 will mark the centenary of the promulgation (in 1854) by Pope Pius IX of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception. U. S. Catholics will begin the construction of the upper church of the shrine next year as a fitting commemoration of the centennial.



SHRINE WILL LOOK LIKE THIS—This is how the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, D. C., will look when completed. It will be one of the ten greatest religious edifices in the world. The massive foundations, enclosing a Crypt Church, the largest in the world, already are completed. Catholics of the United States will begin building the great Upper Church in 1954, the 100th anniversary of the promulgation (1854) of the Dogma of the Immaculate Conception. The Blessed Virgin Mary, Mother of God, is Patroness of the United States under the title of her Immaculate Conception. The Shrine will give the Blessed Mother a national church in her honor such as many other countries have had for many years. A national appeal to raise funds for the work on the Shrine will be held, in most parts of the country on Sunday, December 6.

Maryland Farmers Learning Soil Conservation Pays Off

Maryland farmers are learning from experience that conservation pays.

This is the conclusion drawn by the Committee for Conservation Now on the basis of farmer testimony compiled by the State Soil Conservation Committee.

Records of experience with conservation are given in a report of the State Soil Conservation Committee, "Maryland Farmers and their Soil Conservation Districts." The publication is available from soil conservation districts and county agents.

Representative statements from farmers among those in the report include:

Horace S. Brauning, Finksburg — "Conservation has done more than merely stop erosion on my farm. It has increased milk production by 30 per cent, crop production by 40 per cent and pasture yield by 60 per cent."

William S. Gardiner, Mechanicsville—"After eleven years of operating my farm, I thought it was no good. But with the help I got from the Soil Conservation District, my crop yields have increased appreciably and much of my land which was not usable before is now growing food crops."

Arthur Reinhold, Chestertown—"My farm has had a complete conservation plan in operation since 1940. By removing sloping fields from clean tillage and establishing average farm production and do it easier and cheaper."

W. Marvel Onion, Forest Hill—"I am sure sold on conservation. The yields on my crops have increased by at least one-third and I figure that is a conservative statement."

John W. Hall, Lusby—"I have had my farm under a conservation plan for three years and would not be without it. My contour strips are the answer to the problem of holding the soil in place as well as conserving water."

J. Anthony Huntt, White Plains—"Conservation farming methods I now use not only help me but also the people below my farm. Contour furrows and strips have helped me the most because they keep my soil from washing away and keep the water where it will do the most good."

Walter E. Burall, New Market—"Following a soil conservation plan is the quickest and best way I know to improve a run-down farm or make a good farm better." permanent pasture, we have been able to more than maintain our MOOREFIELD—The Moorefield Women's Club will hold a Christmas meeting Monday at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. S. L. Dodd.

The program will be in three parts, the first featuring "Why We Are Thankful at Christmas." The Americanism committee will report on the 30 entries to the "What America Means To Me" contest sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and co-sponsored by the local organization.

"Sharing With Others" will be the theme for the second phase of meeting. A member of the American Legion Auxiliary will be present to receive gifts by club members for the needy children program.

The gifts will be gift wrapped for boys and girls between the ages of six and 12.

The third part of the meeting will be devoted to "Thankful for True Christmas," which will be in charge of Mrs. Paul Harper.

Members wil bring their donations to the sunshine committee so that Christmas remembrances may be sent to shut-ins and aged.

W. Va. Game Wardens Nab 27 Hunters On Violations

West Virginia Conservation Commission officers were busy making arrests in the Eastern Panhandle during the three-day deer season that closed yesterday.

The office of Clay W. Messinger, district conservation officer at Romney, reported 27 arrests during the first two days.

In Pendleton County three men were tried and convicted. A. O. Ballard, Mullens, W. Va., charged with having a loaded gun in his vehicle, paid a fine of $20.

William Sponaugle, Ronceverte, W. Va., who faced the same count, was also fined $20. Olin Simmons, Franklin, W. Va., paid a $10 fine on a charge of aiding and abetting a game law violation.

Four hunters were arrested in Morgan County. Warren Youngblood, who gave an address at Great Cacapon, W. Va., was fined $100 for hunting deer with buckshot, and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was paroled after two days. The man was also fined $10 for hunting without a license.

James Wolfe, Robert Johnson and Theo Clem, all of Berkeley Springs, were each fined $50 for having uncased gun in their car after night. Three other arrests are pending in Morgan County, Messinger reported.

Five hunters were taken to court in Hardy County. Roscoe O. Shipe, Rio, W. Va., was fined $20 for hunting and shooting at beaver during the closed season and $10 for hunting without a license.

In Hampshire County, two hunters were arrested and their trials are pending.

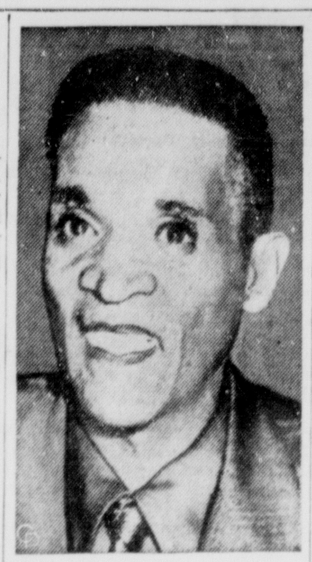
Ten arrests were made in Grant County. Seven of the accused failed to show up for trial and warrants have been issued for their apprehension.

George Purdue, Gallipolis, Ohio; Fred Nuzum, Parkersburg, W. Va., and H. A. Efaw, Grafton, W. Va., all charged with having loaded guns in their cars, were each fined $20.

Four hunters who were arrested by Conservation Officer Claude Rice paid $20 fines each for carrying loaded guns in their cars. Arrested by Rice and Conservation Officer J. S. Hubbard of Mingo County were:

Luther Borror, 42, of RFD 2, Keyser, Walter C. Shupe, 33, and John L. Shupe, 41, both of Washington, all of whom were charged with having two loaded semi-automatic shotguns in their car when they were stopped in Mineral County.

Himan Van Meter, 41, of Hartmansville, who was arrested in Grant County.



LOUIS ROSSER (above), one-time Communist leader, tells House Un-American Activities Committee probers in San Francisco that Louis Goldblatt, secretary-treasurer of the International Longshoremen's Union, was a party member. In protest against the hearings, the I.L.U. called a strike in the coast port. (International)

Turkey Stuffed With Roast Platitudes

John Crosby

Already it's started it and it's going to get worse. Batten down the hatches. Or just shut the darn thing off and go see "How to Marry a Millionaire" in Cinemascope, a decently cynical essay on golddigging. If you're of a sceptical nature about people as I am, the dramas that are inflicted on us around Christmas time will drive you quite properly to strong drink.

If yeu were unfortunate enough to have turned to Campbell Sound Stage the other night, you would have seen a little confection called —so help me—"Home Is Where Love Is," a title that should have driven me out of the house without further ado. This is one about a wife who lives on Third Avenue and dreams of having a home of her own. "Living in a Park Avenue penthouse isn't always a guarantee of happiness," says her husband—a line that will be etched in my memory forever now.

Well, sir, they take over—quite illegally—the country home of a rich lady temporarily absent in Florida. Of course, the rich dame comes back unexpectedly which leads to some more rich beautiful dialogue. Says the rich dame—I had to sit through this so I don't know why you should be spared—"I have three houses — in Palm Beach, Connecticut and Park Avenue—but there is no architect or builder in the world who can put love in a house."

"Now," said the young lady from Third Avenue, "I realize I've always had a home—because wherever Tim is, I'm home." (I wonder if Tim ever took this babe to Yankee Stadium. If she can feel at home there, she's more gifted at self-delusion than anyone in my experience.)

This particular drama ground to a denouement with everyone, rich and poor alike, sitting down to Thanksgiving dinner—turkey stuffed with roast platitudes. There wasn't a dry eye in the house. Except mine.

This is the sort of thing we're in for from now on.

It's a great period for child actors, the little so-and-sos, lifting up their limpid, well masacaraed eyes and murmuring: "Please, mister, my little sister Penelope has lobar pneumonia and all the noise from your lavish, drunken party is giving her a headache." So they invite the little urchin in, ply him with turkey and when he gets back his sister's temperature has fallen from 112 to normal and she's peacefully asleep, smiling.

Then there's the one about the old curmudgeon who is wheedled into benevolence by the sound of the bells or, maybe the sight of a small innocent child — otherwise known as Little Lord Fauntleroy in modern dress. This one was on "Playhouse of Stars" the other night. A nasty, selfish old captain of industry who had lived for himself alone all these years was struck blind. Psychosomatic, you know.

Well, this little girl leads him around by the hand—"You got lots of books, mister, but I only got one book—and seven marbles." And she reads from her one book the story of the three bears. It puts him to sleep—it almost put me to sleep, too—and when he wakes up, he can see again. (No, sir, I did not make that up. I seen it on television with my own two incredulous eyes.)

Well, happy holidays, everyone! After you get this crying jag out of your system, you'll find me at the corner saloon, watching the wrestling.

by Shepard Barclay

DO IT YOURSELF FIRST

IF THERE is something you don't wish your opponents to do during the play, ordinarily you can only hope they won't attempt it. In some situations, you may prevent them from doing it, using the simple expedient of doing it yourself first. That will usually discourage them from making the same move thereafter. Such is the case when you hope they won't lead trumps against you too often, as you require one or more ruffs in dummy. An early lead of trumps yourself may discourage their doing it later, perhaps leaving you enough trumps for your own purposes.

	♠ Q 10 9 8 7 ♥ A 10 8 ♦ A 10 6 3 ♣ 3
♠ A 4 2 ♥ K Q J 7 ♦ 9 5 ♣ K Q 6 2	N W E S	♠ K 3 ♥ 9 6 3 ♦ J 8 7 4 2 ♣ A J 4
	♠ J 6 5 ♥ 5 4 2 ♦ K Q ♣ 10 9 8 7 5

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠
Dbl.

As soon as East led the heart 9 and North saw the dummy, he realized that, if the opponents managed to lead trumps three times and eliminate those in the dummy, he would have to lose six tricks—two each in the majors and one each in the minors, unless the diamond J dropped by the third round, quite unlikely. That would set his contract. The sole chance to prevent such a result would be through preventing trump leads by the opponents which would remove all of those in the dummy, leaving him one to ruff a diamond.

So he won the first trick with the heart A over the J, led the diamond 3 to the Q and brought forth the spade 6, the Q forcing the K. This leading of trumps kept East from returning the suit. Instead he led the heart 6 to the Q. The heart K and club K also were scored by West and the club Q led, to be ruffed by the spade 8.

Now the diamond 6 was led to the K, the club 10 ruffed by the spade 9 and the diamond 10 ruffed by the spade J, over-ruffed by the A. West returned the heart 7 to be ruffed by the spade 7, the spade 10 won and the diamond A took the final trick to complete the contract and give North a game which was not really in the cards.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After more or less normal bidding, showing the spade, diamond and club suits in that order, if South gets into 6 No-Trumps, what is the sound defense?

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for vacationing Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3—(INS)—Just when John Wayne and Bob Fellows had all but tied up "Heaven Knows Mr. Allison," it slipped through the fingers into the production hands of Eugene Frenke and Rene Williams.

So now Kirk Douglas will be the star instead of Wayne. Oddly enough, Deborah Kerr, who had been rumored to co-star with John Wayne, is now being rumored to co-star with Kirk.

The Charles Shaw novel is the story of a disenchanted GI who is marooned on an obscure island in the South Pacific during World War II, only to discover that his companion on the isle is a beautiful nun.

Scheduled for the spring, "Mr. Allison" will be in Cinemascope and Technicolor.

As of this present moment, Rita Hayworth is making plans to return to Hollywood the 20th of this month and either she or her attorney will be in contact with Harry Cohn to find out "what goes."

It hasn't been lost on Rita, even in her retreat in Greenwich, Conn., that three important roles scheduled for her have been assigned to other actresses.

Far from arriving waving an olive branch in the direction of Columbia, 'tis said Missy Rita wants to know if this constitutes a breach of her Beckworth Productions contract with Columbia.

British Actor David Farrar is on his way from London arriving in Hollywood over the weekend to join Tony Curtis, Janet Leigh, Herbert Marshall and Craig Hill in the cast of "Men Of Iron."

Farbar, best known for his work in "Black Narcissus" for J. Arthur Rank, was in Hollywood once before — also for Universal-International. About a year ago he made "The Golden Horde" for the Valley Company.

Recently, he was the third star with Dana Andrews and Jeanne Crain in "Duel In The Jungle" which was filmed in Europe and Africa.

Only the thinnest disguise covers the fact that "Out Of Wedlock" is a comedy treatment of "The Kinsey Reports."

Richard Conti is the star of this story about a bachelor college professor who writes a book about the sex habits of the opposite sex—and the resulting sensational publicity all but wreck his own private love affair.

John Brahm, who will produce and direct, may expect the Johnston office to move in against that "Out Of Wedlock" title. It'll probably wind up "Oh, Doctor, Oh," or "Doctor, No, No!" or something like that.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Hedy Lamarr checked into the Beverly Hills Hotel yesterday after months in Italy and Europe.

Also at the Bevhills—Pete Martin with the completed book of the life story of Bob Hope which he expects Bob to okay over the weekend.

Something new in woo, John Carroll and Nora Haymes at Jacks at the Beach.

Katharine Hepburn and her stepmother are due to arrive TWA today. Ditto Maureen O'Sullivan Farrow on the same plane. Her friends will be glad to hear that Maureen's mother, in Ireland, is much improved.

Lt. Colonel Dave Epstein and Colonel Henry King take off next week for the Civil Air Patrol meeting in Nashville, Tennessee.

Brynie Foy looked happy buying Lynn Bari's dinner at the Lindomar Lodge the other eve.

One of our best "heavies," Marvin Miller, continues his good work being bad in "The Shanghai Story" with Ruth Roman and Eddie O'Brien.

Farley Granger lunched with Somerset Maugham in Venice last week.

Jim Davis and Mary Castle are teamed to co-star in a series for TV, "Outlaws Of The Century."

Kay Spreckles and Hal Hayes (he of the fabulous house) had eyes only for each other at Romanoff's. This romance, now it's revived, may be more serious than you think.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

LOWLY LEAD PENCIL—WE USE MORE THAN BILLION A YEAR

Chewing a lead pencil helps one's train of thought. It's habit we all started so early nobody remembers just when.

By Central Press

NEW YORK — Those commonplace wooden lead pencils on your office desk or in the bureau drawer at home may all look alike to you, like peas in a pod, but don't be deceived by their twin-like appearance. The lead pencil may not have changed in appearance, but it has changed with the times, keeping pace with the march of progress.

Altogether, there are some 350 different kinds of wood-cased pencils now available. Included among them are pencils which write on cellophane, metal or fabric.

There are special pencils which are used by surgeons to mark on human skin when performing operations.

There are pencils with leads hard enough to scratch a stone, used by stone carvers and engravers, and there are pencils that will leave a mark on fiery hot ingots, for use in steel mills.

About 1.4 billion wooden lead pencils are sold a year. Roughly, that's just a bit less than 10 pencils a year for every man, woman and child in the United States.

BUSINESS FIRMS are the pencil industry's biggest customers. Your children—the school kids of America—are the next biggest customers of the pencil makers. The United States government ranks third in importance.

Uncle Sam leads all other nations in pencil manufacture—naturally. The first lead pencils were made in the United States about 100 years ago. England first had a world monopoly on pencil manufacture, then France and Germany.

Nobody knows who first started writing with a pencil. Graphite was discovered 400 years ago, and the first pencils were crude slabs of graphite wrapped in a rag or twine to keep the graphite from smudging the hands.

Today's lead pencil is a marvelously complex writing instrument, although simple in appearance. More than 100 operations are involved in turning out a single pencil. Raw materials involved in its manufacture come from all over the globe.

THE GRAPHITE for pencils comes from Madagascar, Mexico and Ceylon; clay from Bavaria and England; wood from California; flint stones for grinding the lead from Belgium; rubber for the erasers from Malaya; gold leaf for imprinting the manufacturer's name from South Africa; oil which is mixed with the lead for smooth writing quality, from sperm whales in the Arctics.

The housewife has found many ingenious uses for the modern pencil. Using a lead pencil that will write on glass, she no longer has to spend the time glueing labels on jars of home-made preserves and pickles. She now writes on the jar itself. The message won't rub off.

Using a moisture-resistant pencil employed by professional nurserymen—one that defies the elements—the housewife can tag flower and vegetable beds instead of resorting to the time-worn method of the seed packet for identification.

Housewives have also learned that furniture scratches can be "erased" by rubbing the scratch with a pencil, the lead of which matches the color of the furniture (there are 72 colored lead pencils to choose from).

Why tie a scarf around your head when casual coverings can be smart, flattering and warm, too?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"I love my mother," writes a teen-aged correspondent, "and it hurts me not to have her look as nice as the mothers of my friends. She's really prettier than any of them but she just doesn't care how she looks except when Daddy is home or when she's going to a party."

"If you could just get her to stop going around shopping and doing errands with a scarf or babushka over her head it would help a lot. My friends and I think it's simply an awful way to go around and we never wear a head scarf any more. That is why it is so embarrassing for me when mother does it. She always reads your column so anything you say would help."

Excuses Exploded

I'm not only willing but anxious to support any campaign to get babushkas and scarfs off the heads of America's pretty women. Why any woman chooses to smother her attractiveness under this shapeless headgear is beyond me.

Warmth cannot be the reason for this disenchanting practice. There are warmer, head-hugging styles to be had that are not only flattering but gay.

Convenience cannot be the answer. A good-looking head covering can be adjusted just as quickly and kept just as handy.

As pin-curl hiders babushkas are most ineffective, since their contour is invariably revealed through the thin scarf materials. And usually a bobby pin or two is sure to be easily viewed holding the over-the-forehead curls in place.

Somehow or other, career girls manage to keep their coiffures neatly groomed without having to spend their days in pin-curl holders. Why must so many homemakers greet their day-time public in such a state? I suspect that its because the curls should have been combed out and dressed earlier or else set and arranged earlier in the day. (If slow-drying is your problem, how about suggesting to Santa that you would like a hand dryer as a piece of glamorizing equipment?)

Attractive Types

In any case, parting with your head scarves or babushkas should be no problem at all, if you will just visit a well-stocked hat bar, where you are sure to find new ideas galore. The most popular are the snug, warm and almost entirely head-covering turbans which may be worn in different ways to give your appearance variety and interest. Pixie caps that fit down on the head as snuggly as a stocking cap and end in a tasseled tip have crowns that can be shaped as you wish and changed according to your impulse of the moment. And the perennial beret is as charming and becoming as it was the first time it was designed!

How about it, charmers — isn't it time that we had a real big bright babushka fire?

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

Turkey Stuffed With Roast Platitudes

John Crosby

Already it's started it and it's going to get worse. Batten down the hatches. Or just shut the darn thing off and go see "How to Marry a Millionaire" in Cinemascope, a decently cynical essay on golddigging. If you're of a sceptical nature about people as I am, the dramas that are inflicted on us around Christmas time will drive you quite properly to strong drink.

If you were unfortunate enough to have turned to Campbell Sound Stage the other night, you would have seen a little confection called—so help me—"Home Is Where Love Is," a title that should have driven me out of the house without further ado. This is one about a wife who lives on Third Avenue and dreams of having a home of her own. "Living in a Park Avenue penthouse isn't always a guarantee of happiness," says her husband—a line that will be etched in my memory forever now.

Well, sir, they take over—quite illegally—the country home of a rich lady temporarily absent in Florida. Of course, the rich dame comes back unexpectedly which leads to some more rich beautiful dialogue. Says the rich dame—I had to sit through this so I don't know why you should be spared—"I have three houses — in Palm Beach, Connecticut and Park Avenue—but there is no architect or builder in the world who can put love in a house."

"Now," said the young lady from Third Avenue, "I realize I've always had a home—because wherever Tim is, I'm home." (I wonder if Tim ever took this babe to Yankee Stadium. If she can feel at home there, she's more gifted at self-delusion than anyone in my experience.)

This particular drama ground to a denouement with everyone, rich and poor alike, sitting down to Thanksgiving dinner—turkey stuffed with roast platitudes. There wasn't a dry eye in the house. Except mine.

This is the sort of thing we're in for from now on.

It's a great period for child actors, the little so-and-sos, lifting up their limpid, well masacaraed eyes and murmuring: "Please, mister, my little sister Penelope has lobar pneumonia and all the noise from your lavish, drunken party is giving her a headache." So they invite the little urchin in, ply him with turkey and when he gets back his sister's temperature has fallen from 112 to normal and she's peacefully asleep, smiling.

Then there's the one about the old curmudgeon who is wheedled into benevolence by the sound of the bells or, maybe the sight of a small innocent child — otherwise known as Little Lord Fauntleroy in modern dress. This one was on "Playhouse of Stars" the other night. A nasty, selfish old captain of industry who had lived for himself alone all these years was struck blind. Psychosomatic, you know.

Well, this little girl leads him around by the hand—"You got lots of books, mister, but I only got one book—and seven marbles." And she reads from her one book the story of the three bears. It puts him to sleep—it almost put me to sleep, too—and when he wakes up, he can see again. (No, sir, I did not make that up. I seen it on television with my own two incredulous eyes.)

Daily Bridge Lesson

by Shepard Barclay

DO IT YOURSELF FIRST

IF THERE is something you don't wish your opponents to do during the play, ordinarily you can only hope they won't attempt it. In some situations, you may prevent them from doing it, using the simple expedient of doing it yourself first. That will usually discourage them from making the same move thereafter. Such is the case when you hope they won't lead trumps against you too often, as you require one or more ruffs in dummy. An early lead of trumps yourself may discourage their doing it later, perhaps leaving you enough trumps for your own purposes.

North: ♠ Q 10 9 8 7 ♥ A 10 8 ♦ A 10 6 3 ♣ 3
West: ♠ A 4 2 ♥ K Q J 7 ♦ 9 5 ♣ K Q 6 2
East: ♠ K 3 ♥ 9 6 3 ♦ J 8 7 4 2 ♣ A J 4
South: ♠ J 6 5 ♥ 5 4 2 ♦ K Q ♣ 10 9 8 7 5

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♣	1 ♠	1 NT	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
Dbl.

As soon as East led the heart 9 and North saw the dummy, he realized that, if the opponents managed to lead trumps three times and eliminate those in the dummy, he would have to lose six tricks—two each in the majors and one each in the minors, unless the diamond J dropped by the third round, quite unlikely. That would set his contract. The sole chance to prevent such a result would be through preventing trump leads by the opponents which would remove all of those in the dummy, leaving him one to ruff a diamond.

So he won the first trick with the heart A over the J, led the diamond 3 to the Q and brought forth the spade 6, the Q forcing the K. This leading of trumps kept East from returning the suit. Instead he led the heart 6 to the Q. The heart K and club K also were scored by West and the club Q led, to be ruffed by the spade 8.

Now the diamond 6 was led to the K, the club 10 ruffed by the spade 9 and the diamond 10 ruffed by the spade J, over-ruffed by the A. West returned the heart 7 to be ruffed by the spade 7, the spade 10 won and the diamond A took the final trick to complete the contract and give North a game which was not really in the cards.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A K Q 7 5 ♥ A J 10 ♦ None ♣ A J 9 8 5
West: ♠ J 9 6 2 ♥ K 9 7 2 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ K 6
East: ♠ 10 4 ♥ Q 8 5 3 ♦ 8 3 2 ♣ 10 7 4 2
South: ♠ 8 3 ♥ 6 4 ♦ A K Q J 9 6 4 ♣ Q 3

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

After more or less normal bidding, showing the spade, diamond and club suits in that order, if South gets into 6 No-Trumps, what is the sound defense?

Market Loses Early Gain, Closes With Prices Mixed

NEW YORK, Dec. 3 (AP)—The stock market lost its early comfortable gain today and closed with a wide mixture of gains and losses only slightly higher on balance.

Steels were out in front of the original advance with a good show of activity and were able to hold to much of their advantage at the close. Railroads also were higher in the forepart of the session but ended lower on balance.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks managed to add 10 cents at $110.00. It was up 40 cents yesterday. That is the best level for the average in the past six months.

RKO theaters was the day's most active issue unchanged at 5 with 28,900 shares traded. It was followed by U. S. Steel up ¼ at 39½, Columbia Gas off ⅛ at 12¾, Radio Corp. off ¼ at 23¾, and Avco Corp. off ⅛ at 5.

American Viscose lost ¾ at 36¾ after directors took no action of a year-end extra dividend.

Among higher stocks were U.S. Steel, American Telephone, Phelps Dodge, Allied Chemical, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line, Liggett & Myers, American Tobacco, Du Pont, Texas Co., American Woolen, and International Telephone.

Lower were Chrysler, Goodyear, Douglas Aircraft, Schenley Industries, Admiral Corp., Anaconda Copper, Eastman Kodak, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Cities Service, and Pan American World Airways.

Parkway Project Funds Requested By Dept. Of Interior

First 5 Miles Slated To Start In Cumberland

Westernport-McCoole Road Survey Finished

The C & O Canal Parkway moved a step closer to reality yesterday as the United States Department of Interior included in its budget funds for the first five miles of construction.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, in a conference with State Senator Robert B. Kimble, made the announcement and said the budget will go to the Secretary of Interior and then must be passed by Congress.

In announcing this progress on the much-publicized project, Senator Kimble also said he has been assured by Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, that work on State Route 135 between McCoole and Westernport should start in April.

First-Leg Section Included

A survey of this route has been finished, McCain told Kimble, and detailed plans are now being finished by engineers. It is expected bids will be asked for in the next 60 days and work can start as soon as weather is open.

It was Senator Kimble who urged that this roadway improvement project, a part of the 12-year road plan, be moved ahead and done in the first phase of the program.

Kimble said he conferred with McCain in Baltimore this week while attending a meeting of the Legislative Council. Progress is reported, Kimble said, on all phases of the huge roads program.

On the Canal project, Kimble said the first five miles beginning at the Cumberland end is included in this first budget request.

Funds On Hand

The agreement between the federal government and the State of Maryland is that the Department of the Interior would pay for the cost of constructing the parkway, and Maryland would purchase the additional right-of-way land along the canal.

McCain said the State Roads Commission has funds to take options on the land as soon as it is needed by the Department of Interior to go ahead with the project.

The McCoole-Westernport highway project will be about 4.84 miles long and cost an estimated $800,000 to complete. The road is one of the access highways to Garrett County and the Deep Creek Lake resort area, and has been termed a dangerous thoroughfare because of its narrowness and high accident record.

BusySchedule Faces Labor Group Today

Grogan And Thomas Will Give Addresses

Speeches by nationally known labor leaders and action on a number of resolutions is scheduled today as the 15th annual convention of the Maryland Industrial Union Council goes into its second day.

Some 50 resolutions are still being considered by the Resolutions Committee, and informed sources said several of the subjects may be debated from the floor of the convention.

Banquet Is Planned

Speakers will include John Grogan, international president of the CIO shipbuilders Union; John Edelman, legislative representative of the Textile Workers Union of America, and R. J. Thomas, assistant CIO organizational director.

Senate Minority Leader Robert B. Kimble of Cumberland, will be a speaker at the annual banquet and dance which will get underway tonight at 6:30 o'clock at Bowmans Addition Fire Hall.

Reservations for the turkey or sea food dinner were near the 200 mark yesterday afternoon.

Will Show Vote

Slated this afternoon is a PAC session which will include slides showing how Maryland legislators voted on 16 issues considered vital by the CIO.

Edward Lashman, a member of the staff of the CIO News, will speak on a CIO sponsored radio program and the CIO educational and publicity service.

The last session is to be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m., with election of officers the first order of business. Officials said the convention will close immediately following the vote if the present schedule—which has been advancing like clock-work—continues.

Capper Advocates Support For Bricker Amendment

Walter C. Capper, former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, yesterday said he hopes the form of the proposed Bricker Amendment to the Federal Constitution will be changed when Congress reconvenes so it will "completely obliterate" from the Constitution the provision that treaties are the supreme law of the land.

WALTER C. CAPPER

Discusses Power

The Bricker Amendment is the name now given to Senate Joint Resolution No. 1 introduced in the 83rd Congress by Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio and 63 other Senators, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relative to the making of treaties and executive agreements.

Briefly, Section 1 of the amendment provides:

"A provision of the treaty which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect." Section 5 states that the amendment shall not be operative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission.

No Court Recourse

Capper then noted that under present procedure in making treaties, a treaty is made by the President and ratified by the Senate, but there is no recourse to the courts. The power to make treaties is thus unrestrained.

The Kiwanis speaker said that since the Constitution was ratified September 17, 1787, the President and the State Department have adopted many treaties with foreign nations. It was not until 1918 that any of these treaties ever attempted to interfere with the sovereign rights of the states.

The former judge then pointed out that it was in the relatively minor matter of the states' rights over migratory birds that the states were first deprived of their rights. In this case the United States Supreme Court decided that under the Migratory Bird Treaty the State of Missouri had lost control of migratory birds and the same became vested in the Federal government.

"If treaties can thus completely obliterate the vested rights of the states and transfer the same to the Federal government, how can it be said by opponents of the Bricker Amendment that the law is well settled that the Constitution is supreme over treaties?" Capper asked.

Finally, the speaker told the Kiwanians that once the Bricker Amendment is adopted by the Senate it will be referred to the states for ratification.

"We can all be helpful by expressing our views among our fellow citizens in favor of this amendment. When it is presented to the Maryland State Legislature for action, we can all express our opinion to the members of the General Assembly from this county and assist in creating a public sentiment that will cause the overwhelming adoption of the amendment by both branches of the legislature of this state," he concluded.

West Virginia Deer Kill For 3 Days 17,891

Two Hunters Die In Shooting Accidents

West Virginia hunters brought down 17,891 deer during the three-day hunting season ended Wednesday.

Conservation officials called that figure "semi-official" but added that the official figure, which would be available within a week, probably would be about the same.

The total is a slight increase over the kill of 17,140 reported last year, but falls considerably short of the 20,000 which department officials predicted would be killed this year.

This was the third year in which deer of both sexes were fair game.

Record In 1951

In 1951, when clear weather prevailed, 21,971 deer were killed. Fog and wet weather last year reduced the figure.

Conservation spokesmen said snow in the mountains and other factors apparently prevented hunters from going deep into the woods this year.

"The deer were there," one department spokesman said.

Two hunters died this year in the woods from accidental gunshot wounds. Three other hunters died from heart attacks while in the woods.

6040 In Panhandle

Grant County had the highest number of kills, according to Clay Messinger, district conservation officer at Romney whose jurisdiction covers Grant, Berkeley, Morgan, Hardy, Hampshire, Mineral and Pendleton counties.

Hunters in Grant checked in 501 kills Monday, 554 Tuesday and 693 Wednesday for a total of 1,748.

Hardy Takes Second

Hardy County was second best hunting grounds for the "white tails" with a total of 1,475 killed. On Monday 308 were checked; Tuesday, 412, and Wednesday 654.

Mineral County went over the 1,000 mark with 346 on Monday, 280 Tuesday and 405 Wednesday for a total of 1,032.

In Hampshire County 969 deer were killed, Messinger reported. There were 233 checked in on Monday, 268 Tuesday and 468 Wednesday.

Hunters in Pendleton County bagged 153 on Monday, 181 Tuesday and 264 Wednesday.

210 For Morgan

In Morgan County the total was 210, with 57 on Monday, 74 Tuesday and 79 Wednesday. In Berkeley County the kill amounted to 110, with 60 Monday, 27 Tuesday and 23 Wednesday.

The three-day open season saw thousands of hunters taking to the mountainous sections of this nearby part of West Virginia.

Cresaptown Cub Pack Will Meet Tonight

The regular monthly meeting of Pack 9, Cresaptown Cub Scouts, will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Cresaptown Methodist Church.

The theme, according to William Riley, assistant cubmaster, will be, "Harvest Fair." Games of skill, guessing contests, and a Dad and Son bake sale will be the feature attraction. Advancement and Arrow Point awards will also be given to several of the Cubs. Booths have been set up and gaily decorated by the Cub Scouts under the direction of their den mothers and assisted by their parents. Refreshments will be served, and all parents, friends and relatives are invited.

CIO Officials Welcomed

Deer Hunters Who Block Roads Will Get Courtesy Tags

Hunters who begin flocking into Western Maryland woods with the opening of deer season come sunup Monday will be asked to leave their cars where they won't block safety trails.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said hunters frequently park where they will be in the way if foresters suddenly have need of a trail—in fighting a forest fire, for instance.

Foresters at Green Ridge State Forest, where most of the hunters congregate, will hang "courtesy tags" on improperly parked cars. The cards read:

"Please do not block roads, log roads, trails, etc. In case of forest fire, it may become necessary to use these roads. Thank you!"

161 Persons Are Employed In November

Of the 302 persons referred to jobs by the Cumberland office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, 161 were placed in employment during November, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

Kenney said this figure was an increase of 11 over October's placements which totaled 150. Reason for the increase, he pointed out, was due to the seasonal upswing in retail sales employment here.

In addition to the local job placements, the local agency also placed 10 other persons in jobs outside of this area.

Kenney said the active file of unemployed persons seeking jobs at the agency increased 720 over the previous month. In November the file totaled 3,426.

November is the fifth straight month that the active file has increased, Kenney added. It has jumped about 100 per cent over last July when 1,789 persons were registered.

Last month the Employment Service staff visited 63 employers in an effort to obtain lists of job openings for the unemployed. The agency also administered 13 aptitude tests and four proficiency clerical tests.

Kenney pointed out that no substantial increase in employment or production is expected here until local industries recall employes on furlough and until construction projects begin in the spring.

He said employment is expected to increase considerably in the spring when area road projects get underway and other construction work begins.

Mayor, Council Named In $5,000 Damage Suit

The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland were named defendants in a $5,000 suit filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Lewis E. Tyree, trading as Tyree's Refrigeration Service, 39 Henderson Avenue.

In his declaration, filed by Attorney William J. Gunter, Tyree contends that his merchandise and equipment was damaged August 5 when a water pipe line at the intersection of Baltimore Avenue and Decatur Street burst and the basement in his place of business was flooded.

A second count in the declaration states that in the event of a break in a water line it is the duty of the city officials to shut off the flow of water from the break without delay.

Finally, Tyree notes that within 30 days after the water main break he gave the Mayor and City Council written notice of his claim for damages.

4-H Leaders Will Study Recreation

A training meeting for 4-H Club leaders of Allegany and Garrett counties will be conducted in the Frostburg State Teachers College gymnasium beginning at 10 a. m. Saturday, December 19.

The University of Maryland has made arrangements for Mrs. Irene Ansel, former extension recreation specialist of West Virginia, to conduct the meeting.

Miss Joanne W. Reitz, home demonstration agent, and Joseph M. Steger, assistant county agent, want to receive reservations for the meeting not later than December 10.

Church To Mark Anniversary

The First Baptist Church will mark its fifth anniversary on Sunday of its pastor, Rev. O. Afton Linger.

One of the highlights of the occasion will be "open house" at the parsonage, 523 Bedford Street. Rev. and Mrs. Linger request the presence of each member and friend of the church.

In conjunction with the anniversary, a supper will be held today at 6 p. m. and each member is asked to bring a covered dish. A special program has been arranged by the Church Council.

On Sunday the anniversary activities include: high attendance day in Sunday School, 9:30 a. m.; special worship services, 11 a. m.; high attendance day in Training Union, 6:30 p. m. and at 7:30 p. m. a sermon by James D. Hall, student-pastor of Bowman's Addition and Bedford Road Missions.

CIO Unions Urged To Aid Israel Drive

The request was made by Henry Goldstein, executive director of the Histadrut Campaign Drive for Israel, in a speech before the 15th Maryland Industrial Union Council convention here yesterday.

Goldstein said funds contributed by Maryland CIO unions would be matched by Histadrut in the United States and all U. S. aid matched by the organization in Israel.

He brought the greetings of the Israel Federation of Workers, which represent over 500,000 members—three of four workers in that country.

The federation, he said, provides schools, vocational training and hospital and medical services for its members and for families of members of the Armed Forces.

In his brief speech, he also urged the continuation of the Point Four program for underprivileged nations of the world.

Allegheny Line Commences New Forecast Aid

"Allegheny Airlines has developed a new service enabling passengers to obtain forecast information on the company's scheduled flights," according to Leslie O. Barnes, president.

"Although Allegheny Airlines has operated 97 percent of its scheduled flights during the current year," Barnes stated, "it is recognized that winter conditions result in occasional delays and cancellations."

"In order to meet these situations and reduce passenger inconvenience to a minimum," Barnes explained, "Allegheny has set up the following procedures:

1. Two hours prior to the departure of aircraft from originating terminals, each station on the route will receive an 'operations forecast' advising of any known variation from schedule.

2. When forecasts indicate variation from schedule, the company will make every effort to contact and advise passengers of the forecast prior to their departure from home, office, or hotel for the airport. Under the forecast program, persons planning to meet incoming passengers at the airport will also be able to obtain up-to-the-minute information."

Officials of Allegheny expect the new forecast program to go a long way toward eliminating uncertainty, particularly during the winter months.

Farmers To Discuss Conservation Plans

Allegany County farmers will attend a county-wide educational meeting at 1:30 p. m. today in the Cumberland Free Public Library to discuss the 1954 Agricultural Conservation Program.

Farmers must apply for assistance in carrying out any of the 13 practices on or before December 31.

Speakers at today's session will include Kenneth M. Stone and Martin M. Gordon of the Soil Conservation Service, the three members of the County Agricultural and Stabilization Committee, Albert O'Neal, James H. Weimer and Joseph W. Silver; County Agent R. F. McHenry and Assistant District Forester Harry Hartman.

Library Display Shows Christmas Seals From 1912

Also shown in the exhibit is a snow-covered village. With it was this message:

"Christmas Seals can help provide healthful and happy communities, healthful and happy families, healthful and happy individuals."

Another card states that in Allegany County, Christmas Seals have not only aided in the fight against tuberculosis but also in providing better health conditions and health laws. The display was prepared by the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association.

Car Crash Injures Two

Three Cumberland youths were injured last night when their car ran off the Old Furnace Road south of Ridgeley, W. Va., and upset.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital were Harvey Knepp, 22, of Bowman's Addition, listed as the driver, and Eugene Paul Swick, also 22, of 113 Blaul Avenue. Swick's brother, William M., 18, was treated but did not require hospitalization.

Knepp complained of pains in his abdomen and chest, and was in fair condition with possible internal injuries. Eugene Swick was also in fair condition with severe multiple lacertions of the face and scalp.

Cpl. F. H. Tribbett of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser was investigating late last night. Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator at LaVale Barracks, investigated for Maryland State Police.

Man Asks Trial For Forgery

Roy Edward Rhodes of College Park, who has been lodged in the County Jail here since November 12, yesterday filed a petition for an immediate trial in Allegany County Circuit Court on a forgery charge.

The College Park man was arrested after telephoning the State's Attorney's Office here and reporting he had forged five checks in Cumberland.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said that Rhodes told him that when he was discharged by the Shields Trailer Sales in College Park he took with him a book of blank checks bearing the name of his former employer. He forged the name of his former employer in cashing checks at various business establishments here in October.

Rhodes is represented by Attorney Edwin M. Horchler.

Johnson Hts. School Addition Planned

Preliminary plans on a proposed four-room addition to Johnson Heights Elementary School were submitted to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster yesterday.

The plans were submitted by Dana Johannes of the Silver Spring architectural firm of Johannes and Murray.

Johannes would add two classrooms on each floor and would extend the corridor on the wing of the school nearest South Cumberland. The classrooms probably will be planned for use by first and second grade pupils.

Convention Speaker Hits Soviet Buildup

Brophy Calls For Labor To Urge Active Campaign Toward Peace

"The means of making war are piling up and the Soviet Union has no idea of marking time," John Brophy, national CIO representative on national affairs, warned delegates at the annual Maryland CIO conclave here yesterday.

In a stirring talk, in which he called for new emphasis on the "Point Four program," Brophy said the CIO is trying to alert this nation to the danger imposed by by the Soviet buildup of heavy industry and the coming drive to increase consumer goods.

Despite warnings of the entire American labor movement, Brophy declared, "there is a marked letdown in Point Four aid under the present Eisenhower Administration." He said labor, and all freedom-loving groups and peace-determined people in this country must strongly support measures which will help develop underprivileged nations of the world.

Says Unions Needed

Terming Point Four aid the "cheapest way to win friends" among the half of the world's population now in the underprivileged class, he urged the extension of the program which will help nations to come to grips with poverty.

Part of the CIO's job, he said, is to help build free trade unions in the "underprivileged" countries, a job now being undertaken by the CIO Free World Labor Fund.

He urged the delegates to call upon all local unions to contribute to the fund which will help organize the unorganized in the Middle East, Latin America, Africa and Southeast Asia.

Estes Is Speaker

John Estes, Cumberland, a member of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, and labor member of the Maryland Employment Board, brought the greetings of Daniel E. Kline, chairman.

Ralph C. Beard, of Cumberland, he said, ably represents Western Maryland on the Advisory Council of the board. Beard is also the Western Maryland vice president of the State CIO Council.

Estes outlined the work of the agency and pledged that labor will always be informed of the plans of the agency.

Two Girls Hit By Automobiles

No Charges Filed In Either Mishap

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital about noon was Sally Myers, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Myers, 514 North Mechanic Street.

She suffered injuries to the left side and right leg, abrasions of the face and a contusion of the left eye. She was reported as darting into the path of an auto driven by Oscar R. Berry, 800 Sylvan Avenue, who was traveling south on Mechanic Street.

The mishap occurred about noon and the child was taken to the hospital by Mrs. Herman Bowman, 500 North Mechanic Street, who was in a nearby store at the time of the accident.

Investigating the accident was Officer William E. Valentine who said no charges were preferred against Berry.

The driver, Claire Flora, 53, of 321 Maryland Avenue, told police the child darted in front of his car as he was driving north toward Cumberland on U. S. 220 at 4:25 p. m.

The accident happened at the intersection of U. S. 220 and State Route 53 as the child was crossing the federal route. Flora took the girl to the hospital.

State Police Trooper J. F. Lewis, who investigated, said no charges were filed.

RC Bloodmobile To Visit County December 7, 8

Need Many Donors For 300-Pint Goal

The bloodmobile unit from Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Red Cross Headquarters will visit the county again Monday and Tuesday, and blood donors are urgently needed.

The unit will be at the FOE Home on North Mechanic Street from 12 noon to 6 p. m. Monday, and then will move to the American Legion Home in Frostburg for the same hours on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary for Allegany County Chapter of Red Cross, said the quota for the two days is 300 productive pints and over 200 donors must be scheduled for each day in order to meet the December goal.

Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, recruitment chairman here, urges all donors to keep their appointments, and "walk-ins" will be welcomed during both days.

Mrs. Witherup added this month's visit affords residents the opportunity to give a Christmas gift to those who really need assistance in the form of blood.

Through the efforts of U. S. blood donors, Mrs. Witherup said, it has been possible to meet daily blood needs in Korea, and has enabled this country to begin building a plasma reserve for the military.

At the same time this country faces additional blood needs. Thousands of wounded men in military hospitals are still fighting for a chance to live, and other thousands in civilian hospitals require blood also. In addition to these needs, there must be blood plasma "in the bank" as an insurance against a national emergency.

That is why, Mrs. Witherup added, the program has been broadened into the National Blood Donor Program, a continuing comprehensive project to supply the total blood needs of this country, civilian and military, current and reserve.

Young Man Faces Second Charge Involving Morals

Russell F. Miller of Westernport, who was sentenced September 1 to a term not to exceed one year in the State Reformatory, is free under bond while awaiting a second trial in Allegany County Circuit Court on a charge of carnal knowledge of a girl between the ages of 14 and 16 years.

Miller and seven other Tri-Towns young men pleaded guilty September 1 before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in a carnal knowledge case involving a 14-year-old Lonaconing girl. This allegedly occurred June 10.

While confined in the Reformatory at Breathedsville with the other young men, Miller was indicted by the October grand jury on a second carnal knowledge charge. This allegedly occurred July 7.

Subsequently Judge Harris reduced the sentence against the eight young men on November 6 to terms not exceeding 85 days in the reformatory. Miller was arrested Wednesday and after having been confined in the County Jail overnight was freed on bond yesterday.

The Weather

Although the sun was shining brightly again yesterday the temperatures were a bit chilly during the afternoon. Forecast for today is cloudy and mild with occasional rain promised in the west portion spreading to the east portion this afternoon or evening. The high temperature recorded yesterday at Constitution Park was 55 and the low was 20 degrees. The mercury registered about 42 degrees at 8 p. m. and humidity at 6 p. m. was 51 per cent.

American Viscose lost ¾ at 36¾ after directors took no action of a year-end extra dividend.

Parkway Project Funds Requested By Dept. Of Interior

First 5 Miles Slated To Start In Cumberland

Westernport-McCoole Road Survey Finished

The C & O Canal Parkway moved a step closer to reality yesterday as the United States Department of Interior included in its budget funds for the first five miles of construction.

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, in a conference with State Senator Robert B. Kimble, made the announcement and said the budget will go to the Secretary of Interior and then must be passed by Congress.

In announcing this progress on the much-publicized project, Senator Kimble also said he has been assured by Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, that work on State Route 135 between McCoole and Westernport should start in April.

First-Leg Section Included

A survey of this route has been finished, McCain told Kimble, and detailed plans are now being finished by engineers. It is expected bids will be asked for in the next 60 days and work can start as soon as weather is open.

It was Senator Kimble who urged that this roadway improvement project, a part of the 12-year road plan, be moved ahead and done in the first phase of the program.

Kimble said he conferred with McCain in Baltimore this week while attending a meeting of the Legislative Council. Progress is reported, Kimble said, on all phases of the huge roads program.

On the Canal project, Kimble said the first five miles beginning at the Cumberland end is included in this first budget request.

Funds On Hand

The agreement between the federal government and the State of Maryland is that the Department of the Interior would pay for the cost of constructing the parkway, and Maryland would purchase the additional right-of-way land along the canal.

McCain said the State Roads Commission has funds to take options on the land as soon as it is needed by the Department of Interior to go ahead with the project.

The McCoole-Westernport highway project will be about 4.84 miles long and cost an estimated $800,000 to complete. The road is one of the access highways to Garrett County and the Deep Creek Lake resort area, and has been termed a dangerous thoroughfare because of its narrowness and high accident record.

Capper Advocates Support For Bricker Amendment

Walter C. Capper, former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit, yesterday said he hopes the form of the proposed Bricker Amendment to the Federal Constitution will be changed when Congress reconvenes so it will "completely obliterate" from the Constitution the provision that treaties are the supreme law of the land.

WALTER C. CAPPER

Capper spoke at the luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at Central YMCA.

Discusses Power

In the course of his remarks, Capper discussed in some detail the history of the treaty-making power of the Federal government.

The Bricker Amendment is the name now given to Senate Joint Resolution No. 1 introduced in the 83rd Congress by Senator John W. Bricker of Ohio and 63 other Senators, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States relative to the making of treaties and executive agreements.

Briefly, Section 1 of the amendment provides:

"A provision of the treaty which conflicts with this Constitution shall not be of any force or effect." Section 5 states that the amendment shall not be operative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states within seven years from the date of its submission.

No Court Recourse

Capper then noted that under present procedure in making treaties, a treaty is made by the President and ratified by the Senate, but there is no recourse to the courts. The power to make treaties is thus unrestrained.

The Kiwanis speaker said that since the Constitution was ratified September 17, 1787, the President and the State Department have adopted many treaties with foreign nations. It was not until 1918 that any of these treaties ever attempted to interfere with the sovereign rights of the states.

The former judge then pointed out that it was in the relatively minor matter of the states' rights over migratory birds that the states were first deprived of their rights. In this case the United States Supreme Court decided that under the Migratory Bird Treaty the State of Missouri had lost control of migratory birds and the same became vested in the Federal government.

"If treaties can thus completely obliterate the vested rights of the states and transfer the same to the Federal government, how can it be said by opponents of the Bricker Amendment that the law is well settled that the Constitution is supreme over treaties?" Capper asked.

Finally, the speaker told the Kiwanians that once the Bricker Amendment is adopted by the Senate it will be referred to the states for ratification.

"We can all be helpful by expressing our views among our fellow citizens in favor of this amendment. When it is presented to the Maryland State Legislature for action, we can all express our opinion to the members of the General Assembly from this county and assist in creating a public sentiment that will cause the overwhelming adoption of the amendment by both branches of the legislature of this state," he concluded.

West Virginia Deer Kill For 3 Days 17,891

Two Hunters Die In Shooting Accidents

West Virginia hunters brought down 17,891 deer during the three-day hunting season ended Wednesday.

Conservation officials called that figure "semi-official" but added that the official figure, which would be available within a week, probably would be about the same.

The total is a slight increase over the kill of 17,140 reported last year, but falls considerably short of the 20,000 which department officials predicted would be killed this year.

This was the third year in which deer of both sexes were fair game.

Record In 1951

In 1951, when clear weather prevailed, 21,971 deer were killed. Fog and wet weather last year reduced the figure.

Conservation spokesmen said snow in the mountains and other factors apparently prevented hunters from going deep into the woods this year.

"The deer were there," one department spokesman said.

Two hunters died this year in the woods from accidental gunshot wounds. Three other hunters died from heart attacks while in the woods.

6040 In Panhandle

A total of 6,040 deer were killed in the nearby Eastern Panhandle during the three-day open season.

Grant County had the highest number of kills, according to Clay Messinger, district conservation officer at Romney whose jurisdiction covers Grant, Berkeley, Morgan, Hardy, Hampshire, Mineral and Pendleton counties.

Hunters in Grant checked in 501 kills Monday, 554 Tuesday and 693 Wednesday for a total of 1,748.

Hardy Takes Second

Hardy County was second best hunting grounds for the "white tails" with a total of 1,475 killed. On Monday 308 were checked; Tuesday, 412, and Wednesday 654.

Mineral County went over the 1,000 mark with 346 on Monday, 280 Tuesday and 405 Wednesday for a total of 1,032.

In Hampshire County 969 deer were killed, Messinger reported. There were 233 checked in on Monday, 268 Tuesday and 468 Wednesday.

Hunters in Pendleton County bagged 153 on Monday, 181 Tuesday and 264 Wednesday.

210 For Morgan

In Morgan County the total was 210, with 57 on Monday, 74 Tuesday and 79 Wednesday. In Berkeley County the kill amounted to 110, with 60 Monday, 27 Tuesday and 23 Wednesday.

The Tucker County deer kill figure totalled 1,228. Final reports are not all in. The Randolph County total was 1,725, conservation officers reported.

The three-day open season saw thousands of hunters taking to the mountainous sections of this nearby part of West Virginia.

Cresaptown Cub Pack Will Meet Tonight

The regular monthly meeting of Pack 9, Cresaptown Cub Scouts, will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the basement of the Cresaptown Methodist Church.

The theme, according to William Riley, assistant cubmaster, will be, "Harvest Fair." Games of skill, guessing contests, and a Dad and Son bake sale will be the feature attraction. Advancement and Arrow Point awards will also be given to several of the Cubs. Booths have been set up and gaily decorated by the Cub Scouts under the direction of their den mothers and assisted by their parents. Refreshments will be served, and all parents, friends and relatives are invited.

Beard of Cumberland, vice president of the state CIO group; Mayor Roy W. Eves, Audrey R. Smid of Baltimore, state president, and Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Deer Hunters Who Block Roads Will Get Courtesy Tags

Hunters who begin flocking into Western Maryland woods with the opening of deer season come sunup Monday will be asked to leave their cars where they won't block safety trails.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said hunters frequently park where they will be in the way if foresters suddenly have need of a trail—in fighting a forest fire, for instance.

Foresters at Green Ridge State Forest, where most of the hunters congregate, will hang "courtesy tags" on improperly parked cars. The cards read:

"Please do not block roads, log roads, trails, etc. In case of forest fire, it may become necessary to use these roads. Thank you!"

161 Persons Are Employed In November

Of the 302 persons referred to jobs by the Cumberland office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security, 161 were placed in employment during November, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

Kenney said this figure was an increase of 11 over October's placements which totaled 150. Reason for the increase, he pointed out, was due to the seasonal upswing in retail sales employment here.

In addition to the local job placements, the local agency also placed 10 other persons in jobs outside of this area.

Kenney said the active file of unemployed persons seeking jobs at the agency increased 720 over the previous month. In November the file totaled 3,426.

November is the fifth straight month that the active file has increased, Kenney added. It has jumped about 100 per cent over last July when 1,789 persons were registered.

Last month the Employment Service staff visited 63 employers in an effort to obtain lists of job openings for the unemployed. The agency also administered 13 aptitude tests and four proficiency clerical tests.

Kenney pointed out that no substantial increase in employment or production is expected here until local industries recall employes on furlough and until construction projects begin in the spring.

He said employment is expected to increase considerably in the spring when area road projects get underway and other construction work begins.

Mayor, Council Named In $5,000 Damage Suit

The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland were named defendants in a $5,000 suit filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Lewis E. Tyree, trading as Tyree's Refrigeration Service, 39 Henderson Avenue.

In his declaration, filed by Attorney William J. Gunter, Tyree contends that his merchandise and equipment was damaged August 5 when a water pipe line at the intersection of Baltimore Avenue and Decatur Street burst and the basement in his place of business was flooded.

A second count in the declaration states that in the event of a break in a water line it is the duty of the city officials to shut off the flow of water from the break without delay.

Finally, Tyree notes that within 30 days after the water main break he gave the Mayor and City Council written notice of his claim for damages.

CIO Unions Urged To Aid Israel Drive

Maryland CIO unions were asked yesterday to sponsor a cultural center in one of the villages of Israel.

The request was made by Henry Goldstein, executive director of the Histadrut Campaign Drive for Israel, in a speech before the 15th Maryland Industrial Union Council convention here yesterday.

Goldstein said funds contributed by Maryland CIO unions would be matched by Histadrut in the United States and all U. S. aid matched by the organization in Israel.

He brought the greetings of the Israel Federation of Workers, which represent over 500,000 members—three of four workers in that country.

The federation, he said, provides schools, vocational training and hospital and medical services for its members and for families of members of the Armed Forces.

In his brief speech, he also urged the continuation of the Point Four program for underprivileged nations of the world.

Allegheny Line Commences New Forecast Aid

"Allegheny Airlines has developed a new service enabling passengers to obtain forecast information on the company's scheduled flights," according to Leslie O. Barnes, president.

"Although Allegheny Airlines has operated 97 percent of its scheduled flights during the current year," Barnes stated, "it is recognized that winter conditions result in occasional delays and cancellations."

"In order to meet these situations and reduce passenger inconvenience to a minimum," Barnes explained, "Allegheny has set up the following procedures:

1. Two hours prior to the departure of aircraft from originating terminals, each station on the route will receive an 'operations forecast' advising of any known variation from schedule.

2. When forecasts indicate variation from schedule, the company will make every effort to contact and advise passengers of the forecast prior to their departure from home, office, or hotel for the airport. Under the forecast program, persons planning to meet incoming passengers at the airport will also be able to obtain up-to-the-minute information."

Officials of Allegheny expect the new forecast program to go a long way toward eliminating uncertainty, particularly during the winter months.

Also shown in the exhibit is a snow-covered village. With it was this message:

"Christmas Seals can help provide healthful and happy communities, healthful and happy families, healthful and happy individuals."

Another card states that in Allegany County, Christmas Seals have not only aided in the fight against tuberculosis but also in providing better health conditions and health laws. The display was prepared by the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association.

Car Crash Injures Two

Three Cumberland youths were injured last night when their car ran off the Old Furnace Road south of Ridgeley, W. Va., and upset.

Admitted to Memorial Hospital were Harvey Knepp, 22, of Bowman's Addition, listed as the driver, and Eugene Paul Swick, also 22, of 113 Blaul Avenue. Swick's brother, William M., 18, was treated but did not require hospitalization.

Knepp complained of pains in his abdomen and chest, and was in fair condition with possible internal injuries. Eugene Swick was also in fair condition with severe multiple lacertions of the face and scalp.

Cpl. F. H. Tribbett of the West Virginia State Police at Keyser was investigating late last night. Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator at LaVale Barracks, investigated for Maryland State Police.

Man Asks Trial For Forgery

Roy Edward Rhodes of College Park, who has been lodged in the County Jail here since November 12, yesterday filed a petition for an immediate trial in Allegany County Circuit Court on a forgery charge.

The College Park man was arrested after telephoning the State's Attorney's Office here and reporting he had forged five checks in Cumberland.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said that Rhodes told him that when he was discharged by the Shields Trailer Sales in College Park he took with him a book of blank checks bearing the name of his former employer. He forged the name of his former employer in cashing checks at various business establishments here in October.

Rhodes is represented by Attorney Edwin M. Horchler.

Convention Speaker Hits Soviet Buildup

Brophy Calls For Labor To Urge Active Campaign Toward Peace

"The means of making war are piling up and the Soviet Union has no idea of marking time," John Brophy, national CIO representative on national affairs, warned delegates at the annual Maryland CIO conclave here yesterday.

In a stirring talk, in which he called for new emphasis on the "Point Four program," Brophy said the CIO is trying to alert this nation to the danger imposed by by the Soviet buildup of heavy industry and the coming drive to increase consumer goods.

Despite warnings of the entire American labor movement, Brophy declared, "there is a marked letdown in Point Four aid under the present Eisenhower Administration." He said labor, and all freedom-loving groups and peace-determined people in this country must strongly support measures which will help develop underprivileged nations of the world.

Says Unions Needed

Terming Point Four aid the "cheapest way to win friends" among the half of the world's population now in the underprivileged class, he urged the extension of the program which will help nations to come to grips with poverty.

Part of the CIO's job, he said, is to help build free trade unions in the "underprivileged" countries, a job now being undertaken by the CIO Free World Labor Fund.

He urged the delegates to call upon all local unions to contribute to the fund which will help organize the unorganized in the Middle East, Latin America, Africa and Southeast Asia.

Estes Is Speaker

John Estes, Cumberland, a member of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, and labor member of the Maryland Employment Board, brought the greetings of Daniel E. Kline, chairman.

Estes outlined the work of the agency and pledged that labor will always be informed of the plans of the agency.

Two girls were hospitalized yesterday from injuries sustained when they darted into the path of autos in separate mishaps.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital about noon was Sally Myers, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd H. Myers, 514 North Mechanic Street.

She suffered injuries to the left side and right leg, abrasions of the face and a contusion of the left eye. She was reported as darting into the path of an auto driven by Oscar R. Berry, 800 Sylvan Avenue, who was traveling south on Mechanic Street.

The mishap occurred about noon and the child was taken to the hospital by Mrs. Herman Bowman, 500 North Mechanic Street, who was in a nearby store at the time of the accident.

Investigating the accident was Officer William E. Valentine who said no charges were preferred against Berry.

A two-year-old Cresaptown girl was hospitalized after she was struck by a car near her home.

Barbara May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert May, Cresaptown, was in "good" condition last night at Memorial Hospital with a fractured left arm and bruises of the body and face.

The driver, Claire Flora, 53, of 321 Maryland Avenue, told police the child darted in front of his car as he was driving north toward Cumberland on U. S. 220 at 4:25 p. m.

RC Bloodmobile To Visit County December 7, 8

Need Many Donors For 300-Pint Goal

The bloodmobile unit from Johnstown (Pa.) Regional Red Cross Headquarters will visit the county again Monday and Tuesday, and blood donors are urgently needed.

The unit will be at the FOE Home on North Mechanic Street from 12 noon to 6 p. m. Monday, and then will move to the American Legion Home in Frostburg for the same hours on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lee W. Witherup, executive secretary for Allegany County Chapter of Red Cross, said the quota for the two days is 300 productive pints and over 200 donors must be scheduled for each day in order to meet the December goal.

Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, recruitment chairman here, urges all donors to keep their appointments, and "walk-ins" will be welcomed during both days.

Mrs. Witherup added this month's visit affords residents the opportunity to give a Christmas gift to those who really need assistance in the form of blood.

Through the efforts of U. S. blood donors, Mrs. Witherup said, it has been possible to meet daily blood needs in Korea, and has enabled this country to begin building a plasma reserve for the military.

At the same time this country faces additional blood needs. Thousands of wounded men in military hospitals are still fighting for a chance to live, and other thousands in civilian hospitals require blood also. In addition to these needs, there must be blood plasma "in the bank" as an insurance against a national emergency.

That is why, Mrs. Witherup added, the program has been broadened into the National Blood Donor Program, a continuing comprehensive project to supply the total blood needs of this country, civilian and military, current and reserve.

Young Man Faces Second Charge Involving Morals

Russell F. Miller of Westernport, who was sentenced September 1 to a term not to exceed one year in the State Reformatory, is free under bond while awaiting a second trial in Allegany County Circuit Court on a charge of carnal knowledge of a girl between the ages of 14 and 16 years.

Miller and seven other Tri-Towns young men pleaded guilty September 1 before Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in a carnal knowledge case involving a 14-year-old Lonaconing girl. This allegedly occurred June 10.

While confined in the Reformatory at Breathedsville with the other young men, Miller was indicted by the October grand jury on a second carnal knowledge charge. This allegedly occurred July 7.

Subsequently Judge Harris reduced the sentence against the eight young men on November 6 to terms not exceeding 85 days in the reformatory. Miller was arrested Wednesday and after having been confined in the County Jail overnight was freed on bond yesterday.
